APPEAL FROM OUR FRONT FOR AIRPLANES; GERMANS ARE MASTERS OF THE AIR THERE; FIRST SHIPMENT OF BATTLEPLANES ON WAY

FOE COME AND GO AT WILL

ABOVE THE REACH OF GUNS

OFFICERS REALIZE NEED

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Feb. 20, (Associated Press.)—Control of the air in the American sector belongs to the enemy. Any officer at the front will make this declaration; all have made it. The control is obvious. German airplanes come and go over the American lines almost at will.

Every time the Germans come over their path through the sky is followed by fleecy shrapnel puffs, but the chances of hitting an airplane with anti-aircraft shells is so remote that the enemy aviators calmly fly along, as if on a pleasure tour.

Every now and then airplanes on this side attack the enemy. They always do this when they get a chance. But the boche is clever while flying, and manages to come over and take pictures, make observations, and do virtually whatever else he desires, and then calmly sail home without interruption. Nearly always he is at an altitude of about 3,000 metres, where he is comparatively safe from anti-aircraft fire, and knows it.

It is not permitted to name any officers of the American Expeditionary force. It is not permitted to quote them. If both were permitted, it would be possible to carry quotations from virtually every officer at the front, urging a speedy appearance of large numbers of American airplanes with American pilots. There is only one way to wrest control of the air from the enemy—that is to fight him for it in the sky and to relieve him of it by force of overwhelming numbers.

Right now, if the Germans knew that American airplanes were waiting for them every time they came over the line their trips would be less frequent. Neither would they dare to attempt such a bold piece of work as when they recently flew over the line in an airplane disguised with the allied red, white and blue bull's-eye marking and cut loose with a machine gun on American soldiers in the trenches.

If there had been American planes nearby the chances of the Germans getting back home after such a trick would be small. And it is extremely doubtful, officers say, if they ever would have tried it.

Any officer also will say that the safety of individual soldiers depends upon keeping the enemy from doing as he pleases overhead. For days the Germans have been flying over some towns where American troops have been resting after periods in the trenches. Once or twice these daylight observation tours have been followed the same night by visits by enemy bombing planes.

So free and unrestricted are the German airmen that in some towns the commands are under strict orders to disappear under cover the moment a German airplane is sighted.

Moreover, officers say, more and more German airplanes are appearing in the sky, and in various quarters there is a growing belief that these are the first of the machines which the Germans have been building to offset the large number of expected American airplanes in accordance with plans announced in the United States.

Whether this belief is true or not, the fact remains that American troops are holding the sector and are endangered daily because there are no American airplanes with them. The question most asked from one end of the American front to the other is:

"When are some American planes coming here?"

Hurts Received in Action Are All Slight, Washington Announces.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. — Second Lieutenant John J. McNeely of Washington, D. C., and Private Irvin C. Stutton of Lansing, Mich., were reported today slightly wounded in action in France on Feb. 12.

Corporal Ellie L. Capley of Adria, Ga., and Privates Charles W. Durant of Sheridan, Wyo.; Frank Wolfe of Ashland, Wis., and Elmer Wise of Fairview, Wyo., were slightly wounded in action on Feb. 17.

General Pershing also reported today that Private Sidney A. South of Alexander, Penn., died yesterday of meningitis, and Private Andrew Reymer of McKeesport, Penn., was accidentally crushed to death on Sunday.

New German Raid Balked by Our Barrage; The Enemy Was Discovered Just in Time

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Feb. 20, (Associated Press.)—The Germans again attempted a raid against the American lines last night, but the raiders were discovered, and the artillery, responding to rocket signals, laid down a heavy barrage almost instantly. The Germans' path back to their line was marked by red lines.

Enemy planes flew over the entire position repeatedly today. One American machine, in a dash over an enemy trench, sprayed it with machine gun bullets.

The Germans have for several days been concentrating artillery opposite the American positions, and now have twice the number of guns as when the Americans took the sector. Between 800 and 1,000 shells are being fired daily at the American positions, when at first there were hardly 150.

American artillerymen continue their practice of sending the enemy at least two or three shells for one.

BATTLEPLANES NOW ON WAY TO FRONT

American-Made Aircraft Sent Nearly Five Months Ahead of Schedule Time.

SET NEW RECORDS IN TEST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary Baker announced tonight that the first American-built battle planes "are today en route to the front in France." They are equipped with Liberty motors of the improved twelve-cylinder type, which has been adopted as a substitute for the eight-cylinder engines because higher powered.

The Secretary pointed out that under the tentative program adopted last Spring the American planes were not due for delivery in France before July. Those already delivered are nearly five months ahead of the original schedule. Mr. Baker says that the production of engines for battle 'planes had now been in progress on a quantity basis for a month and that in a few weeks "the peak of production will be reached."

The great problem now, he pointed out, was to obtain the thousands of skilled mechanics, engine men, motor repair men, wood and metal workers, and other workmen necessary to keep the planes always in perfect condition. In a formal statement issued tonight Secretary Baker told of airplanes being on their way to France, and then went on:

"This first shipment, though in itself not large, marks the final overcoming of many difficulties met in building up this new and intricate industry.

"These planes are equipped with the first Liberty motor from machine production. One of them in a recent test surpassed all records for speed and climbing for planes of that type.

"Engine production, which began a month ago, is now on a quantity basis, and the peak of production will be reached in a few weeks. Only the twelve-cylinder type is being made, as developments abroad have made it wise to concentrate on the high-powered engine instead of the eight-cylinder.

"These statements should not be exaggerated, but should be considered in the light of the following facts: After three years of warfare the total number of planes able to take the air at any one time on either side of the western front has not been over 2,500. This, combined with the fact that forty-six men are required on the ground for every plane in the air, gives a truer perspective of the European aviation situation than commonly possessed.

"For every plane in the air there must be two replacement planes on the ground, and one training plane for every pilot who eventually reaches the front, with a spare engine for each plane. Moreover, while the American program has been delayed by difficulties which were impossible to foresee when the tentative program was adopted in all our lack of knowledge last Spring, it may be said that American planes are not due in France under the original schedule until July.

"At the outbreak of war, the first step, both in sequence and importance, was to build up an industry to rush out the training planes needed for the prospective aviators who were immediately on hand. This fresh and most promising personnel afforded indeed America's largest immediate source of aid to her associate nations in the war, which, while well able to turn out the latest type of airplanes, were seriously drained of men capable of manning them. The ultimate goal, however, was the construction of a large fleet of battle planes.

Serious Problems Solved.

"The serious problems, interwoven and reacting, were immediately met, the almost total lack both of airplane industry and of airplane engineering knowledge. The industry was rudimentary, with only one company on an appreciable production basis and an-

GOVERNMENT TAKES HUDSON TUNNELS

Those who follow the price movements of bonds noticed yesterday unusual strength in Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company's first refunding 5 per cent. bonds. Quotations for that issue moved up 11 points within a month, and nearly 13 points from the low figure of last year. The apex of the upward movement was reached Monday when the bonds changed hands at 61, compared with 50 on Jan. 14. Yesterday there was only one transaction and the price paid was 60. In an effort to determine the cause for the sudden rise in the price, it was learned that the Hudson & Manhattan had been taken over by the Government at the first of the year. This means that the Government guarantees the bonds during the period of the war. William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury and now Director General of Railroads, built the Hudson tubes which were called after him, and he was President of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company when President Wilson offered him a place in his Cabinet.

Surprise in Financial Circles.

News that the Government had taken over the McAdoo tubes elicited considerable surprise in financial circles, where attention was directed to the fact that no official announcement of the move had been made public. With the exception of the mails, the Hudson tubes do not carry any freight and the services of the line are restricted to the transportation of passengers.

President Wilson's proclamation, placing the railroads of the country under Government control, specifically excluded interurban lines, subways, &c., although it provided that at a subsequent date these lines might also be taken over by the Government. This part of the proclamation reads as follows:

> Nothing herein shall be construed as now affecting the possession, operation, and control of street electric passenger railways, including railways commonly called interurban, whether such railways be or be not owned or controlled by such railroad companies or systems. By subsequent order and proclamation, if and when it shall be found necessary or desirable, possession, control, or operation may be taken of all or any part of such street railway systems, including subways and tunnels, and by subsequent order and proclamation possession, control, and operation in whole or in part may also be relinquished to the owners thereof of any part of the railroad systems or rail and water systems, possession and control of which are hereby assumed.

Staten Island Line Also Taken Over.

Wilbur C. Fisk, President of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, when asked yesterday about the tubes being taken over by Director General McAdoo, said that he had received notice of the action on the second or third of January, and that he was now a Government employe and was obeying orders issued from Washington. He explained that the Hudson & Manhattan Company was engaged in interstate commerce and that the tubes were the terminals for the Pennsylvania and other roads which sell tickets direct through to Manhattan.

It was also learned yesterday that the Government had taken over the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company, which is a part of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad system.

Inquiries made at the office of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company elicited the information that Director General of Railroads McAdoo had not taken over the New York City subways.

BAKER CUTS RED TAPE IN WAR DEPARTMENT

Orders Direct Reference of Military Matters to the Division Handling Them.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Through the approval today of an order permitting the direct reference of military matters to the division handling them, Secretary Baker eliminated a large section of War Department red tape.

Heretofore all papers destined for the military officials had to pass through channels leading to the office of the Adjutant General. From there they were distributed to the staff departments. After a decision had been reached the papers in each case had to move back over the route they had come.

Week's Submarine Sinkings Down to 15, Four Ships Fewer Than Lost Last Week

LONDON, Feb. 20.—British merchantmen sunk by mine or submarine in the last week numbered fifteen, according to the Admiralty statement issued tonight.

Of these, twelve were of 1,600 tons or over, and three were under that tonnage. One fishing craft also was sunk.

The arrivals at ports in the United Kingdom for the week numbered 2,322, and the sailings 2,393. Eight vessels were unsuccessfully attacked.

The week's total shows a decrease of four vessels sunk, as compared with the previous week, when the number was thirteen of 1,600 tons, or more, and six below that tonnage. Three fishing craft also were lost.

ROME, Feb. 20.—Italian shipping losses during the week ending today were two steamships of more than 1,500 tons and one sailing vessel of more than 100 tons.

NEXT LIBERTY LOAN 4 1-2 PER CENT?

FIRST ISSUE DISAPPOINTS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary McAdoo announced tonight that the next issue of Treasury certificates in anticipation of the third Liberty Loan, as well as the subsequent issues, would bear an interest rate of 4½ per cent. This announcement is taken to indicate that the next Liberty Loan also will bear that rate.

Announcement was also made by Secretary McAdoo that the $500,000,000 block of certificates closed last week, which carried an interest rate of 4 per cent., was subscribed in full only because banks in New York and other big financial centres took more than their share and offset the scanty subscriptions from the rest of the country. About $2,500,000,000 in certificates remain to be issued at the higher rate before the third loan campaign probably in April, and the rate for all will be 4½ per cent.

This increase in the rate offers an indication of the Treasury's perspective on money market conditions which may affect the next Liberty Loan. The second Liberty Loan, issued at 4 per cent., was preceded by several issues of certificates at 3½ per cent., but this rate was increased to 4 per cent. for the last blocks before the second loan. A similar situation preceded the first loan, which was at 3½ per cent. In both cases the interest rate of the loan was the same as the rate on the last issue of certificates preceding.

Announcement of another issue of certificates, part of the $3,000,000,000 certificate program in which banks have been asked to participate by appropriating 1 per cent. of their total resources weekly for purchase of the certificates, is expected within another week. The last block was announced two weeks ago, and it was said then that others would be offered every two weeks.

Receipts from the last issue had swelled the net balance in the Treasury to $916,321,000 today. Disbursements recently have been about $40,000,000 a day.

The Official Statement.

Secretary McAdoo's announcement follows:

"The entire issue of $500,000,000 United States Treasury certificates of indebtedness, dated Feb. 8, was subscribed. This was due to the patriotic action of the larger banks in financial centres, notably New York, in taking more than their share of the issue and thus making up the deficiency which arose from the failure of other banks to respond to the request which was made of them. Only two districts, New York and Kansas City, exceeded their allotment, and one, Minneapolis, equaled its allotment.

"The amount of subscriptions from the country at large was distinctly disappointing. This may be partly because some banks had only a short interval to accumulate moneys for investment in Treasury certificates, and partly because some subscribed on the basis of 1

GARFIELD WILL PUT COAL ON WAR BASIS

CONTROL OF DISTRIBUTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A direct method of preferential coal distribution to supply first the requirements of consumers whose needs are considered necessary in winning the war and to curtail consumption by the less essential industries soon will be instituted by the Fuel Administration.

The program outlined tonight by Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, calls for division of all consumers into four classes, and for the creation of a preferential board representing the Fuel Administration, the army and navy, and the Shipping Board, to pass on the importance of consumers' needs.

Class 1, which would get coal first, as contemplated by Dr. Garfield, would include consumers put in a preferential list in the Fuel Administration's closing order of Jan. 17. This list still is receiving preferential treatment, but there has been no classification of other consumers. This list includes households, ships, railroads, public utilities, and public institutions.

Class 2 would include necessary war industries; Class 3, necessary peace industries, and Class 4, the so-called makers of luxuries.

There would be no attempt at establishing preferences within any of the classifications, and the duty of the Preferential Board would be to decide between consumers of a given class.

To Enforce Preferential Distribution.

Preferential distribution would be enforced by orders to operators to supply consumers according to classification and by co-operative measures on the part of the Railroad Administration, which would assist by embargoes.

Many industries in Class 2 would fall also in Class 3, since a great number of factories are working both on war orders and on contracts for the general public. The Preferential Board would decide how they should use fuel allotted to them and how much fuel they should be permitted to have.

The plan furnishes the first definite move to put American industry on a strictly war basis. The question of restricting the operations of the less essential industries has bothered Government officials since the outbreak of war, but thus far the problem has not been dealt with directly.

The purpose of the new plan will be, it was explained tonight, to disturb the industrial fabric as little as possible, and many of the industries engaged in producing materials not considered essential will be converted into munition plants.

Most of the industries whose products are not regarded as essential to prosecution of the war already have agreed to a voluntary curtailment of their coal consumption, and it is planned to work in co-operation with them and to prevent hardships and unfair discrimination.

The Preferential Board will be chosen by the heads of the four departments. Neither the Food nor the Railroad Administration for the time being will be represented, but both will assist in operation of the program.

As the first step in the new plan the use of fuel for the manufacture or ordinary

Allied Ship Crisis Has Now Been Passed; Low Point Was Feb. 1; Tonnage Now Going Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Overseas ship tonnage available to America and the Allies passed its low point about Feb. 1, several weeks earlier than shipping experts had predicted. Officials believe the upward curve will continue until the war is ended unless difficulties not now foreseen are encountered.

When experts first plotted the curve of the tonnage supply, taking into consideration the greatest success of submarines and all possible contingencies in the domestic situation, they found that the number of vessels available for transporting troops and for feeding the Allies would be lower toward the end of this month than at any other period. Just how close to the danger point that would be they did not care to say. Knowing that the Germans sank about 6,000,000 tons of ships in 1917, nearly three times as much as was produced in Great Britain and the United States, did not change their estimates.

For the last three weeks now, the charts of the Shipping Board have shown a steady upward trend. Officials think that from now on new factors will aid rather than retard the efforts to put more ships into service. Chief of these will be the restriction of imports, made effective Feb. 16, the results of which will not be noticeable for weeks yet. As more ships are needed they will be withdrawn from the neutral trade, and commerce with those neutral countries will be curtailed to that extent.

Officials declined to say what was the dominating factor in checking the decline in available tonnage, though it is well known that optimistic opinions are held regarding the anti-submarine campaign. Improvement in harbor defenses and facilities in France, so as to facilitate the unloading of transports, likewise tended to speed up the release of ships, which are enabled to make trips more frequently than usual.

Despite labor troubles, confidence is expressed that the goal of 4,000,000 tons of shipping will be built in this country this year. Sailing vessels, of which there are 2,500,000 tons under the American flag, are being put into the coastwise and other trade, to release the faster steamers for transatlantic service.

The labor question is regarded as the determining factor in the domestic situation. Supplies have been assured for all the ships planned.

The Shipping Board tonight directed that hereafter no American steamer of less than 2,500 deadweight tons be permitted to clear for a transatlantic voyage or to engage in other long voyage trades.

BOLSHEVIKI SEND SIGNED SURRENDER AS KAISER'S ARMIES PRESS FORWARD; WAR TO BRING PEACE, SAYS KUEHLMANN

England Won't Recognize Any Peace in the East That Disposes of Poland Without Her Assent

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The British Government has instructed its agent at Kiev, to make the declaration that Great Britain will not recognize any peace in the East which involves Poland, without a previous consultation with Poland.

Premier Lloyd George's speech to the Trade Union Conference on Jan. 5 aroused intense enthusiasm among Poles all over the world on account of the following passage:

"We believe, however, that an independent Poland, comprising all those genuinely Polish elements who desire to form a part of it, is an urgent necessity for the stability of Western Europe."

RUSSIA EXPIRING UNDER REDS' RULE

COSSACKS BETRAY ALEXIEFF

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 18.—No death is so terrible as the death of a great nation. Russia is dying, and it is agony and anguish to see it. She will rise again, sometime, but no man on earth can say when this will be.

The Bolsheviki have conquered almost the whole of Russian territory—they are victorious in the civil war, less by force of arms than by virtue of the strange infection of their agitation among the masses. It seems inevitable that the whole of Russia must turn Bolshevist before it can begin to return to normal conditions.

The case of the Don is a clear illustration. The Cossacks, under Kaledine, decided to defend their territory against the Bolsheviki, and to give refuge to generals and politicians who would form there the nucleus of a new national centre. Under these conditions Alexieff, later assisted by Korniloff and other Generals, began the formation of an army which consisted mainly of officers and pupils from the officers' training schools. There were at first political differences, but ultimately the various parties concerned, from Alexieff to Savinkoff, agreed on a common platform, democratic and statesmanlike.

The task of the army was to hold the Don territory long enough to permit of the formation of a strong, well-equipped army. Alexieff's force, according to last reports, numbered about 12,000 men and was daily increasing. Well disciplined, it easily withstood the Bolshevist attacks and repeatedly routed Bolshevist forces far superior in numbers.

Since the fall of Kiev the Bolsheviki have concentrated their efforts on the Don, attacking it from three sides—from the northwest using Kharkov as their base, from the north from Voronezh, and lately from the east with the help of Bolshevist troops returning from the Caucasian front. The return of Bolshevist Cossacks from the European front complicated the situation, and a number of these Cossacks occupied stations on the boundary of the Don territory and the Voronezh Government north of Novo-Cherkask.

While this was happening Alexieff's force was engaged repelling Bolshevist attacks at Taganrog to the west and at Tikhoretskaya to the east of Rostoff. At Taganrog 3,000 of Alexieff's men easily routed Bolshevist forces of 15,000, but at the critical moment the invaders provoked a rising among the workmen, soldiers, and sailors in the town, thus depriving Alexieff's men of their base and forcing them to retire. Near Tikhoretskaya, Bolshevist troops from the Caucasus attacked an Alexieff force of officers, members of the officers' training corps, and Cossacks. At the critical moment the Cossacks went over to the Bolsheviki, who were thus enabled to advance to Bataisk, a town on the east bank of the Don, facing Rostov.

While other Cossacks are strongly opposed to the Bolsheviki, the younger Bolshevist Cossacks have latterly made a practice of disorganizing Alexieff's force, frequently betraying his men to the Bolsheviki and preventing access to artillery. The agitation among the Cossacks is based on the assumption that as the bulk of Alexieff's men are officers and members of the officers' training corps, they are bourgeois, and therefore opposed to the interests of the proletariat. The result is that the force is now surrounded and exposed to betrayal from within.

No news has yet been received of the fall of Rostov and Novo-Cherkask and the report of Kaledine's suicide is as yet unconfirmed.

But while the Bolsheviki are formally extending the area of their power they are exposed to grave dangers arising from the anarchy they themselves have created. Many Bolsheviki say openly that the days of their power are numbered. Others hope they may hold out two or three months more.

The most pressing danger is starvation. Trotzky has been appointed Food Dictator and is taking strong measures, including the dispatch of armed forces to secure corn for the capital and to shoot down speculators and irregular traders.

Popular discontent is growing loud; monarchist and anarchist tendencies are increasing, and the Bolsheviki are faced with the dilemma either of compromising with the bourgeois or of becoming more violently anarchistic than the confessed anarchists, who are now playing in regard to the Bolsheviki the role that the latter in their time played to Kerensky's Government.

NO TRUCE IN EAST, KUEHLMANN SAYS

"New War" Defended as Necessary to Compel Peace on Germany's Frontiers.

SPEECH TO THE REICHSTAG

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 20.—Dr. Richard von Kühlmann, the German Foreign Secretary, at the opening session of the Reichstag today, delivered an address to the members, in which he dealt at length with the peace treaty signed by the Central Powers with the Ukraine and the collapse of the peace negotiations with Russia. Count von Hertling, the Imperial German Chancellor, and Friedrich von Payer, the Vice Chancellor, were attentive listeners to the address.

The Foreign Secretary asserted that the pacific intentions of Russia could no longer be credited, but that even today Germany was prepared to conclude a peace "which corresponds with our interests." He instanced the peace agreement with the Ukraine as an indication of the readiness of the Central Powers for peace. Dr. von Kühlmann referred especially to the advantages which the Teutonic allies would derive during the present year from the economic treaty with the Ukraine, and recommended the approval of that compact.

Speaking on the first reading of the Ukraine treaty, Dr. von Kühlmann said that the Ukraine People's Republic was a young State, reared on the ground of the former Russian empire after the decaying edifice of the Czar's empire, which shared the principal guilt for kindling the world's war, had collapsed under the blow of the German armies. The Ukrainian race, he said, was one of the strongest elements of the Russian Empire. In respect to its minerals, including coal and iron, the Ukraine was very rich and also possessed elements of its own industry.

Says Ukraine Showed Firmness.

The representatives of the Bolsheviki, the Foreign Secretary continued, maintained friendly relations with the Ukraine so long as Trotzky could assume that the people's republic of the Ukraine would primarily direct its policies according to the interests of the Petrograd Cabinet. When the Ukrainians realized that the Petrograd Cabinet was not pursuing a sincere peace policy, he asserted, the representatives of the Ukraine adopted the viewpoint of ending the war by peace, as they would in no wise be responsible for the sins of Czarism.

"The negotiations were not quite as easy as in most cases with such young peoples," said Dr. von Kühlmann. "National ideals and desires were not free from the exuberance of their representatives. They made territorial demands which were hardly capable of realization. The demarkation of the frontier with Russia had to be left for a later period—after discussions with the Russian Government then in power. The only thing that concerned us was to lay down the western frontiers of the new State, in which the demarkation of the frontier as regards Poland received the most attention and experienced the liveliest criticism from the Poles."

Dr. von Kühlmann said that, without being too sanguine, he believed the country hailed peace with the Ukraine with relief and joy "as the first step toward the restoration of a general peace which we all hope to attain within measurable time."

Feared Break on Cholm Question.

"As weighty as are the interests in question for us," he continued, "they are considerably weighter for the dual monarchy. In our case the interests are chiefly external. In theirs, in addition to the external, there are momentous interests of an internal political nature.

"The fact that the settlement took the form it did arose from the consideration which Dr. von Seydler (the Austrian Premier) pointed out yesterday, namely, the fear that the further screwing back of the Ukrainian claims to the Cholm frontier would have resulted in the wreckage of the treaty. The overwhelming majority of the German people would not have understood such action. They would have disapproved most severely, and, I think rightly, an action entailing the sacrifice of a peace so much desired.

"That we gave very much consideration, indeed, to Polish interests is clear

Austria, to Placate Poles, Takes Cholm from Ukraine

BASLE, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—Dr. von Seydler, the Austrian Premier, has announced to the Reichstag representatives that the Ukraine Rada and the Austro-Hungarian Government have signed an agreement, supplementing the Ukraine peace treaty, by which the Province of Cholm will not revert to the Ukraine Republic.

A mixed commission will be appointed to decide its fate on race principles and with regard to the wishes of the population.

Much feeling was aroused among the Poles through the fact that the old Province of Cholm, a part of Poland, was given to the Ukraine by the peace treaty signed at Brest-Litovsk. The attitude of Polish Deputies in the Austrian Parliament threatened the stability of the Seydler Government.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 20.—General Hoffmann, the German military representative at the Brest-Litovsk peace conference, telegraphed yesterday to the Bolshevist Government for a written authentication of the Russian wireless peace message sent to Berlin. He stipulated that the authentication must be sent to the German command at Dvinsk. His demand was complied with promptly, a messenger being dispatched from Petrograd with the original peace message, signed by Premier Lenine and Foreign Minister Trotzky.

> To the Council of People's Commissaries—A wireless message, signed by Nikolai Lenine and L. Trotzky from Tsarskoe Selo was today (Tuesday) received at Konig Wusterhausen at 9:12 A. M. It has been handed over to the royal Government, although a wireless message cannot be regarded as an official document because the original signatures are absent. I am authorized to request from the People's Commissaries authentication in writing of the wireless message, which must be sent to the German command at Dvinsk.
> GENERAL HOFFMANN.

To this the Bolshevist Government telegraphed the following reply:

> We are sending today from Petrograd a messenger to Dvinsk with the wireless message containing the original signatures of Lenine and Trotzky. We beg you to give us an acknowledgment of this message and inform us if it has been received promptly. We also beg you to reply in Russian.
> COUNCIL OF THE PEOPLE'S COMMISSARIES.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The news that Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, had sent a wireless message to the German Imperial Chancellor, Count von Hertling, accepting the peace terms of the Central Powers, caused great excitement in Berlin, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam.

Chancellor von Hertling is expected to make a statement in the Reichstag tomorrow bearing on Germany's reply.

German Armies Advancing Swiftly.

BERLIN, Feb. 20, (via London.)—The forward movement of the German troops eastward into Russia continues, according to the official communication issued this evening. The text of the communication says:

> The forward movement continues in the east. German troops have entered Esthonia. Werder has been passed through in an easterly direction.

> Eastern Theatre—On both sides of the Riga-Petrograd railway the Russian positions were crossed, and we advanced twenty kilometres beyond the line which had been our front. Feeble resistance on the part of the enemy near Inzeen, north of the railway, soon was broken.
>
> Our divisions pushed on from Dvinsk to the northeast and to the east.
>
> Between Dvinsk and Lutsk they advanced on wide sectors. Divisions which pressed forward beyond Lutsk are marching on Rovno.

Prisoners to the number of 2,500, several hundred guns, and a great amount of rolling stock fell into our hands.

The town of Werder, Esthonia, is situated on the coast of Bol Sound. It is probable that the forces landing there came from Moon or Oesel Islands, which lie off the Esthonia coast and which for a long time have been occupied by the Germans. Werder is about 65 miles southwest of Reval, the important naval base on the Gulf of Finland.

ADVANCE EXPLAINED TO GERMAN TROOPS

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 19.—The occupation by the Germans of the important garrison and base of Dvinsk places an immense quantity of army stores and artillery in their hands. It is also rumored that Hapsal, on the Esthonian coast, sixty miles southwest of Reval, has fallen. The Germans apparently have sent an expedition from Oesel across the ice of Moon Sound with a view to outflanking Reval. The quantity of army and navy stores at Reval exceeds in value those in Dvinsk.

In an army order to the German troops Prince Leopold of Bavaria states that the aim of the advance is not annexation, but the re-establishment of order and the prevention of the spread of anarchist infection into Western Europe.

The Bolshevist Government is surprised and alarmed—they had calculated that the German soldier would refuse to advance against revolutionary Russia. The Council of People's Commissaries yesterday decided to suspend demobilization and give orders to resist, and where Russian troops were compelled to retire to destroy military stores.

The front, as a front, has ceased to exist, owing to the prolonged mass of desertion, and latterly formal demobilization. It is proposed to effect resistance by guerilla warfare. The Germans apparently intend to force an entrance to the gulf.

The anarchists have won great influence among the sailors of the Baltic fleet. The Pravda cries out against the buccaneering expedition of German Imperialists. Other Socialist papers demand the immediate formation of a Socialist coalition government for defense, but so far the Bolsheviki resolutely refuse to compromise, declaring their war is a class war against Imperialists of their own and all countries.

In an interview published today Radek declares that the Germans dare not advance, since an offensive would entail demoralization among their own troops. Still, it is considered here that the principal operation of the Central Powers will be the advance on Kiev, with the object of re-establishing the defeated Rada and securing the immense food supplies of Ukraine. But to predict anything now is beyond the power of human reason.

TEUTONS DISLIKE NEW WAR.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Germany's new war against Russia apparently is not popular with the German or Austrian people, according to comment in the press of the two countries.

When the Brest-Litovsk negotiations closed all talk in Germany was of peace. The school children had a holiday and joy bells were rung. The public apparently did not discriminate between peace with the Ukraine and with Great Russia, but acclaimed it as a general peace with Russia.

Georg Bernhard in the Vossiche Zeitung emphasizes this point and wants an explanation of who was responsible for this disappointment.

The Socialist Vorwärts takes the same line and says: "The more we meddle in Russian affairs the more we get away from peace. What must be done is to stick to the defense of our own soil and to make peace wherever possible without annexation of forcible amputations."

A large section of opinion in Austria-Hungary also is alarmed over the prospect of a renewal of war with Russia. Dispatches from Amsterdam and Zurich quote Austro-Hungarian newspapers to this effect, and a Vienna dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung reports a rising of feeling against Germany on account of her action against Russia.

The Neue Freie Presse and the Reichspost argue that, as Austria-Hungary no longer has any enemies on her eastern frontiers, she is not called to interfere in Russian internal affairs.

The Arbeiter Zeitung, Vienna's leading Socialist newspaper, insists emphatically that Austria-Hungary must not take part in a new offensive. It thinks that the invasion of a totally defenseless country will gain the German Government little support among the German workers who, although they entered the war against Czardom with enthusiasm, will not indorse its continuance for the purpose of overthrowing the labor government in Petrograd.

"Austria-Hungary," it adds, "cannot hinder the plans of the German Imperialists, but it cannot and dare not join Germany in a new war on Russia. This appears also to be the view of the Emperor and the Government, but the people demand from Count Czernin (the Foreign Secretary) absolute assurance that Austria-Hungary regards her war with Russia as ended."

RULES RUSSIA OUT OF WAR.

Her Guns as Useful as Swiss Navy to Us, Exemption Board Says.

The District Board of Appeals for the Selective Draft in New York, of which Charles E. Hughes is the Chairman, yesterday ruled Russia officially out of the war so far as the American draft is concerned. The ruling was made in deciding the case of Michael Nainy, who appealed from the decision of Local Board 149, which had placed him in Class A1, which means that he will be among those to be drafted into the second national army which is shortly to be called into service. Nainy claimed exemption as an ammunition inspector for the Russian Artillery Commission in the United States.

In reporting the case Meyer Steinbrink, Chairman of the sub-committee which passed on the appeal, stated that so far as the Allies were concerned the Russian artillery was now of about as much use as the "Swiss Navy." He recommended that Nainy be put in Class 1 and the Board unanimously approved the recommendation.

MOSCOW IS BECOME A CITY OF DESPAIR

THINKING MEN LOSE HOPE

Says Bolshevism Must Run Its Course Till Bitter Experience Converts the Masses.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Feb. 13, (Delayed.)—Moscow has become for many, a city of refuge. The Bolshevist régime is rather milder here and the menace of starvation is not so imminent. There is a little more space, a little more freedom. There is some shelter and comfort.

In the multitude here are many ruined landowners who have escaped from their plundered and pillaged estates. Here are officers in hundreds driven from the front by their soldiers. Here are former Government employes who have drifted hither from Petrograd in search of work, and a very miscellaneous throng of men and women who have found the results of slow labor of years crumble away in their hands, who have lost their occupations, who have now no use for their talents or their painfully acquired knowledge, and who cling here to the faint shadow of intellectual life that seems still to afford some outward justification of their hopeless existence. The bourgeois, well-to-do middle class has been hard hit by the Bolshevist rule, but the greatest sufferers are the intelligentsia, whom the crude Bolshevist classification ranks with the bourgeoisie as the enemies of the proletariat.

Ranks of the Penniless.

I walk down the street and listen to cries of the news vendors. I hear a strange accent, and, turning, see a young officer, without shoulder straps or any marks of distinction, shamefacedly offering for sale a cheap evening paper. There are scores of such officers now selling papers in the streets of Moscow.

The voice that again and again led a company to attack now, with a note of bitter defiance, cried the Russkia Viedomosti or the Epocha, vainly competing with the shrill calls of the agile and impudent newsboys. There are women, too, among the news vendors, girl students, office girls and teachers.

Some officers are employed in guarding houses against robbers, others unload trucks on the railway, and a few more fortunate others have found employment as cabmen. Others are crossing sweepers. Once prosperous writers and journalists are now almost penniless, owing to the stoppage of many newspapers and magazines and the almost complete cessation of the publishing business. Well-to-do families whose money is invested in now valueless securities or deposited in inaccessible bank accounts are selling their heirlooms to secure the wherewithal to support life.

One family, driven by peasants from its estate, is crowded together in one room in a state of semi-starvation, and was recently joined by the eldest son, an officer, who barely escaped with his life from the front.

All this suffering would be a minor evil if the prosperity of the working classes were secured, but the factories are gradually closing down, unemployment is steadily increasing, and the attempts of the Bolshevist Soviet and committees to prevent unemployment by the payment of huge subsidies in wages to the workmen who do not and can not work for want of raw material simply aggravate the financial crisis.

Those Who Have Money.

There are people with money, of course—tradesmen who charge exorbitant prices for goods, profiteers who get boots, cloth, and butter by all kinds of crooked devices and sell them at fabulous prices, and the highwaymen who take their nightly toll in the dark lanes of Moscow.

The bagmen are the specific product of this troubled time. They are soldiers or men in soldiers' uniforms who travel about on railways free of charge, buy flour where it is cheap and sell it in cities at a profit of 500 rubles a sack in cool defiance of the regulations of the corn and flour monopoly. I know of a case where a man who began as bagman carrying three sacks at a time later developed into a truckman, that is, a man who brings in a whole truckload of flour, and last week he offered to bring in a whole trainload, his immense profits having put him in a position to evade inconvenient regulations. Never have bribery and corruption attained such colossal dimensions as now, and there are all kinds of fantastic ways of making money.

In one Government not far from Moscow some enterprising business men have formed a company for the recovery of goods plundered by peasants from their estates. They secured from the Revolutionary Committee a paper authorizing them to confiscate from the peasants goods constituting national wealth. They hired eleven soldiers at 50 rubles a day, and these soldiers, armed with the committee's authorization, go from village to village, flog peasants, and extort from them the plundered goods, which are ultimately restored to their original owners, with a deduction of 10 per cent. commission. This business is highly profitable.

Is There Security Anywhere?

Moscow is a city of refuge, but for how long? Even here life is continually haunted by vague and monstrous fears. Is there any security or hope anywhere in Russia? Whither shall I flee from the wrath and the terror? is the cry of the helpless and distracted.

This anarchy is perhaps less destructive of human life, but to the spirit it is far more crushing, more paralyzing than war, for war has its rhythm, its calculable orders, its conditions and laws, but this anarchy is war that has broken all bounds and gone mad. It is the brutal essence of war which has escaped control, has thrown off all draperies of political theory, and flaunts its nakedness mockingly in unashamed fratricide, in senseless suicide.

Refuge? There is none. The process of destruction must work itself out. This strange anarchy is sweeping from end to end of Russia, overthrowing all temporary barriers, all halting opportunist attempts at reconstruction, wrecking theories, traditions, and habits, and creating a wilderness.

Ukraine is a broken reed. The Siberian Government was overthrown as soon as it was formed. Turkestan is a prey to formless anarchy. The Tartar Government in Crimea is maintaining a desperate struggle against the Bolshevist sailors and Red Guards. The contending forces in Bessarabia are swallowed up by the Rumanian invasion, which now threatens Odessa. The Don territory is threatened from north, south, and west. Though Alexieff's army is rapidly growing and is well disciplined and effectively repels the attacks of many times more numerous irregular Bolshevist troops, its position is endangered by the spread of Bolshevist infection among the Cossacks.

It is true that while Bolshevism is spreading in the south the reaction against it is growing in the northern centres, but for the present it is impossible to fix any term to Bolshevist rule. It is impossible to forecast what power will replace it. The course of events must necessarily lead to the restoration of a strong Government, but how and in what form no one can say. Apart from the Don no active organized centre of opposition is visible, and for the present, at any rate, Alexieff's organization has all it can do to hold its own, to preserve the nucleus of a force of order which may be used when the Bolshevist illusions and the prejudices of the Russian intelligentsia, their sentimental faith in the extreme western theories, their impractical cosmopolitanism, their contempt for hard, elemental realities must be put to the final crushing test. Already there is a revulsion of feeling and thought among the intelligentsia, but the conversion must be more radical. The intelligentsia must become intelligently and ardently patriotic, and, above all, the crude interpretation of their ideas in popular emotion must work itself out to a logical and practical self-destruction.

"I find that most thinking men in Moscow have thrown aside all illusions and are indisposed even to attempt palliative measures. They say the masses must learn through bitter experience what Bolshevist Socialism means. They must drink the cup to the dregs.

I find these men facing the future with cold determination, building in thought a new Russia that is to come when the storm is past, making plans and calculations for economic reconstruction, weighing the possibilities of the German danger, deeply concerned about the international position of Russia. New emotions and new ideas that will determine the Russia of tomorrow are developing amid the whirl and tumult of the wreckage of old Russia.

1,728 GUNS CAPTURED BY BRITISH IN A YEAR

These Are Field Weapons Only British Gun Power Raised 50 Per Cent. in Period.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The British captures in the last year have included 168 heavy howitzers, 68 heavy guns, 437 field guns, 1,055 trench mortars, and 2,814 machine guns.

This statement was made by James Ian MacPherson, Parliamentary Under Secretary for War, in introducing the army estimates in the House of Commons today.

Under Secretary MacPherson said that the strength of the German Army was far greater on the western front than at any previous period, and, although the Allies at present were superior in men and guns, the balance might soon be in favor of the enemy. The Allies must be prepared for a determined offensive at an early date, and all measures to meet the situation had been taken.

The strain on the British troops and those of the Allies, he added, might be severe, but the successes of the British and French armies in the last year had inspired all ranks with belief in their ability to hold their own.

British gunpower had increased by almost 50 per cent. during the year, Mr. MacPherson said, and the army was doing everything possible to economize with a view to saving tonnage. These economies would save 2,000,000 of tonnage in the distant theatres of the war this year.

NO TRUCE IN EAST, KUEHLMANN SAYS

from the form of stipulations detailing frontier lines, only in a general way reserving detailed demarcation for a commission. Further, the negotiations which the Austro-Hungarian Government, in accord with the German Government, conducted with the Ukraine resulted in making it clear that the paragraph about the definitive demarcation of frontier lines can be interpreted in a much more ample manner and that in this way the ethnographical situation and the desires of the population can receive most far-reaching consideration.

"A projected commission will include not only the representatives of the allies, (Teutonic,) but also Polish delegates. We have done everything possible to attain a just demarcation of frontiers."

Dr. von Kühlmann said that the agreement in that instance had been reached in consequence of the readiness of the Central Powers for peace, adding:

"Ukraine is a rich country, and the decisive factor for the conclusion of peace was economic. When it came to the fixing of the frontiers, Ukraine claimed Cholm. There was danger that the negotiations might be wrecked if this demand were not taken into account.

"This was not a source of trouble in respect of the relations among the Central Powers, but the Poles felt hurt. The frontiers of Cholm have not yet been fixed definitely. They will be established by a commission including representatives of Ukraine and Poland."

The Foreign Minister said that the Central Powers would derive advantages this year from the economic treaty with Ukraine. He recommended approval of the treaty, the first reading of which was fixed for the following day.

The Foreign Minister read the wireless dispatch from the Bolsheviki announcing that they found it necessary to sign a peace agreement on the terms dictated by the Central Powers. He said he would like to warn the members of the Reichstag against the belief that peace with Russia was in their pockets, and here interjected a remark that "peace with Russia will have been arrived at only when the signatures on the treaty are dry."

Dr. von Kühlmann said that the conduct of the Russian delegates at the peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk, and in particular that of Leon Trotzky, was without precedent in history. With his last declaration, the Foreign Minister said, M. Trotzky attempted to extricate himself from a position which had become untenable, and he was not really desirous of concluding peace.

The Foreign Secretary expressed the conviction that if anything could induce Trotzky to sign a satisfactory peace instrument it would be the Ukrainian treaty, and he considered this an important means for arriving at a settlement tolerable for both Germany and Russia. He defended the "new war" against Russia as necessary to enforce peace.

Paasche Denies War of Conquest.

In the course of the short session of the Reichstag, Dr. Herman Paasche, the Vice President, discussed the Ukrainian peace and Germany's intentions in the East. He concluded by saying:

"However much we desire peace, we are firmly resolved to hold out with genuine German loyalty until a peace is attained which guarantees us, in a free country, washed by a free ocean, the certainty of healthy development."

The Ukrainian peace, Dr. Paasche said, showed that the Central Powers were in earnest agreement with the Emperor's declaration that they were waging no war of conquest, as that peace was made without indemnities or cessions of territory and was a peace honorable to both parties and mutually advantageous. Plans for the resumption of the war with Russia could not be placed upon the Central Powers, he asserted. The Bolsheviki, when they found the Germans could not be enticed to destroy the foundations of civic liberty, he said, broke off negotiations.

"We now shudder at the contemplation of the cruelties of the lawless bands which support the present so-called Government of Russia," he continued, "and we hope that energetic action on our part will help the races which severed themselves from Old Russia, according to the principles of the right of self-determination, to return to peaceful work, freed from the terrible scourge of the Bolshevist border hordes."

The honest desire for peace expressed by Chancellor von Hertling, continued Dr. Paasche, had been rejected by the enemies of the Central Powers, despite the fears engendered by the possibilities of an attack by the German armies, and they comported themselves as if they thought they could force their will upon the Central Powers. The German people had shown by victorious military operations, he said, that their strength was unbroken and unbreakable.

"Our enemies were not able, unassisted, to carry on the war upon the German people," Dr. Paasche added, "and gained by trickery or force new allies—recently America."

Members Protest Cholm Cession.

Adolf Gröber, one of the Centrist leaders, said that the apportionment of Cholm to Ukraine would never have been decided upon if Poland had been admitted to the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk.

Herr Seyda, a Polish deputy, protested that lack of respect for the right of self-determination had been shown by the exclusion of the Poles from the negotiations respecting Ukraine. He said that Cholm must not be given to Ukraine and that Grodno and Bialystok, which had been Polish from time immemorial, must not be assigned to Lithuania.

The President of the Chamber, in opening the proceedings, made loyal reference to the golden wedding anniversary of the Bavarian royal couple, at which the members of the House rose and applauded loudly. The President was authorized to send a telegram of congratulation to King Ludwig and his Queen.

UKRAINE MUST RUSH GRAIN TO TEUTONS

Seydler Says She Has Got to Furnish It Somehow or Forfeit Concessions.

FOOD CHIEF AIM OF PEACE

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 20.—The Austrian Premier, Dr. von Seydler, speaking to the Reichsrat today, entered into a long defence of the original treaty of peace with Ukraine and announced a subsequent treaty appointing a commission to define the frontiers of Ukraine and Cholm, (Chelm.)

Under the original treaty, he said, there had been placed at the disposal of the Central Powers the Ukraine's surplus of agricultural products This surplus, the Premier asserted, was greater than the Central Powers at the most favorable estimate could transport. Ukraine was interested in supplying the Central Powers with grain, for otherwise those parts of the treaty which embodied concessions to Ukraine would lapse. It must not be forgotten that the whole of Russia, including the Ukraine, was convulsed with a civil war and that the difficulties of transport were extraordinarily great. According to information reaching the Foreign Minister, anarchy was increasing in all parts of Russia.

"Our aim in all this turmoil," continued the Premier, "can and will only be to do everything to provide our heroic population with the foodstuffs which, by reason of its long privations and its resolute perseverance, it deserves."

The Petrograd Government, he said, had declared the state of war between Russia and Austria-Hungary at an end, and, so far as human judgment could foresee, a state of war would not again arise between those two countries.

"Responding to German cries of help from Esthonia and Livonia," he continued, "Germany resolved to march further into the interior in order to save from certain destruction those unhappy nationals living in those provinces. In full accord with our Allies, we decided not to participate in this military action. Our aim, therefore, remains what it was before—to bring help as speedily as possible to the Austro-Hungarian nationals still on Russian soil."

Dr. von Seydler announced that 20,000 prisoners had already arrived from Russia, and that negotiations would be resumed with the Petrograd Government for the exchange of prisoners.

In explaining the appointment of the commission, the Premier declared that the future of Cholm would depend upon race principles and the desires of the population. Russia, he said, had demanded for its territories the right of all peoples to self-determination, even to the extent of complete severance.

"We accepted this standpoint for the occupied territories," he continued, "and all the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk were conducted on this basis. We recognize this right for the peoples of Lithuania, Courland, and Poland, and no logical or moral ground could be discovered for depriving the Ukrainians of the right granted to other Russian peoples.

"The members of the Polish Club cannot deny the existence of a large Ukrainian population in Cholm, and this nation has the right to be heard. I go even further and say it was the duty of the Austro-Hungarian Government to conclude peace with the Ukrainians.

"What was secured at Brest-Litovsk was peace for the people, and the Austro-Hungarian peoples would never have understood if we had rejected this peace, or rejected the possibility of obtaining wheat merely in order that Cholm in its entirety and unconditionally should fall to Poland. What would the empire's reply have been if the Foreign Minister had returned and admitted that he had spoiled the chances of peace because he refused to the Ukrainian population of Cholm the same right to be heard as if possessed by the Polish party?"

"Had we acted as the gentlemen of the Polish Club demand, we should not only have failed to conclude peace with Ukraine, but should have severed the delicate threads which may perhaps lead to a general peace, and the voices raised in defense of such a policy would have been drowned under a raging hurricane of indignation from all the Austrian races.

"In view of these various considerations, I must also emphatically reject certain insinuations which have been made concerning the relations between Austria-Hungary and Germany."

The Premier's speech was received throughout with unusual demonstrations of approval, except from the Poles, who, however, remained calm, though showing occasional signs of dissent.

VIENNA, Feb. 20, (via London.)—Russian evacuation of occupied Austro-Hungarian territory has been completed. The following official announcement was issued today:

In conformity with the peace treaty with Ukraine, the provision regarding restoration of the frontiers as they existed before the outbreak of the war between Austria-Hungary and the Russian Empire have been fully carried out. Our troops have occupied without incident the region extending to the original Austro-Hungarian frontier.

War and Inflation

Recent figures issued by the Treasury Department show the total general stock of money in the United States on January 1, 1918, to have been $6,256,198,271 as compared with $5,012,045,517 on January 1, 1917.

Per capita circulation of money on January 1st last was $48.76 as compared with $43 a year ago and $38.48 in 1916. A natural result has been the increase in prices of merchandise and commodities. The more money there is in circulation the less its purchasing power.

With the continued demands of our Government for money, goods and services, a certain degree of inflation seems unavoidable, but the banking system of this country should be able to control its extent. Merchants and manufacturers can co-operate at this time by conducting their business along conservative lines.

HARDEN IS FEARFUL OF "NEW BALKANS"

Warns Germans Against the Creation of a Trouble Focus on Eastern Border.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 20.—Maximilian Harden in Die Zukunft expresses serious doubts as to the policy followed by Germany regarding Ukraine.

"If," he says, "the German Government has abandoned its support of the policy of self-determination, recognized as just for all peoples, then it has certainly demanded and enforced the signing of a peace treaty with Ukraine as compensation. Having in secret arrived at peace and friendship with the swollen Ukrainian Republic, does the German Government still stand by the decision to separate the frontier peoples from Russia? Then the audacious Lenine and Trotzky know why they did not even consider the draft of such a treaty, which is the worst that could be imagined even during a nightmare."

Perhaps Harden thinks that Trotzky will have to say to Lenine what Count Rostopchin said to Czar Alexander when Napoleon, with 200,000 men, had crossed the Niemen: "Your Empire has two great defenders, size and climate. In Moscow you are terrible, in Kazan you are a frightful vision, and in Tobolsk you are unconquerable."

The plan of dragging the frontier races away from Russia Harden regards as one "which would not be so dangerous to Russia as to Germany, on whose east flank new Balkans would arise, consisting of big and small Alsace-Lorraines."

Ukraine, he adds, has now become larger than Poland, and that has aroused the wrath of the Poles, while the Ukrainians in Galicia are angry because they are still left in Poland.

"The Russians," he concludes, "send through Europe a complaint that Germany, behind the backs of the Russians, enticed the Ukrainians to help to break up Russia, and Russians naturally ask if, with such culprits, even a democratic Government could long negotiate. That is a foretaste of the hell's brew, which will be cooked when the Balkans stretch to the frontiers of Poland, West Prussia and Silesia. Will an increase of Slav hatred against Germany do us any good? Are littles States hostile to each other more comfortable as neighbors than a United States of Russia, in which every State would have freedom to breathe and whose people, in possession of the soil, could work for the re-establishment of the world's economic status?"

GARFIELD WILL PUT COAL ON WAR BASIS

window glass was ordered curtailed 50 per cent. tonight by Administrator Garfield. The step was taken with the full approval of manufacturers and labor engaged in the industry.

A survey showed that production during the year probably would far outstrip the demand. The needs of the country were estimated at 5,000,000 boxes, but production promised to be nearer 8,000,000. The reduction in output will mean a saving of 500,000 tons of coal, according to the Fuel Administration.

The new distribution plan, Dr. Garfield said tonight, would prevent a recurrence next year of this Winter's coal shortage.

"The Fuel Administration takes the position," he said, "that no fuel must be used to manufacture any greater quantity of finished products than will be needed this year, that factories cannot be permitted to have fuel, transportation, and labor to manufacture a surplus of products to be piled up for sale next year.

Industries' Needs Considered.

"The Fuel Administration is carrying on a series of conferences covering all industries which use large quantities of fuel, with a view to learning the requirements of each line during 1918.

"The industries themselves are playing a leading part in these discussions. The aim is to arrive at a percentage of production which, under the circumstances, will be satisfactory to the manufacturers and their workmen, but which will not represent a consumption of fuel for the manufacture of supplies not needed during the current year.

"It is through this system of scientific limitation, together with large economy in the methods of using fuel, that the Fuel Administration expects to supplement the production of coal this year. It is hoped, as the railroads strengthen their facilities, that it will be possible to mine and transport a larger quantity of coal this year than last, but it is through these methods of reducing consumption that a repetition of this year's shortage is to be absolutely prevented."

HUTCHESON ACCEPTS OPEN SHOP ON SHIPS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—It was pretty generally understood tonight that everybody connected with the shipbuilding industry, with the exception of William L. Hutcheson, head of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, had heeded the call of President Wilson to drop obstructive measures and co-operate in the nation's great emergency to speed up the construction of ships.

Conferences today provided further evidence that organized labor as a whole had adopted a patriotic attitude and was prepared to trust President Wilson to carry out his promise that he would see that the workingmen were not discriminated against in the adjustments to be made.

The indications are that Mr. Hutcheson, at a conference to be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, will come to an agreement with the Shipping Board and the Labor Adjustment Commission along the lines demanded by President Wilson. Apparently in preparation for such a step he today gave up his unqualified demand for the adoption of the closed shop principle for the carpenters, but he continued to demand special treatment to the extent that all carpenters should be employed through the Department of Labor, refusing to sign the agreement requested by President Wilson until this new point had been debated.

In explanation of his revised position, which seemed to have as little support on the part of other branches of organized labor as his demand for the closed shop, he made this statement tonight:

"We have had several conferences with the Shipping Board. The only proposition they presented to us was to sign the memorandum which takes from our members constitutional rights as citizens of the United States.

"President Hutcheson offers as a measure of settlement that the carpenters would agree to come under the findings of the Wage Adjustment Board with relation to hours and wages, the method of employing workmen in the woodworking industry to be through the Department of Labor of the United States Government."

Mr. Hutcheson refused further to define his attitude at the conclusion of his conference with Charles A. Piez, General Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. It is understood that Mr. Hutcheson is anxious to have all carpenters employed through the Department of Labor, so that the union carpenters may have a representative present to pass upon the qualifications of the men accepted.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—It is asserted that on being asked by Rumania that he allow the proper time for the formation of a new Rumanian Cabinet, Field Marshal von Mackensen, the German Commander in Rumania, replied dictatorially that he expected the Cabinet to be formed within forty-eight hours.

He also stipulated that it was to include no statesman conspicuously hostile toward Germany or Austria.

other dozen small experimental companies. The metal work was mostly done by hand, each machine built as a separate unit, and little attempt made to manufacture from dies, jigs, or gauges. The estimates of the total value of the industry vary from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 and of employes from 5,000 to 10,000. The Government was practically the only purchaser, having ordered 366 planes the year before the war, of which only sixty-six were actually delivered.

"The engineering problems were even more complex. Europe, at war with the best engineers of each country pitted against each other in a struggle which knew no close, had worked out the most ingenious developments in the light of actual fighting experience. Information reaching here was generally fragmentary and always late. As a result, when war came, the United States had practically no airplane engineering staff and no modern fighting planes.

"Construction of planes presented a much more complex problem than that of engines, which had been developed and produced here for other purposes on a colossal scale. The extreme refinement of their manufacture, requiring 23,000 screws in a single fighter, or 700 pieces of wood in a single wing, necessitated the most expert workmanship and balance to secure the essential combination of lightness with strength, and seemed to militate against quantity production.

"The first step was to secure information from Europe. A commission was early sent across and rushed back the last minute details, upon the strength of which a large number of fighting planes of a certain type were ordered. The raw materials were very largely in hand and the drawings within several days of completion, when another cable said that this type had been superseded and should not be built. Nearly a month was thus lost.

"Drawings then came for another type. They had just been redrawn for American manufacture and the diemakers put to work when a second and different set arrived.

Third Change in Type.

"The work had to be cast aside and the process begun over again. Just as it was nearing completion, still a third set of drawings arrived and a third start was necessary. The unavoidable loss of time was preferred to turning out a design known at the outset to be out of date.

"The effect of separation from the battlefields by 3,000 miles is further shown in that anywhere from seventeen days to eleven weeks have been required to secure various important samples from abroad. Another three weeks of day and night work is necessary to reduce the samples to drawings for American manufacture. It is significant of the rapid development of the art of aviation that not a single type of the original schedule has survived into the present program.

"During the last months, however, a responsive channel of communication with the Allies has been opened, the latest types adapted to American manufacture, the industry increased at least twentyfold, the training plane problem solved, and the production of battle planes begun. It is still very necessary, however, to view America's effort in aviation against the true perspective, both in this country and in Europe.

"The great problem now remaining is to secure the thousands of skilled mechanics, engine men, motor repair men, wood and metal workers, &c., needed to keep the planes always in perfect condition. This great engineering and mechanical force at the airdromes, the flying fields, and the repair depots, both here and behind the line in France, is a vital industrial link in the chain to air supremacy. Without them the planes turned out would soon be useless and the fliers helpless.

"At best the life of a plane is but two months, and the engines must be overhauled after seventy-five hours, while a pilot on a plane allowed to leave the hangars in imperfect condition is as helpless as a bird with a broken wing. Now that American battle planes are going overseas, a great increase in the volunteering of skilled mechanics is both essential and expected."

HOPE IN IRISH CONVENTION.

Bonar Law Rejects Assumption That It Will Be Fruitless.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons today, Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, said that it was much too soon to assume that the Irish convention would have no result.

German Embassy in Madrid Plotted with Anarchists There

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Close relations between the German Embassy at Madrid and the most notorious anarchists in Spain have been brought to light, according to the Matin.

The newspaper El Sol has published documents to prove that Dr. von Stohrer, Second Secretary of the German Embassy at Madrid, sent money to anarchistic agitators, and committed the imprudence of writing to them.

The propaganda thus financed, adds this paper, was directed not only against public order, but even against the person of the King. The revelations have had a deep effect in Madrid.

At the request of the Spanish authorities, a safe conduct through France has been granted to Captain von Krohn, the former German Naval Attaché at Madrid, whose recall was requested by the Spanish Government. Von Krohn's family will also be permitted to travel through France on condition that they conform to all necessary measures prescribed by the authorities.

SEES GERMAN REVOLT.

Morris Hillquit Says Workmen Will Join Russian Brothers.

Before an audience which rose fervently to every flight of his oratory, Morris Hillquit, in Carnegie Hall last night, asserted that the workingmen of Germany and Austria yet would revolt against their rulers and cry that, instead of shedding their blood for military autocrats, they would die, if die they must, to help their brothers in Russia.

He declared that the Socialists of this country were better equipped than any others to undertake the work of spreading propaganda abroad, offered his personal services, and said that he and men like him could render more effective aid than Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, who recently was sent to Switzerland for propaganda purposes.

The speaker said President Wilson was now "standing behind the Socialists—just three months behind them."

TROOPS FROM UPTON WILL ARRIVE TODAY

BAKER CANNOT REVIEW IT

Brig. Gen. Wittenmyer Will Lead the Soldiers Down Fifth Avenue Tomorrow.

The soldiers from the "Metropolitan Division," who will parade in New York tomorrow afternoon, are due to arrive from Camp Upton today, the first units at 9 o'clock this morning. The other units will arrive at intervals, and it is expected that all of the men who will be seen in line will have arrived in the city by noon. Secretary of War Baker, who was asked to be the principal reviewing officer, telegraphed the Mayor's Committee on National Defense yesterday that owing to the pressure of official business in Washington it would be impossible for him to visit New York. An invitation was also sent to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, but his reply had not been received when the offices of the Mayor's Committee closed last night.

A general order was issued yesterday by Brig. Gen. Evan M. Johnson, Acting Commander at Camp Upton, which directs the troops to wear "service uniform, with overcoat, winter hat, tan shoes, officers, leather leggings and insignia of arm on hat over right eye. Equipment, rifle, belts and short pack, containing one pair of socks, poncho, shelter half and blanket. In case of rain poncho will be worn over the overcoat. Officers will wear belt and revolver."

Brigadier General E. Wittenmeyer and staff will command the division. After the men are dismissed in their armories they will be free until Monday, when they will return to the armories, receive their equipment and march to the trains.

Troops' Carfare in Doubt.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, N. Y., Feb. 20.—The Long Island Railroad officials discovered late today that no one had contracted to pay for the transportation of the troops of this cantonment, which are to parade in New York on Friday, and word was communicated to Division Headquarters here. The understanding has been all along that the expenses of the trip were to be borne by the Mayor's Committee on National Defense, this division having no funds for such purposes. The transportation officials at once sent a message to the committee, advising them of the oversight.

Several units will take their mascots with them. Among these will be the bear "Hell's Fire" of Company K, 307th Infantry, and "Kaiser Bill," the Company I goat of the same regiment. The former will be paraded in a rolling cage, if one can be procured. There will be six bands in the parade, those of the 305th, 306th, 307th, and 308th Infantry Regiments, the 367th Colored Infantry, and 302d Engineers.

Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, visited the camp today as the guest of Colonel C. O. Sherrell of the 302d Engineers.

NO JUNKET FOR LEGISLATORS.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 20.—The proposed legislative junket to see the Camp Upton men parade in New York City on Friday came to grief in the Senate today. A concurrent resolution introduced by Senator Gilchrist of Brooklyn, providing for an appropriation of $5,000 to pay the freight, was reported from the Senate Finance Committee with the amount reduced to $1,000, and Senator Henry M. Sage, Chairman of the Committee, begrudged even that small contribution toward a legislative outing. Senator Gilchrist, in a huff over the cut, said he could no longer support his own resolution. Senator Sage rose in rejoinder.

"A thousand dollars does not seem to be a great deal of money, but we will need every cent we can raise in this State for essentials," he said. "Moreover, the use of lumber which is needed for other purposes to erect a grandstand for the member of the Legislature to sit upon, so the people can see them, to my mind is an outrageous proposition. That is why I am against this and all other proposals of its kind." The resolution was beaten 25 to 16.

ACCEPTS PREMIER'S VIEW.

London Press in General Satisfied with His Versailles Explanation.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A majority of the morning papers accept the statement made in the House of Commons yesterday by Premier Lloyd George as a satisfactory explanation of the War Council and General Staff situation, entirely approve of the Versailles agreement, and consider the whole incident straightened out. Hostile newspapers continue to be unconvinced and reiterate their sharp criticisms, but seem resigned to the situation. They express the opinion that no Government crisis is likely to arise at present, although they believe the Ministry has been weakened by recent events.

Some of the papers which accept readily enough the Premier's statement and commend it nevertheless indorse the regret expressed by ex-Premier Asquith that the Premier did not speak with equal clearness a week ago. Several support the appeal of Austen Chamberlain that the Government sever its connection with the press.

BELIEVE HUMBERT CANNOT ESCAPE

ROSE FROM HUMBLE ORIGIN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 19. (Delayed.)—The arrest of Senator Humbert surprised no one who had been in touch with the proceedings in the Bolo case. As the Senator left the witness box one of the French journalists present remarked: "Humbert is a frog who has been trying to swell as big as an ox. I think he is going to blow up very soon." These words summarize cruelly but exactly the opinion of insiders regarding a man who has risen from the humblest beginnings to be a national figure in the great war.

Irrespective of the present charges against him, it may fairly be said that Humbert's personality has always been antipathetic to those who watched him closely. He has been regarded as a type of what the French call "un arriviste féroce"—an adventurer who is savagely determined to "get there" at all costs—and it has been long averred in well-informed circles that his methods savored too strongly of some of the worst features of modern French political life.

Born in 1866, Humbert began life as a dishwasher in a café. At 18 he enlisted in the army and some years later entered the school for noncommissioned officers at St. Maixent, which he left with the rank of Second Lieutenant. For the next few years his life was that of the average officer in a garrison town, except that he paid special attention to the purchasing side of his regimental duties and made useful friends, while also keeping an eye on the main chance in connection with food and other contracts which passed through his hands.

One day he attracted the attention of General André, who made him his aide de camp, and when André became Minister of War Humbert received a post under him. It was there that he developed the policy on which his success has been largely based and which, in face of the damning presumptive evidence, enabled him to remain at liberty so long. That is the policy of keeping "dossiers"—collections of data regarding the public and private life of individuals—which since the days of Fouché has been the chief weapon of the French police and has lately figured largely in politics.

A Master of Intrigue.

General André instituted a series of inquiries into the religious and political views of army officers which raised a storm of protest and caused widespread dissatisfaction in the army. Humbert did not organize the campaign, but was closely associated with General François, its principal director. He certainly realized the opportunities the information thus gained would give him, and it is declared by those in a position to know that in the days of his greatness he had a service of secret police at his disposal by means of which he could bring pressure to bear in any direction he wished. Among his associates in the War Office he soon gained the reputation of being a master of intrigue, and it was said by one of them: "Humbert will either end on the guillotine or as President of the Republic." His ability to judge which way the wind was blowing served him greatly at this juncture. He was one of the first of those concerned to realize how unpopular André's inquiries were becoming, and by his flamboyant resignation in 1902 he got the credit of dissociating himself from the whole business.

For a short time he occupied a post as a minor Government functionary. Then he became friendly with Philippe Bunau-Varilla, and as Secretary General took active charge of the Matin. Although he was no journalist—right to the end his articles in the Journal were chiefly written for him by his subordinates—he was of great value to the Matin. He ran a series of campaigns and organized "leagues"—one under the direct patronage of President Loubet—and, while using the Matin's influence to push himself forward, at the same time directed the policy which contributed largely to the great advance in prosperity made by the Matin at this period. In 1906 he presented himself as a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies to represent Verdun, and was elected by a big majority. Two years later he entered the Senate, being its youngest member, as representative of the Meuse Department.

Specialized on Military Subjects.

From the outset he devoted himself to military subjects, especially to the neglected subject of heavy artillery, and soon became a member and later Vice President of the Senate Army Committee. At that time he appeared destined for high office. Those who were close to him, however, distrusted the cold selfishness which they divined under his appearance of bluff heartiness.

In 1909 he had a disagreement with the Matin and transferred his allegiance to the Journal, which, founded in 1893 on an ambitious basis by Letellier, an ex-contractor and a well known journalist, Fernand Xaus, had leaped into prominence. In the palmy days of the Journal, in 1915, the circulation of the paper exceeded 1,200,000, and when the death of Xaus was followed by that of the elder Letellier, Humbert realized that from the latter's son, Henri, he might obtain an unparalleled opportunity.

In the meantime he had divorced his first wife and married a rich woman. In 1914 his campaign for better heavy artillery was having prodigious effect and formed an admirable prelude to his wartime slogan of "Cannon and munitions." He won by it enormous popularity among the masses, who regarded him as the most sincere of patriots; but it is worth noting that, despite his apparent claims to office, he was never asked to form part of any Government. Those who knew him recognized the interested motives that lay behind his show of patriotism and distrusted him accordingly.

As the Figaro says today, "Humbert's head was turned by easy popularity. He became swollen and arrogant and thought he controlled the destinies of the nation. The role was too heavy for a man of limited abilities, simply exaggerated by the mirage of publicity, and, above all for a man who had sown around him so many hatreds during the invisible struggles of his life."

Ready to Take "Tainted Money."

Thinking he had enough power and influence to take risks with impunity, he accepted Lenoir's tainted money from Switzerland as affording him an opportunity to become part proprietor of the Journal. The story goes that a huge sum in small French bills, whose bloodstained and tattered appearance bore all too clear testimony to their having formed part of the German plunder in invaded territory, was actually deposited for a time in the Journal safe, under Humbert's eyes. That he knew the source of Lenoir's millions and deliberately used the knowledge to force Lenoir to yield him control of the Journal seems all too probable. Then, when Lenoir's guardian, Maitre Brunet, intervened, Humbert, rather than sacrifice the victory almost in his grasp, was prepared to welcome the equally tainted millions of Bolo. The suggestion that he acted in all innocence is an insult to his cunning, and his trial will show that he was willing to risk the stigma of treachery to make himself supreme master of the Journal.

That he intended to betray France no one believes. Like Bolo, he utilized equivocal means for his personal advantage. But in wartime such conduct is doubly criminal, and Humbert's position increases the scandal of the action tenfold.

It is certain that Humbert will make a better fight than Bolo, but insiders already assert that his acquittal is impossible. They expect that he will escape the death sentence, but nevertheless the volley that does justice on Bolo will ring ominously in Humbert's ears.

TESTIFY AGAINST HUMBERT.

Two Witnesses Heard—Caillaux Inquiry Is Also Proceeding.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—The investigation in the case of ex-Premier Caillaux, who is charged with treason, was continued today with the examination of several witnesses by Captain Bouchardon of the Paris Military Court. Among the witnesses was Charles Bertelli, a newspaper correspondent.

The investigation into the case against Senator Charles Humbert, who likewise is accused of treason, was also continued. Lieutenant Bondoux, one of Captain Bouchardon's assistants, heard two witnesses, who had volunteered to give testimony concerning the "affaires" involving Paul Comby, a lawyer, who is under arrest charged with complicity in the Caillaux and Bolo Pacha cases, and Louis Loustalot, Deputy for Landes, who was arrested in January after his Parliamentary immunity had been suspended.

SHIPPING SPELLS OUR ARMY'S SUCCESS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Feb. 19.—American officers said today that the success of the American army now depended entirely upon shipping. The morale and discipline of the troops compare favorably with those of any army in Europe.

General Pershing has written to the British War Office requesting that as far as possible American soldiers passing through England be not allowed to obtain spirits, in conformity with the United States regulations, because the honor of the army depended upon the sobriety of officers and men.

Americans have been in the trenches at the front one month today. They have had small casualties, comprising 19 killed, (18 outright and 1 of wounds,) 3 seriously wounded, 63 slightly wounded, and 3 gassed. The health of the army is good. Five per cent. have been sick, four-tenths of one per cent. wounded, and three-tenths of one per cent. have had blood diseases.

A six-foot soldier shot himself in the hand in camp on Sunday because he always was hungry and wanted to go home to eat. The company cook described him as a human ostrich, who ate as much as any five men. A platoon commander stated the soldier was brave in the trenches and had stood upon a parapet in daylight and defied the Germans to shoot him. The enemy fired machine guns and could not hit him.

I visited an artillery battery today forty miles away, in a wood where the Germans had mowed down trees all round with four hours of firing in a vain effort to silence American guns. In the twenty-four hours ending at noon today the enemy fired 3,000 shells, more than the total of the previous seven days. Seven men were slightly wounded.

German aviators drop bombs on a city a little distance away from 6 to 8 o'clock nightly. This keeps the French people from dinner, as the servants all take refuge in dugouts.

Latest statistics show that it takes 10,000 shots on an average to bring down one airplane.

FEW LIABLE TO SERVICE.

Less Than 1,000 Americans in Britain Subject to Conscription.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The convention between the American and British Governments permitting each to call up the nationals of the other resident within its jurisdiction is unlikely to affect many American citizens here.

It is reckoned by the Embassy that there are now in the United Kingdom only 8,000 men, women, and children of American nationality, the smallest number for years. Of these it is known that only 2,000 men are within the British military age; and, as Americans are liable to service in their army only within much narrower limits, the number who must now either join the British or American army is probably less than 1,000.

BRITISH CONTINUE AIR RAIDS

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Naval airmen continue to bomb docks, airdromes, and other targets in Belgium, and have accounted for four German airplanes, according to an Admiralty announcement issued last night. The statement reads:

Naval aircraft dropped many tons of explosives Monday night on St. Denis Westrem and the docks, at Bruges and drove down an enemy machine. Large quantities of explosives were dropped Tuesday on the airdrome at Aertrycke and the dump at Engel with good results. An enemy seaplane was brought down at sea, another was downed within the British lines, and a third was sent down out of control.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 20.—A raid by Entente aviators on Treves, Rhenish Prussia, is reported in a dispatch from that city to the Cologne Gazette. It says bombs were dropped in various parts of Treves, causing damage to property. No military establishments were injured.

FRENCH IN LORRAINE TAKE 400 PRISONERS

BRITISH REPULSE RAIDS

Also Capture Germans as the Result of Successful Patrol Operations.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—French detachments made a heavy attack on the Germans in Lorraine today, entering the German lines over a large front and capturing more than 400 prisoners, according to the War Office announcement tonight.

The bulletin reads:

> In the Argonne we repulsed an attack at Four de Paris and inflicted appreciable losses on the enemy.
>
> In Lorraine, north of Bures and east of Moncel, (northeast of Nancy,) our detachments penetrated the German lines deeply on a large front. This operation, brilliantly carried out, enabled us to bring back prisoners, the number of which are known to exceed 400.
>
> In the Vosges there was quite marked artillery fighting in the region of La Fave.
>
> Aviation—On Feb. 19 four German airplanes were brought down by our pilots. A fifth was destroyed by our special guns. Three other German machines fell inside their own lines seriously damaged after engagements.

"Three German raids on small French posts in the region of Quincy Wood, northwest of Courcy, and in the sector of Vauquois, were repulsed by the French fire," says this afternoon's official report. "There was rather violent artillery fighting in Champagne, in the region of Butte du Mesnil, (where American batteries took part in the French attack of Feb. 13,) and in the Vosges."

"On the remainder of the front the night passed in quiet."

BERLIN, Feb. 20, (via London.)—Army Headquarters reports artillery and mine-firing duels on various parts of the front and the repulse of British and French attacks in Flanders and Champagne, respectively.

The text of the afternoon statement follows:

> There have been artillery and mine-firing duels on several parts of the front. Strong reconnoitring attacks by the British West of Houthem [southeast of Ypres] and by the French near Juvincourt and north of Rheims were repulsed.
>
> Elsewhere nothing occurred.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—British raiding parties and patrols in Flanders and Northern France have taken a few prisoners, according to the official reports, which also note the repulse of German raids.

Tonight's communication from Field Marshal Haig says:

> A few prisoners were brought in by our patrols on the southern portion of the front. A raid was attempted by the enemy early this morning east of Armentières, but was repulsed.
>

The text of the afternoon report follows:

> After a heavy preliminary bombardment the enemy attempted to raid our line last night east of Arleux-en-Gohelle, [south of Lens.] The attacking party was completely repulsed by our troops, with the loss of a number of Germans killed or taken prisoners.
>
> A successful local enterprise was carried out early last night northeast of Wytschaete. Several prisoners were captured by us.
>

LOCATE AMERICAN MISSING.

Three, Including Jersey City Man, Are in German Prison Camp.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Three American soldiers, missing after an action in November, were reported today located in a German prison camp. They are Corporal Nicholas Mulhall, Infantry, 189 Ninth Street, Jersey City, N. J.; Private Edwin H. Haines, Infantry, R. F. D., No. 4, of Woodward, Okla., and Private Frank E. McDougal, Infantry, of Maryville, Mo.

110 PERSONS ARE LOST AS STEAMER IS SUNK

Attacking Submarine Not Seen When the Dives Went Down in the Mediterranean.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—One hundred and ten persons perished when the steamer Dives was torpedoed in the Mediterranean on Feb. 1, according to an official announcement.

The French steamer La Dives, of 1,177 tons, hailed from Marseilles. She was owned by the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique and was formerly the steamer Prins Willem V.

GOMPERS TO CONFERENCE.

Tells London Gathering No Americans Will Attend.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The delegates to the Interallied Conference of Socialist and Labor Parties gathered today at Central Hall, within a stone's throw of the Houses of Parliament, for a convention in which they expect to formulate a unified statement of the war aims approved by the Socialists of all the allied countries. Today's proceedings were largely formal, owing to the fact that a number of the foreign delegates had not arrived, and no important business will be transacted until the next session, which is fixed for Friday. It is announced that the meetings will all be held behind closed doors, the newspapers receiving an official statement of the day's proceedings after each session.

The points upon which discussion will chiefly turn are the exact phraseology to be employed regarding Alsace-Lorraine, the scope of the measures necessary to give Italy comprehensive race unity and security for the future, and the provisions regarding tropical Africa and the German colonies.

During today's session Arthur Henderson, former Minister without portfolio in the War Cabinet, read a cable dispatch from Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, announcing the refusal of the American Federation to participate in this or other conferences at the present time, owing to the belief that German influences were their inspiration. The delegates listened quietly to the reading of the dispatch, and made no demonstration. The message was referred to a committee, which is to decide the form of reply, if any, to be sent to Mr. Gompers.

Neither Mr. Henderson nor any of the other leaders would comment on the message, but the remarks of delegates showed that they resented the imputation that German influences inspired the present conference.

"I guess we ought to know more about that than those 4,000 miles away," said one delegate.

GENEVA, Feb. 20.—Tracts and newspapers violently attacking President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George, and Premier Clemenceau have been found by Swiss mountain climbers in a balloon basket on the summit of Mt. Dole, the highest peak of the Jura Alps.

It is supposed that the balloon became stranded on the mountain while on its way to France. The Alpinists made a bonfire of the papers.

BRITISH AIR SUPREMACY BLOCKS FOES' PLANS

Maurice Says German Desire to End Use of Gas Is Due to Failure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—German boasts of the discovery of a new and more deadly gas which will be used in the forthcoming offensive are regarded by British military experts as completely baseless. They hold that it is just because the Allies have in the matter of gas seen the Germans at their own game and gone them one better that the latter have induced the International Red Cross at Geneva to raise a belated protest against the use of this weapon on the ground of inhumanity.

Discussing this matter today, General Frederick D. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office, said:

"We have now established definite superiority over the Germans. The gas we employ is more deadly, and our means of protection are more effective than theirs."

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Major Gen. Frederick B. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the British War Office, said today that there had been no developments on the west front in the past fortnight to indicate that the German offensive was near. One of the most satisfactory features of the work of the two weeks in the west had been the continued British successes in the air, which had great importance as the preliminary to any battle. General Maurice added that the British air predominance hampered the enemy tremendously in gaining information which was required by him before the beginning of any important battle.

Since Jan. 1, General Maurice said, the Germans had carried out five air raids on England, of which two were abortive. In the same period the British had made thirteen raids into Germany, all of which had definite results.

Discussing the efforts of the Germans to have the International Geneva Convention Red Cross arrange for a discontinuance of the use of poisonous gas, General Maurice asserted that the Entente would be glad to give up this gas if it were possible to get a guarantee that Germany would be bound by any promise or agreement to do likewise.

"The Germans," said General Maurice, "have recently been exercising great pressure on the Geneva Red Cross to put out a protest against the use of poison gas. The Allies are ready at any time to give up the use of poison gas. But I ask you to remember the circumstances under which poison gas was introduced into warfare.

"It was in April, 1915, that the Germans made a surprise attack on the Franco-British at Ypres with gas, which hitherto was a prohibited weapon in war. Naturally we had no defense ready against it. The French had to retire, and a Canadian division only saved Ypres by desperately costly fighting.

"Afterward the Germans repeated their gas attack at various times, but our defensive measures were rapidly developed, and these attacks were less effective.

"Meanwhile, we began to develop the use of gas on our side as a countermeasure. Our chemists got to work, and did so well that today we have attained distinct superiority over the Germans, both in the deadliness of our gas on the offensive and in its effectiveness in our defensive measures. It was not until we won this superiority that they started a propaganda for the discontinuance of gas.

"You know the Allies' position with respect to German agreements and promises. If we agree to abstain from the use of gas, have we any guarantee, can we have any guarantee upon which the commanders who are responsible for the lives of their men could rely, that Germany will not again try to spring a surprise on us, as she did in 1915?"

BRITISH DRIVE IN PALESTINE

Gain Two Miles on 15-Mile Front East of Jerusalem.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The British Army in Palestine made an attack yesterday east of Jerusalem, advancing two miles on a front of fifteen miles, it is announced officially. The communication follows:

"Yesterday morning we advanced to the attack on a frontage of fifteen miles east of Jerusalem. By evening all objectives had been secured, to an average depth of two miles."

ITALIAN AIRMEN ACTIVE.

With British Aid They Inflict Damage on Aviation Camps.

ROME, Feb. 20.—Effective aerial activity by the Italians and their allies is reported in today's official communication. Two enemy aviation camps were bombed, and at one of them a large fire was started. Strong enemy detachments which attempted an attack east of Monte Pertica were driven back.

2 BURN TO DEATH IN SALVATION BARRACKS

Two persons were burned to death in a fire which practically destroyed the old headquarters of the Salvation Army at 124-130 West Fourteenth Street, early this morning. The bodies of the victims, badly charred, were found on the second floor of the building half an hour after the blaze was extinguished. They were burned so badly that it was impossible to tell whether they were the bodies of men or women, but a census of those in the building showed only two men, Winfield Matthews and Einer Anderson, missing.

The building was used as an officers' training school by the Salvation Army. At the time of the fire there were 115 persons, 43 of them women, sleeping in the place. The fire spread rapidly and, according to the police, it was due only to the excellent fire drill that there were not many more victims. As it was a number of the women reached the street scantily clad and several were hysterical. They were cared for in the armory of the Ninth Coast Artillery, across the street.

It was 12:30 o'clock when George Dennick, a watchman, discovered the blaze. He turned in an alarm from within the building. When firemen arrived, a few moments later, they turned in three alarms at once. Calls for ambulances were also sent in.

In the meanwhile, Colonel Charles Miles, in charge of the building, had every one of the lodgers aroused and ordered the fire drill, in which he conducted training every day. Most of the men and women formed in line and were marched downstairs and across the street to the armory. Here they started straightway to sing hymns of praise, when it was found that all were not there. A moment later firemen brought in three women who had been taken from a fire escape on the top floor of the three-story building.

The blaze, which started on the second floor, soon spread through the building. Firemen tried to go through some of the rooms while the blaze was at its height, but were able to make little progress. Two of them were hurt slightly and a half dozen overcome by smoke. They were taken to the armory, where soldiers helped to care for them.

An hour after the fire started it was out, but the interior of the building was a wreck. Firemen found the two bodies in a room on the second floor where the blaze had been the hottest.

The building was for many years New York headquarters of the Salvation Army. Upon the opening of the new headquarters next door, the structure was used as a training camp for officers of the Salvation Army. It was an old-fashioned, three-story building. The police estimated the damage from the fire at $25,000.

BOTH SIDES READY IN WEST, SAYS BAKER

GERMANS TO USE RAW MEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary Baker, in his weekly review issued today, regards the impending German offensive on the western battle line with a note of confidence. Both the Allies and the Germans, he says, after extensive preparations silently and systematically carried on, are ready for battle.

"While there have been outwardly no new developments in the military situation in the west during the period under consideration," says the review, "yet it is apparent that both the enemy and the Allies, after extensive preparations, which have been silently and systematically carried on, are ready for battle. The Germans have recently withdrawn a number of their veteran west front units from the first line trenches and are busily training them in mobile warfare.

"According to advices received, the German General Staff hopes that by massing a large number of these picked shock battalions, which have been intensively trained, they may deliver a crushing blow. The bulk of the German forces are now assembled in the west. But a large number of these units are wholly untrained in the method of western front warfare, which differs radically from that conducted along other fronts. Furthermore, the German higher command realizes fully that their forces will meet with far more difficult tactical obstacles than any hitherto encountered by an attacking army. A break through was possible in Russia only after the morale of the Russians had been undermined; the same was true in Italy, and we witnessed how speedily the Italian line was mended.

Pumps Busy in Trenches.

"During the week there has been much activity of a minor character along the entire western front. As has already been announced, in Lorraine a segment of the line is entirely under the control of our forces. Along our front patrol encounters were numerous. The Germans undertook a raid against our positions and succeeded in inflicting a few casualties. A small American patrol, while scouting in No Man's Land, was ambushed by the enemy.

"The weather was very rainy during the first part of the week and our troops were busy manning the pumps in an effort to keep their trenches dry. Later clear weather prevailed and hostile aircraft made frequent flights to reconnoitre our positions. A marked improvement in our anti-aircraft barrage is reported. Artillery duels took place and the Germans showered our lines with gas shells, which, however, caused no casualties owing to efficient gas mask protection.

"In Champagne units of American artillery participated in an engagement undertaken by French forces. This operation was the most important of the week in the west. After very careful artillery preparation, during which our batteries co-operated usefully, French infantry advanced to the assault southwest of the Butte du Mesnil, along a front of about 1,400 yards. The French, succeeding in penetrating the German positions, broke through the second and reached the third German line. During this brisk attack the French destroyed many enemy shelters, inflicted much damage to enemy positions, besides bringing back 150 prisoners.

"Other successful raids were undertaken by French detachments in the vicinity of the Chemin des Dames, east of Rheims, in upper Alsace and elsewhere. In all the French drove forward twelve very fortunate reconnoissance undertakings along different parts of the line.

German Raids Break Down.

"German units were also active. Their attempts to reach the French lines were temporarily successful in the vicinity of Bezonvaux and in Alsace. However, seven German raids at various other points broke down. French artillery kept the enemy constantly engaged along a widely scattered area.

"The British front was also the scene of numerous minor engagements. No important actions took place and the enemy, who was evidently busy with the grouping of units and disposing fresh forces recently arrived from other theatres in the front line, undertook only such reconnoitring engagements as to familiarize the new units with the nature of the terrain in front of them.

FOUGHT 10 GERMAN FLIERS.

Machine Said to Have Been in Flames When Ensign Sturtevant Fell.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Vice Admiral Sims advised the Navy Department today that the American seaplane in which Ensign Albert Dalton Sturtevant, U. S. N., R. F., was lost, is said by the Germans to have been shot down in flames. Ensign Sturtevant was second pilot in the machine.

FARM FEDERATION ASSAILS WHITMAN

HOOVER ALSO UNDER FIRE

Agricultural Forces Decide to Take More Active Part in Next New York Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Resolutions demanding the immediate repeal of laws creating the State Food Control Commission and the State Council of Farms and Markets, with accompanying criticism of Governor Whitman, were adopted unanimously today by 300 delegates to the first meeting of the New York Federation of Agriculture. The organization represents various societies of food producers, with a total membership of approximately 250,000.

Delegates from the Grange, the horticultural societies, the State Farm Bureaus, and the Dairymen's League rose to their feet and cheered wildly when Professor Samuel A. Fraser, who fought the appointment of George A. Perkins as Food Controller and won it against the Governor, presented the resolutions. His address was a bitter attack on the personnel and methods of both the commission and the Markets Council, and especially of Charles H. Betts of Lyons, Secretary of both bodies, to whom Professor Fraser referred as a "plum and beet sugar farmer." The reference to the plums was readily understood, and most of the delegates recognized the allusion to the beet sugar scandal of several years ago.

The new federation, which was formed provisionally with the selection of Silas L. Strivings of Castile, head of the State Federation of Farm Bureaus, as President, is practically the nucleus of a new agrarian party, organized primarily for the defeat of Governor Whitman in the primaries this Fall. Its platform is a remarkable arraignment of the State Administration, which, the farmers assert, has never kept faith with them in the slightest degree, and a vigorous demand for "a new and a square deal."

Professor Fraser, who was farm Superintendent of Senator Wadsworth's estates for several years, was made Vice President and Seth J. T. Bush of Morton, head of the Western New York Horticultural Society and an ancient foe of George Waldridge, the Whitman boss of Monroe County, was elected Secretary. Willis P. Rogers of Williamson as Treasurer completes the list of officers.

Charges against the Governor in connection with the diversion of funds from the old Food Supply Commission, which was ousted last summer in favor of the Food Control Commission, were made by Professor Fraser and Sherman J. Lowell, Master of the State Grange, both of whom were members of the ousted commission.

Besides resolutions affecting the State Administration, the federation strongly condemned Herbert C. Hoover's methods of price fixing, voted down several proposed appeals for the exemption of farm help from the draft, demanded the appointment of a practical farmer on the Federal Food Commission, demanded quick action on the National Suffrage Amendment, and inaugurated a campaign to put fifty practical farmers in the State Legislature next year.

Liberty Hyde Bailey, former Dean of the Cornell College of Agriculture and a possible Democratic candidate for Governor this Fall, was the principal speaker this afternoon. He predicted an increased scarcity of food this year and commended the farmers for "taking the law into their own hands" to find remedies. The formation of the federation, he said, was the most significant event of the generation in political and economic progress.

P. N. MOORE ASSAILS BAKER AND CREEL

DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

"Things Are Not Going Badly in Washington," Federal Shipping Official Tells Members at Dinner.

Secretary of War Baker and George Creel, Director of the Bureau of Information in Washington, were last night termed respectively "a temporarily reformed pacifist" and "a temporarily reformed muck-raker" by Philip N. Moore, retiring President of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. Mr. Moore, who presided at the annual dinner of the Institute at the Biltmore, criticised the Administration's conduct of the war, although he praised very highly the dollar a year patriots who sacrificed everything at the call of the nation. It was while he was introducing the principal speaker of the evening, Bainbridge Colby of the Federal Shipping Board, that Mr. Moore spoke of Secretary Baker and Director Creel:

"Red tape has hampered the efficiency of the various departments at Washington, to which some of the greatest business men of the country have sacrificed time and money to assist. A series of checks and balances has been set up which tends to nullify decisive action. But what can we expect with a temporarily reformed pacifist at the head of our War Department? Sometimes we have been in doubt as to whether we received all the news of the situation that should have come to us, but what can we look for with a temporarily reformed muck-raker in charge of the distribution of news? We are going to hear from Mr. Colby the true state of affairs."

Mr. Colby was obviously a trifle startled by the introduction given him, for he said:

"I want to correct the impression that I have come to criticise, which has been given perhaps by your President's rhetorical introduction. I have no desire to indulge in grandiose predictions, but on the other hand I want to say that it is highly important we do entire justice to our Government. The Administration in Washington is in the most authenticated way the Administration of the whole American people. We should remember that.

"I sometimes wonder if we are an efficient people. We value liberty—I mean our personal freedom of action—a little too highly, it seems to me. We are not a nation of students with a passion for exactitude. There are perhaps too many horse doctors who are presidents of steel companies, too many lawyers who are Colonels of regiments. In fact, our institutions express, I believe, our national faults and virtues. It smacks of partisanship for any one to say that the men who were elected to office by the vote of the people are failures, and those who were set aside are successes.

"We should approach any sort of criticism of the Government in a calm spirit. Things are not going badly in Washington. I have an unimportant post, and perhaps it is a little indelicate for me to rush to the defense of the Administration; but I want to tell you of a speech Senator Borah made the other night at a dinner in Washington. He spoke of how he had followed the investigations. Then he said that what amazed him was not the few blunders and mistakes made, but the wonders that had been achieved in the short time."

Mr. Colby said he had been a little discouraged when he first came back from Europe at the apparent apathy of America in face of a world crisis. It pleased him, he added, to be able to declare that this apathy had now disappeared.

"We are going to win," he continued. "The mobilization of ships and men is progressing, and I can see daylight ahead. I think that in the last eight weeks we have turned the corner. I believe that at last the might of America has begun to unroll.

"There is only one business now for every American business man, and that is to beat Germany. To do this we have got to have ships, and then more ships. I think that the tonnage turned out by America this year will be greater than was ever turned out by any nation before. But we must not forget the submarine is still lurking in the Atlantic. It can destroy our ships as fast as they are made. It will be a nip-and-tuck battle before we can win. I'd like to see men of every profession and of every walk of life walking down to the shipyards to aid in the work of driving rivets. We must have ships. We must talk ships, pray ships. They are the whole problem."

The dinner was a strictly Hooverized meal. Each diner found at his place a copy of a letter from the Food Administrator urging cheerful self-denial, for in that way the war would be won. The letter said:

> I am glad to hear that the Conservation Division of the Food Administration is to dine in spirit with the American Institute of Mining Engineers.
>
> Be cheerful about this dinner; every year the war goes on the butter pot will shrink in size—but it has disappeared in Germany. Some year or other, when we are living on the present German ration—they will crack! Faithfully yours,
>
> HERBERT HOOVER.

W. O. Hotchkiss, a member of the War Minerals Board, said the trouble with the work done by the various bureaus at Washington was that the whole administration was a sort of an all-star aggregation, with all the faults of such.

"The most satisfactory thing I have seen in Washington," he said, "is the way commercial and business men have answered the country's call. There is not all the team work there should be, perhaps. I have seen, and there is in existence now, such things, an article shipped from Chicago to points on the Chesapeake Bay, while that same article was being shipped from Pittsburgh to Chicago. This particular article was sulphuric acid, and factories all over the country at the time were held up in their preparation of munitions because they did not have sulphuric acid."

Other speakers last night included Dr. W. G. Miller of the Ottawa Bureau of Mines and Captain E. E. Delieux of the French Army.

WAR FINANCE BILL NEARS COMPLETION

McAdoo and Senate Committee Agree on Several Important Changes in the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, was requested today by the Senate Finance Committee to redraft several provisions in the War Finance Corporation bill. The sections referred to cover exceptional cases not taken in by the general provisions of the measure, and Senator Simmons, Chairman of the committee, said tonight that he expected the Secretary's work to make it possible to reach an agreement on the bill at once.

In the revised bill the powers for licensing security issues of $100,000 and over will be vested, instead of in the Directors of the proposed corporation, in a "Capital Issues Committee," composed of three members of the Federal Reserve Board and three representatives of private financial interests. This provision would in effect give the present unoffical and voluntary Capital Issues Committee, now co-operating with the Treasury Department, legal authority to control large financing.

Another important change agreed to would limit authority of the corporation's Directors to make advance of Government funds direct to private industries "in exceptional cases." The proposed amendment will definitely prescribe that railroads, public utilities, and other specific classes of industries only shall be allowed to receive loans direct from the corporation. Addition also of a new clause specifically prohibiting Federal aid to industries without substantial standing is proposed.

Mr. McAdoo arranged to submit to the committee tomorrow drafts of the new amendments, and Senator Simmons said he hoped to complete and report the bill tomorrow. It will be considered in the Senate when the railroad bill is out of the way.

In his conference today with the committee, Secretary McAdoo also is understood to have acceded to the amendment recently adopted by the committee to clothe the President, instead of the Secretary, as head of the corporation, with the power of appointing the four other Directors of the corporation.

Senator Simmons corrected what he called an unfortunate impression that Secretary McAdoo had opposed amendment of the bill to provide that the President should appoint the four associate members of the corporation.

"Secretary McAdoo was in full accord with that change," said Senator Simmons, "as he has been with the committe on practically every amendment agreed to."

EXPLAINS EISENMAN'S CASE.

Secretary Baker Says He Is Still a Member of the Supplies Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary Baker tonight gave out a statement to clear away the misunderstanding regarding the status of Charles Eisenman of the Committee of Supplies, growing out of Mr. Baker's previous statement in a letter to Senator McKellar indicating that Mr. Eisenman was no longer connected with the work of the Council of National Defense.

Secretary Baker's statement also shows that he has written a letter to Mr. Eisenman in praise of his services. When Mr. Baker was asked for a copy of this letter he said that he had written the letter by pen and had retained no copy of it. Mr. Baker's statement today reads in part:

"Some confusion has been caused by my letter to Senator McKellar with regard to Mr. Charles Eisenman. The facts are that Mr. Eisenman was a member of the Supplies Committee of the Council of National Defense, acting under Mr. Julius Rosenwald, who is a member of the Advisory Commission, prior to the reorganization of the Quartermaster General's Department. The Supply Committee, largely through the activity of Mr. Eisenman, advised the Quartermaster General with regard to purchases of supplies.

"When the organization of the Quartermaster General's Department was completed that particular part of the work of the Supplies Committee was taken over and is conducted directly by the Quartermaster General's Department now. In the meantime the Supplies Committee has not been broken up, but is continuing under Mr. Rosenwald, and will continue to accumulate information in order that it may advise the several departments of the Government whose needs are co-ordinated through the Council of National Defense.

"Mr. Eisenman, who remains a member of that committee and is its Vice Chairman, will undoubtedly render very valuable service to the Government upon his return from a vacation trip. In the meantime, I am glad to have a public opportunity to say that the work done by Mr. Eisenman during all the hurried months of our early preparation was of the highest value to the Government, resulting in the saving of many millions of dollars, and that it was done in a spirit of patriotic devotion and self-forgetfulness which entitles him to the grateful appreciation of the country. I have already expressed to Mr. Eisenman personally and by letter the high value which I set upon both his services and the spirit in which they were rendered."

"There's a Reason"

PRESIDENT OPPOSES HIGHER WHEAT PRICE

SHIPMENTS ARE CUT DOWN

Agitation in Congress for Increase Causes Farmers to Hold Back Their Supplies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The full influence of the Administration will be used, if necessary, to prevent enactment of bills pending in Congress to increase the price of wheat. This became known tonight from an authoritative source.

Opposition to the measures, another of which was introduced today by Representative Helvering of Kansas, is based on the ground that their passage would upset the entire wheat and bread program of the Food Administration, worked out in great detail, and that President Wilson already has full authority to readjust the price if it is found advisable.

Wheat is selling now on a basis of $2.20 a bushel, and the price is maintained by heavy Government purchases for the army and navy and for the Allies. The Food Administration has worked out a scale of profits for millers and distributers of flour on this basis, and bread is selling at a fixed price.

In enacting the food control law Congress placed an arbitrary minimum price of $2 a bushel on next season's crop. This is the price that the bills offered seek to increase. The 20 per cent. difference between the price of last year's yield and this year's crop was fixed in large measure to draw wheat from the farms before the new crop is marketed.

Already the agitation for a higher price for next season's crop, Food Administration officials say, is checking the flow of wheat to the terminals and to the mills, and threatens to stop it entirely. There is no power under the Food act to force farmers to release their grain and, although the bills in Congress provide that the price shall apply only to the new crop, there is no way, officials say, to prevent the seller from mixing in old wheat with the new.

Heretofore the Food Administration has depended solely on the higher price for the last crop to force wheat on the market. If legislation providing higher prices for the new crop is enacted the Food Administration, it is declared, will be forced to increase the price on present holdings and in turn will have to set a higher price for flour, which would mean immediate increases in bread prices. Enormous profits, according to officials, would go to distributers, who now hold about 90,000,000 bushels of wheat and some 20,000,000 barrels of flour. There probably are on the farms about 125,000,000 bushels of wheat left over from the old crop, much of which will have to be held for seeding.

MOON TO SAVE LIGHT.

Current for Street Lamps Ordered Off in Jersey Towns.

Special to The New York Times.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 20.—Daniel F. Platt, Fuel Administrator for Bergen County, today issued an order to the Public Service Corporation not to furnish current for street lights in towns and villages except during periods specified by the order. The Administrator said he thought too much coal was being used in supplying lights in the towns and that on moonlight nights some of the current might be saved easily without inconveniencing any person or business. As a test case he ordered the arrest of Robert La Nier, foreman of the sub-station of the company here, who defied the order tonight by turning on the street lights.

During the nights when the moon is full, or until Feb. 25, no street lights are to be used at all, "unless the sky is markedly overcast." Between Feb. 26 and March 3 all street lights are to be turned off within an hour after moonrise. Rutherford, Hackensack, Ridgewood, and several other towns are affected by the ruling. The officers of the Public Service Corporation protest that the saving of coal will be almost negligible, but R. C. Jenkinson, the State Fuel Administrator, has declined to countermand the order of the County Administrator.

NEXT LIBERTY LOAN AT 4 1-2 PER CENT.

per cent. of their resources. not understanding that the request to set aside 1 per cent. a week carried with it the request to subscribe for an amount equal to at least 2 per cent. of their resources for each bi-weekly issue of certificates. No doubt this error will not be repeated, and the banks will subscribe at least 2 per cent. of their resources for the next issue.

"It should be borne in mind, furthermore, that the program of setting aside 1 per cent. a week and subscribing 2 per cent. for each issue is a minimum program; that there must be some banks and trust companies which cannot meet even this program and others which can do much more than the minimum. Those banks and trust companies that can should of course take certificates in excess of the indicated minimum.

"The extent of the response to the telegram sent to the banks and trust companies of the United States under date of Feb. 6 is shown by the fact that the number of subscribers for certificates of the issue dated Feb. 8 was double the number of subscribers for certificates of the preceding issue, dated Jan. 22. A telegram is being sent to every bank and trust company in the continental United States which has not as yet responded to the telegram of Feb. 6, asking again for a reply. The request to all the banks and trust companies will be followed up by the Treasury Department and through the organizations of the Federal Reserve banks.

"The banks and trust companies of the country which have not responded are earnestly requested to send in their subscriptions for the next issue to the full extent of their ability, so that the number of subscribers for this coming issue shall be again doubled and approximately every bank and trust company in the United States shall be upon the roll. This is a patriotic duty which is set for the banks and trust companies of the nation. I hope that they will meet the requirements of the situation.

"The next issue of Treasury certificates will bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum. There will be no further increase in the interest rate in connection with the issue of certificates in anticipation of the third Liberty Loan. In order further to popularize these issues of certificates they will be issued in denominations as low as $500."

Rights of Conversion.

There have been converted from the issue of $2,000,000,000 of the first Liberty Loan bonds slightly over $500,000,000, leaving approximately three-fourths of that issue open to the right of conversion, the authorisation for that loan giving the right to convert into any subsequent issue having any higher rate of interest. Bonds of the first issue that are converted into 4 per cents. of the second issue have all of the rights of those bonds. But the 4 per cent. bonds of the second loan, or converted 3½ s, may be exchanged for bonds of the third loan only, unless Congress provides otherwise.

The total amount of the second issue of Liberty Loan bonds was $3,808,766,000. It is therefore apparent that practically $5,308,000,000 bonds outstanding come under the operation of the advanced rate of interest, and can be converted into the prospective 4½ per cent. of the next issue.

Secretary McAdoo already has Congresional authority to issue $3,666,000,000 more Liberty bonds, at a rate to be prescribed by him. It will be necessary for him to obtain legislation for additional issues if that amount is to be exceeded for the third loan.

GLAD TUSCANIA WAS SUNK.

Woman Fined Fifty Dollars for Gloating Over Disaster.

Miss Rose Weiner of 31 West Forty-eighth Street, Bayonne, was fined $50 yesterday by Recorder William J. Cain of that city on a charge of disorderly conduct made by Joseph Smith of Jersey City, who declared the young woman, shortly after the sinking of the Tuscania, had said she hoped every ship carrying American soldiers would be sunk.

Counsel for the young woman pleaded guilty and asked for clemency. The Recorder said if the plea of guilt had not been entered he would have sent the young woman to jail for six months. He added that if any one made such a remark in Germany he or she would be stood against a wall and shot. Miss Weiner paid the fine. She was born in this country and attended the Bayonne schools.

Paul Gauzi, 31, an Austrian, of 12 East Sixteenth Street, was fined $50 by Recorder Cain for an insult to the President. He also pleaded guilty.

DANIELS TO ADDRESS LABOR

Secretary and Gompers Speak Tomorrow Night at Alliance Meeting.

The Executive Council of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy will begin a two-day session here this morning. The conference will close tomorrow night in a Washington's Birthday celebration at the Lexington Avenue Theatre, when Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, will speak. Many patriotic and civic organizations and trade unions will participate at this meeting.

MEXICANS BUY UP GRAIN.

United States May Protest Heavy Purchases Made in Argentina.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 20.—Between 30,000 and 40,000 tons of wheat and flour has been purchased by Mexican agents in Chile and Argentina for distribution in Mexico, according to El Universal, a semi-official newspaper published in Mexico City. It is already being loaded at South American ports, and is expected to reach Mexico City by March 15.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—Any attempt by Argentina to dispose of any considerable quantity of wheat other than to allied countries probably will meet with opposition by the United States and her co-belligerents. The report that Mexican agents had made contracts for wheat in Argentina were supplemented by information at the State Department today which indicated that the agents were members of the party that accompanied Luis Cabrera to South America.

Contracts already have been made by the French and British for the greater part of the surplus Argentine wheat, and officials of the American Government assume that the Argentine Government will see there is no violation of those agreements. In the event an effort is made to move grain to Mexico in large quantities difficulties probably will be placed in the way of providing bunker coal for any ships that might be intended for that purpose.

PROHIBITION BILLS OFFERED AT ALBANY

WOULD COME UP IN 1919

Another Bill in Senate Provides for War Emergency Prohibition Until Six Months After Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—Delay or defeat of the pending resolution for the ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment was foreshadowed today by the introduction, under the auspices of the Senate Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment, of two measures, one of which, if enacted, would make the State bone dry, while the other would prohibit the manufacture and sale in the State of intoxicants other than wines and malt liquors from Oct. 1 until six months after peace was concluded.

The bills were introduced by Senator Emerson of Warren, on behalf of the committee, of which he is Chairman. Senator Brown, President Pro Tem., said that the bone dry measure, a constitutional amendment, providing for statewide prohibition, was introduced purely to ascertain public sentiment on the question prior to action by the Legislature on the Federal amendment.

The bill was introduced as a war emergency. By its provisions a liquor tax certificate would entitle the holder to deal only in wines and malt liquor after Sept. 30. Violations would be subject to the penalties now imposed under the Raines law for the illegal sale of liquor.

"The bills were drafted after discussion among members of the Legislature, who agreed that during the pendency of the Federal amendment, some way should be found to get at public sentiment on the question," said Senator Brown after the session.

"The only method for which any machinery exists was afforded by the proposed constitutional amendment, which has been presented solely for that purpose. If it is adopted by this Legislature, it would have to be submitted to the Legislature next year and could then go to the people at the general election in 1918. There can be no question of delay, for it is clear that even if this State should take favorable action now, the Federal amendment could not possibly be ratified prior to 1919."

"What will Governor Whitman say when he hears of this?" Senator Brown was asked.

"I really do not know," was his reply.

"The Federal amendment had been adopted by Congress and submitted when he sent his annual message to the Legislature, and in it he did not say a word about it. As I see it, the Federal amendment is purely a matter for legislative, not for executive, action. You know my position on the Federal amendment and on prohibition generally. I believe in temperance, but not in prohibition—if for no other reason, because it does not prohibit. But I believe in rigid regulation of the liquor traffic, and wherever the law is found lax in that respect it should be tightened up by all means at our command."

Governor Whitman, when told tonight of Senator Brown's statement, said:

"My position on prohibition I thought was clear. As I have repeatedly said, I am for prohibition in State and nation. I could not send in a message on prohibition because the Constitution provides that a Federal amendment shall be ratified by the Legislatures of the several States. It is purely a legislative function and the executives of the various States have nothing to do with it except to transmit a Federal amendment to the Legislatures. That I did. If I were a member of the Legislature I should vote for the ratification of the Federal amendment."

PRIEST FLAYS PROHIBITION.

Father McMahan Says Use of Wine in Mass Would Be Illegal.

Speaking on "Some Startling Vagaries of the Puritan Conscience" to the Catholic Library Association, at Delmonico's yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Joseph H. McMahan, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, declared that what he called the intolerant, narrow-minded bigotry of the "Puritan" conscience was forcing this country into a state of prohibition which would destroy the right of free will and would mean a struggle between the liberal-minded Roman Catholics and the Puritans. He also declared that the "Puritan" conscience had shown itself inconsistent toward the Selective Draft and toward lying, provided that they were used to win the war. Speaking of the forces at work to pass the prohibition law, Father McMahan said:

"They are going to attempt to make man moral by statute, something which not even God has been able to do. There are only 16,000,000 Catholics in this country, but we should clamor for the rights of others by every means. Prohibition is aimed at the destruction of the individual freedom of man. It will remove the right to decide between good and bad, and will make man a slave. Wine has often been conducive of happiness and mirth in those countries which did not abuse it.

"Then, there is the denial of justice by prohibitionists to the vested rights of business. The drink interests have grown up with the sanction of the Government, but in no State, so far as I know, which has become prohibition has any consideration been given to those engaged in the liquor trade. Prohibition violates the fundamental law of the 'right of property.' But what concerns us most vitally is the jeopardizing of the rights of our religion by prohibition. Do you realize that in practically every State where there is prohibition it is a violation of the law for a priest to have wine in his possession to celebrate the mass? If prohibition goes into effect throughout the country we will have to face the prospect of abolishing the mass or else of holding it in secret, as in the days of the catacombs."

ANTI-PRIMARY BILL DRAWN.

To be Introduced at Albany Next Week—Hot Fight Is Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—The bill to abolish direct nominations and restore the State convention will be introduced in the Senate on Monday night, it was announced tonight after a meeting of the Committee of Nine, which is to father the measure.

Another decision reached at the meeting was to hold a public demonstration at the Capitol in favor of the State convention. The demonstration is to take the form of a hearing, for which the date has been tentatively fixed as March 12. A prediction was ventured here tonight that the hearing would be turned into a riot, for Governor Whitman's friends who are committed to the retention of direct primaries have decided to make the hearing the occasion for a counter-demonstration.

A first draft of the bill has been prepared, but this is likely to undergo many changes prior to its introduction on Monday. In its present form it provides for the nomination of all State officials, Judges of the Court of Appeals, and Justices of the Supreme Court in conventions. Whether County Judges, other county and local officials, candidates for Congress, Senate and Assembly are to be nominated in conventions is left optional with Boards of Supervisors in the counties throughout the State. Delegates to conventions, according to Senator Charles D. Newton, Chairman of the Committee of Nine, are to be elected at unofficial primaries.

"Why unofficial?" Senator Newton was asked.

"Well, that may be changed; I am inclined to believe that it will be changed," the Senator replied.

MAY RECAST COMMISSIONS.

Public Service Bodies Under Fire as New Members Are Confirmed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—Reorganization of the Public Service Commissions is the subject of "conversations" among the legislative leaders. The plan likely to be adopted would provide for the consolidation of the two commissions into one body of either seven or nine members, with the Chairman possibly elective. Governor Whitman is not averse to the change, but believes it should be deferred for a year, or until subway construction in New York City has been completed.

The two commissions were the target for attacks in the Senate today, when, on a favorable report rendered by the Senate Finance Committee, the confirmation of Thomas F. Fennell of Elmira and Charles B. Hill of Buffalo as members of the up-State Public Service Commission was brought up. Both men were confirmed without a dissenting vote, but not until Robert F. Wagner, minority leader, had pronounced the two commissions political dumping grounds and Elon R. Brown, President pro tem, had declared that unless their organization was changed and the members were rendered less dependent upon political changes at the Capitol, the two commissions would go from bad to worse.

FURLONG FOR CONGRESS.

Republicans Name Bronx Builder to Fill Vacancy.

Republicans in the Twenty-second Congressional District last night nominated Richard Furlong, a builder of 297 Alexander Avenue, Bronx, to be the Republican candidate at the special election for Representative on March 5 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Henry Bruckner, now Borough President of the Bronx.

This district comprises the Nineteenth, Twentieth, and Twenty-first Assembly Districts, in Harlem, and three Bronx districts immediately north of the Harlem River—the First, Second, and Third. The Nominating Committee met at the North Side Republican Club, 2,661 Third Avenue, Bronx.

The Democratic nominee is to be named tonight. It was said that ex-Assemblyman Anthony J. Griffin would get the nomination without doubt. The district is largely Democratic.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Purchase by the Government of the leased pneumatic mail tube systems in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, and St. Louis will be recommended by the joint Congressional committee which investigated the tubes. The committee declares the leasing system defective.

The Interstate Commerce Commission would fix a price not in excess of $4,432,000, declared to be the replacement value. An amendment will be added to the Post Office Appropriation bill to provide for the purchase.

NEAR AGREEMENT ON OVERMAN BILL

Republican and Democratic Leaders Have Virtually Settled on Amendments Desired.

GIVES MUCH TO PRESIDENT

But He Can Only Shift Existing Departments, Not Create New Ones.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Early compromise in the Senate on legislation for further co-ordination and reorganization of the Government's war-making agencies appeared in sight tonight as a result of negotiations between Democratic and Republican leaders for revision of the Overman bill, which would give President Wilson greater freedom of action.

Amendments virtually agreed upon promise largely to harmonize differences, allay Republican opposition, and to insure support in the Senate from all sides, except the group of Senators unalterably insisting upon the Military Committee's bills for a War Cabinet and Munitions Director. President Wilson was said to have no objection to the changes proposed, and tomorrow it is expected that the Senate Judiciary subcommittee, headed by Senator Overman, will redraft the bill.

As it is proposed to amend the measure, the President would not have any new substantive authority, and provisions in the Overman bill which Republicans have regarded as conferring new and too broad powers upon the President are to be eliminated. The amendments, however, would retain the principal provisions authorizing the President to transfer departments, bureaus, commissions, and other agencies and their personnel as he might deem necessary to effect greater co-ordination and efficiency in prosecuting the war.

It is proposed to strike out a clause giving the President power "to employ by executive order any additional agency or agencies and to vest therein the performance of such functions as he may deem appropriate," thereby limiting the Executive's authority to changes in existing agencies and without power to create any new ones

Another compromise amendment proposed would allow the President to transfer appropriations made by Congress from one Federal agency to another, but only for use in connection with the purpose specifically authorized by Congress in making the appropriation.

Senator Overman said tonight that as the bill was becoming better understood opposition was waning. He confidently predicted that, with the changes proposed, the bill would be reported out, probably next week, and secure a substantial majority in the Senate.

When the measure was sent to the Capitol by the President, virtually as a substitute for the War Cabinet and Munitions Minister bills, there were general predictions that it would die in committee.

GRANTS PAY RISE AS LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE

Adjustment Board Announces Increase Soon After 900 Quit—Resume Work Today.

Nine hundred longshoremen employed on the North River piers of the Southern Pacific Steamship Company, went on strike yesterday. The company officials said they knew of no reason why the men should quit work except that they were impatient because the National Adjustment Commission of the United States Shipping Board had not made reply to their demand for an increase in wage. A few hours after the men went on strike the local Adjustment Commission announced it had decided to give more pay to the longshoremen.

At a meeting of the strikers last night, T. V. O'Connor, President of the Longshoremen's Union, announced the report of the commission and declared that the strike had been ill-advised, was premature, and unauthorized.

The strikers then took a vote on whether they would return to work today. It was announced early this morning that by a vote of 213 to 100 the longshoremen decided to resume work this morning.

In making a further increase yesterday the commission stated that it did so because of the special traffic conditions due to the war. The increases granted over the awards of Oct. 6, 1917, and Jan. 4 last were 48 cents, regular time; 70 cents, overtime, and 90 cents, Sundays, holidays, and meal hours. The increases are effective from Feb. 11.

WOMEN MAY HIDE AGES.

Brooklyn's Political Leaders Against Telling Them at Polls.

The distress of mind of many of Brooklyn's newly enfranchised women was relieved yesterday when the heads of the two major political organizations in the borough gave it as their opinion that there was nothing in the election law making it mandatory for a registrant to state his or her exact age.

"I am told," said Democratic County Leader John H. McCooey, "that many women qualified to vote will remain away from the polls if they are required to give their ages. So far as I can see, however, there is no provision in the law which would prevent a woman from simply saying upon registering that she is over 21 years of age. Many men now do that."

"It is a matter for the Inspectors of Election to determine," said Republican County Leader Jacob A. Livingston. "No special instructions affecting the question have been sent out by the Board of Elections. Men voters frequently state simply that they are over 21, and are registered without further question."

UNDERWOOD WARNS OF 'AUTOCRACY' HERE

THINKS IT TIME TO SLOW UP

Senate to Begin Voting on Amendments Today and It Will Be Disposed of Tonight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama today warned the Senate against allowing America to become an autocracy, while her soldiers were going to France to make the rest of the world safe for democracy.

Senator Underwood made specific application of his doctrine to the Railroad Control bill, upon which he was speaking. He told the Senate powers conferred in that bill should be expressly limited and defined, in order that the President would not have the making of rules for governmental operation of railroads during Federal control.

After paying a warm tribute to the united and patriotic response of Congress to the nation's war demands in the early days of the war, Senator Underwood said:

"The time has come to pause and consider. The United States has checks and bounds to protect it from autocracy, provided Congress will uphold and maintain the sovereign powers of the people; but when Congress reaches the point where it is prepared to abandon constitutional limitations and surrender government of law for government by a man, then danger is ahead for the people of the United States. We know democracy can never be safe in the hands of an autocratic Government, when the government is government by me nand not by laws."

He deprecated criticism, unless it was the honest pointing out of real mistakes, so that they might be remedied.

"Serious mistakes," said Senator Underwood, "were inevitable. Congress, too, has made some mistakes."

Time to Slow Up.

He argued that the initial rush needs of the war having been met by provision of unlimited money, and everything in the way of power and authority for which Congress was asked having been granted, there should be a slowing up and more careful consideration of war legislation from this time on.

"We should not trust ill-considered legislation on the people," he said. "This railroad bill is crude and lacks checks and balancing to protect the rights of the people. It should be dispensed with at the earliest moment it is possible to turn the railroads back to their owners. The question of Government ownership has no place in the discussion of the problem at this time."

Arguing against continuing governmental control eighteen months after the war's end, Senator Underwood said that "to project this one-man power into peace time indefinitely would be to build up an organization that would destroy business."

Senator Sherman of Illinois, in a speech supporting the Administration bill, declared railroad critics had been unjust in blaming the fuel shortage and other conditions entirely on the railroads. He cited experiences of Missouri and Illinois with State railroads in support of his contention that Government ownership of railroads meant a certain diminution in effectiveness of service.

"If the Government takes over the railroads permanently," he said, "there will be created an army of Government employes numbering 2,500,000. They will be in a compact organization. They will speak to Congress through their chosen mouthpiece, giving orders about legislation.

Poindexter Favors Referendum.

Senator Poindexter of Washington, criticising the Interstate Commerce Committee's draft of the bill, said it had proceeded upon the assumption that the President or his agents would not abuse broad powers granted to him.

Senator Poindexter urged a referendum after the war on the question of Government ownership of the railroads.

The Senate will begin voting on amendments to the bill at 2 P. M. Thursday, and will continue voting until the measure has been disposed of. It is expected this will be some time in the evening.

FEARS PERPETUAL CONTROL.

Board of Trade and Transportation Criticises Railroad Bill.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation adopted a resolution opposing perpetual Federal control of the railroads. A preamble on the subject, accompanying the resolution, criticised sharply Director General McAdoo's opposition to placing a limit upon the duration of Federal operation.

The board's view was set forth in the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the question of the perpetual Federal control of railroads should not have been injected into the discussions of Congress at this time and should be withdrawn at once from the bill or defeated and its further discussion deferred for calmer days when it may be considered upon its merits.

"Resolved, That in our opinion there are many millions of the American people who are not prepared to accept a measure so radical, and now so unnecessary, as perpetual Federal railroad control, and they will justly revolt against an attempt to take advantage of this time of war to force it upon the country without due consideration."

RAILWAY SHOPMEN FACE TEN-HOUR DAY

Federal Board Considers Lengthening Schedule of Repair Workers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Advantages of the eight-hour day as described to the Railroad Wage Commission by representatives of the employes were questioned today by operating officials, who at the same time disclosed that representatives of the Federal Railroad Administration were considering the advisability of legnthening the work day in the shops, in order to hasten repairs.

W. J. Tollerton of the Rock Island road read a telegram from R. H. Aishton, Western Regional Director, which asked:

"Do you not believe we are justified in working locomotive roundhouses as many hours as possible?"

Mr. Tollerton said he had replied recommending a ten-hour day, provided the unions would accept time and a half pay for the tenth hour, as is now paid for the ninth, instead of exacting a penalty of five hours' pay for the tenth hour, according to existing agreements. He declared there was no surplus supply of mechanics, and that he believed mechanics soon would be used exclusively in essential production to carry the country through the present crisis.

D. R. McBain of the New York Central said the nine and ten hour shifts of workers had been the "salvation" of his road during the Winter, in enabling all the motive power to be kept in commission.

"Do you not believe that a man does as much work in eight hours as in ten?" Secretary Lane, Chairman of the Commission, asked both witnesses, recalling the contention of union leaders that the eight-hour day resulted in as much work per man as the longer shift, because of increased efficiency.

"That has not been our experience," Mr. Tollerton said.

"We get as much work out of the last hour on the piece basis as the first hour," Mr. McBain replied. "That's what pulled us through."

Commissioner McChord said the Interstate Commerce Commission had information that some shops were not working as much as eight hours. Mr. Tollerton said he did not think that applied to the West. The Rock Island shops were put on the eight-hour basis, he told the commission, and found that their men were leaving to work for another road which worked a nine-hour shift, with pay for 9½ hours. When the Rock Island instituted the longer day its men began to return, but another complication resulted, in the resignation of numerous competent foremen, who returned to subordinate positions in the shops because they could make more money.

Reasons for congested traffic were sought by the commission in discussion of shop wages and conditions. The operating officials said the weather was responsible. Mr. McBain said the New York Central now was "right up to date" with engine repairs and had maintained its power throughout the Winter.

"From Dec. 1 to Feb. 1 the average rating of our engines, that is, the load they are expected to pull under normal conditions, was reduced from 35 to 50 per cent," he said. "Inability to maintain the engine rating was due entirely to the weather. We had ordered additional locomotives for last Fall, but Government orders delayed delivery six to eight months and they just now are beginning to come in. All operating officials worked from fifteen to twenty hours a day during the worst of the congestion. It was the superhuman effort on that part of the supervisory force which kept things going as well as they did."

EXPLAIN WHY SHIPS WAIT FOR CARGOES

31 TRAINS RUSHING EAST

Situation Said to be Temporary and to be Caused Largely by Wheat Shortage in Ports.

Officials of the National Railroad Administration and officials in charge of allied shipping here, expressed surprise yesterday at the report from Washington that many ships were delayed at New York because they couldn't get cargoes, especially food. It was said at the office of A. H. Smith, Regional Director of Railroads, that there had been no complaints that the railroads had failed in the delivery of food to ships, and at the office of the traffic executive, 161 Broadway, in charge of all allied shipping from this port, it was said that there was no intention of making a complaint.

Both the railroad officials and the shipping officials said that there were a few ships delayed, but that the situation was only temporary and not serious. A canvass of officials connected with the situation showed that the delayed ships were in almost every instance waiting for grain to make up their composite food cargoes. The shortage of wheat and flour at this port is due in large part to the fact that in January practically no wheat arrived from inland and the Allies' supplies stored here were practically exhausted. Only two weeks of moderate weather have prevailed since the Government took over the roads, and in that period shipments have not arrived in large enough quantities to fill all the cargo space afforded by the extra large number of ships England has sent here for food for herself, France and Italy.

Railroad officials said yesterday that the shortage of wheat would be lessened in ten days. At conferences of representatives of the Allies in Europe and United States railroad officials it was agreed that if the carriers could lay down at North Atlantic ports 200 carloads of food a day by special food trains, in addition to current haulage, that the situation would be cared for. Railroad piers were taken over for the direct loading of ships. While a number of special food trains have arrived here in the last week, it was said at Mr. Smith's office yesterday that the system only this week had got to working smoothly and that in another week food arrivals would be greatly increased. Mr. Smith issued a statement a week ago in which he said it was calculated that the new food haulage system would lay down supplies at the ports as fast as cargo tonnage was supplied.

Yesterday 22[illegible] cars of food for the Allies, mostly wheat and flour, left St. Louis and Chicago for eastern ports on special trains. There were in transit yesterday 1,008 cars of Allies' food in thirty-one special trains. These trains will all arrive in New York within five days.

Railroad officials did not conceal their disappointment yesterday at statements that the problem of supplying food for the Allies had suddenly become a problem of transportation here. It was not denied that there had been some delay, but it was said that the delay at this time was less than it had been previously, and that the fact that there was an increased available supply of tonnage should cause optimism.

It was said yesterday that it was the custom to load the ships for the Allies with a number of different kinds of food, wheat being used as deadweight cargo, generally loaded first. This practice would account for the delay of some of the ships, one railroad official said. He asserted that yesterday there were fifty-four loaded lighters alongside ships which were not being unloaded, and that more lighters were loaded ready to be towed to shipside when ordered. It is known that railroad officials have suggested to the English authorities that something might be gained by hurrying up the loading of supplies from lighters into ships.

The arrivals of wheat at Chicago this week have shown a large increase, and the amount on the way to New York and other Atlantic ports was greater yesterday than at any time in the past two months. There are several million bushels of wheat stored in the New York district, but most of this is not consigned to the Allies.

204 AMERICANS LOST WHEN TUSCANIA SANK

Pershing's Headquarters Record 32 as Missing—More Names Sent to Washington.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Two hundred and four Americans lost their lives on the Tuscania, according to the latest figures received at American army headquarters. Of this total there have been identified and buried 3 officers and 137 men; unidentified buried, 1 officer and 31 men; missing, (presumably went down with the ship,) 32 men.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Two names were added to the roll of known Tuscania dead by a dispatch tonight to the War Department. They are Sidney W. Bernitt of Marshfield, Ore., and Eugene W. Snyder of Rimrock, Wash. Both had been listed heretofore among the unreported of the American soldiers on board the transport when she was torpedoed.

Seventy-two American soldiers aboard the torpedoed liner Tuscania remain unidentified or unaccounted for today, according to the latest checks of lists of survivors and missing available to the War Department and The Associated Press. This number comprises thirty-three unidentified dead buried in Scotland and thirty-nine still reported as missing.

McADOO BARS PRIVATE CARS

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and J. B. Duke Apply in Vain.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A request made by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt for permission to use a private car to go from New York to Spartanburg, S. C., to visit her husband, who is in command of the Twenty-second Engineers, was refused today by Director General of Railroads McAdoo. Mrs. Vanderbilt's agent was informed that no special privileges of this kind were being considered except in the most unusual cases.

A few days ago James B. Duke, organizer of the American Tobacco Company, asked for a private car for a trip from New York to Baltimore to see a brother who he said was ill. He was advised that the application would be granted only in the event that Mr. Duke obtained a statement from a physician that it was necessary. The request was not renewed.

Permits for only three private cars have been granted by the Director General of Railroads. One carried the Governor General of Canada and his suite from Ottawa to Washington to visit President Wilson. The second was for a French mission traveling from New York to Richmond, and the third for Lord Reading and was routed from New York to Washington.

Whisky Makes Hot Fire.

Ten thousand barrels of whisky and wine stored in the old plant of the Centennial Brewing Company, Willow Avenue, Clifton, S. I., yesterday made such a hot fire when the three-story brick building was destroyed that six companies of firemen were not able to get close enough to fight the blaze effectively until its force had been spent. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

From Student Operator to Chief Operator

In the profession of telephone operating there are many opportunities for advancement open to capable young women who demonstrate that they have the necessary qualifications for higher positions.

The student operator does not handle calls from the public. She receives instruction in the Operators' Training Department and is paid a good salary even while learning.

After she has thoroughly mastered the course, she is assigned as a junior operator and her work is carefully supervised by senior operators and supervisors.

Her prospects for advancement are many. In a telephone central office there are, in addition to the regular operators, senior operators, supervisors, special operators of various kinds, such as "Information" operators, assistant chief operators and Chief Operators. In some cases Chief Operators have supervision over as many as 300 operators.

The operator who has the necessary qualifications has many opportunities to be advanced to these higher positions with correspondingly higher salaries.

The excellent conditions under which the telephone operator works, the opportunities for advancement, the protection afforded by a liberal Benefit Plan without cost to her—all combine to make telephone operating a most attractive profession.

If you would like to become a telephone operator or are interested in this most attractive profession, telephone, write or call at our nearest Commercial Office and ask for a free copy of "An Ideal Occupation for Young Women."

ALLOWS $2,200,000 FOR HELL GATE WORK

River and Harbor Bill Provides Amply for Improvements Necessary to Conduct of War.

NOTHING FOR NEW PROJECTS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON Feb. 20.—The River and Harbor bill, carrying recommendations for an expenditure of $19,227,900 for the next fiscal year, was reported to the House today. This is the smallest sum appropriated for this purpose in a decade. The bill carries no recommendations for appropriations for new projects except those associated with the improvement of harbors and channels necessary to war purposes.

For projects deemed necessary to war purposes, such as the deepening of Hell Gate channel and the East River to 40 feet, and the enlargement of harbor facilities at Norfolk, the bill makes ample provision. For the first the bill carries an item of $2,200,000 and it is recommended that $1,134,000 be expended in improving Norfolk Harbor and channels.

Maintenance, $2,358,050; maintenance and continuing improvement, $2,642,500; improvements, $14,027,350; surveys and contingencies, $200,000.

In the opinion of the committee the bill represents the best thought of the army engineers and experts who have devoted themselves to the sole consideration of building up the waterways of the country to serve commerce and the nation as a war emergency. Discussing the items, the report of the committee says:

"The appropriations for maintenance and improvements are based upon recommendations submitted by the War Department, and embrace such necessary sums as may be profitably expended during the next fiscal year. In no instance has the committee increased the appropriations above the amounts so recommended. Admittedly, the sums appropriated were reduced in the interest of economy. No channel or harbor will be neglected, and it is believed that the funds appropriated will be sufficient to maintain the channels and existing works and prevent deterioration. For projects which are under improvement the sums appropriated are sufficient to continue the work of improvement and maintain the organization and Government plans. Due regard has been given to the increased cost of labor and materials. It is believed that no work has been provided for which could be safely or wisely postponed. For very important projects, or for those which were intimately associated with the prosecution of the war, such as Norfolk Harbor and New York Harbor, comparatively large sums have been provided.

No new projects requiring an appropriation have been included in the bill, except such as were associated with the prosecution of the war, and so recommended by the War Department. The only new projects carried in the bill are for the waterway connecting Long Beach Harbor with Los Angeles Harbor, California; Crescent City Harbor, California, and a modification of the existing project for Galveston Harbor, and only the waterway connecting Long Beach and Los Angeles Harbors carries an appropriation.

The committee has instituted a constructive policy regarding the promotion of water transportation upon our rivers and harbors. Among essentials for water transportation are adequate water terminals. Facilities for loading and unloading water carriers quickly and cheaply are essential for local traffic, and absolutely indispensable for the interchange of traffic between water carriers and rail carriers.

The chief of engineers is also required to detail one or more engineer officers to investigate the general subject of water terminals with descriptions and general plans of appropriate types and construction for harbors and waterways suitable for various commercial purposes and adapted to the varying physical conditions. The provision of terminals must depend upon local co-operation. The committee wish that the fullest publicity may be given to the proposition that only those harbors and rivers will be improved where cities and localities offer satisfactory assurance of co-operation in providing transportation lines, water terminals, and interchange of traffic with the railroads.

The committee invite critical study of the bill which they have submitted. They invite criticism from the public and the press in the spirit of candor and a real desire to learn the truth. Ample facilities will be afforded to consult official reports and documents and all other available sources of information.

APPEAL TO WILSON FOR LABOR RELIEF

Corporations Engaged in War Work Losing Men to the Government.

A new phase of the complicated labor situation in the vicinity of New York City came to light yesterday in news that corporations engaged on vital war work, including the American Smelting and Refining Company and the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, had united in an appeal to the Government for assistance. The companies concerned employ approximately 30,000 men, in copper refineries, oil works and ship yards. It was learned that representatives of the concerns met in Perth Amboy, N. J., yesterday afternoon and selected a committee to lay before President Wilson certain facts going to show that the high wages being paid on construction undertakings for the Government had drawn men from private manufacturing to so serious a degree that production of essential materials for carrying on the war was threatened with a heavy reduction.

Officers of the companies with offices in this city were reluctant to discuss the matter last night in advance of action at Washington. The names of the men selected to handle the situation were not disclosed, but it was learned that the following companies have of late been particularly handicapped in filling Government orders because of the disruption of their forces: American Smelting and Refining Company, the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, the Standard Underground Cable Company; the United States Smelting Company, with a big refinery at Chrome, N. J.; the United Lead Company, which is a subsidiary of the National Lead Company; the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, engaged in making road material for the various cantonments; the Pardee Steel Works, the Chesebrough Manufacturing Company, the Perth Amboy Dry Dock Company, and the Roessler & Hasslacher Chemical Company.

The American Smelting and Refining Company employs approximately 2,000 men at its copper and lead refinery near Perth Amboy. Like the other copper concerns, this company has been bending every effort to keep the output of copper at a maximum level, and to do so has voted wage increases until at the present time 38 cents per hour for an eight-hour day is being paid, compared with the normal wage of about 23½ cents. Coming into competition with the demand for labor with the builders of shell-loading plants, hospitals, powder plants, &c., whose contract with the Government is on a "cost plus profit" basis, the copper men say they cannot hold their men. The current wage on the Government operation is 40½ cents per hour for a ten-hour day, with time and a half for overtime.

It was intimated yesterday in quarters familiar with the plans of the corporations whose representatives will go to Washington that the "cost plus" system will come in for adverse criticism before the Government officials.

DRAFT DATE NOT YET SET.

Government Not Disposed to Disturb Labor in Planting Season.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary Baker authorized the statement today that no date had been selected for the beginning of the second draft. Various estimates have placed the time between March 1 and June 1. These are declared to be guesses. The Government's disposition not to disturb the labor situation, particularly on farms at the planting season, is one of the factors entering into the situation.

The Provost Marshal General's office, it is understood, is disinclined to go ahead with the second draft until Congress has perfected the law by pending amendments to change the basis of apportionment and to authorize the President to call into the military service men skilled in industry and agriculture regardless of previous classification. The remaining increments of the first draft will begin to move forward to the camps beginning this week.

It is probable that next month local boards may be asked to forward small increments necessary to replace men going overseas, but the expected summons of half a million will be later.

Plans for the second draft as now under consideration include calling 100,000 a month until the second quota is complete. In that way, officials expect to avoid much of the confusion which accompanied the first call. The men will report in a steady stream and be assimilated into the military machine before the next lot is received.

It has been definitely settled that the first contingents will be used to fill vacancies in National Guard divisions caused by the withdrawal of men for the organization of special technical units. Similar vacancies in the national army divisions will have been filled by that time from the final increment of the first draft.

BOARD FIXES PRICES FOR KOSHER POULTRY

REPAIR WEEK FOR FARMERS

Artillery of Agriculture to be Put in Order for Food Drive—Another License Revoked.

In view of the general apprehension among the Jewish population over the live poultry restrictions of the United States Food Administration and its possible effect upon the cost of poultry, which is largely consumed during the Passover season, the Federal Food Board, after conference with representatives of the trade, promulgated a set of rules yesterday which will have the effect of controlling the price to the consumer, as much as it can be controlled under present conditions. The rules are to take effect at once, and are to remain in force until midnight on April 30.

As a preliminary premise, the board forbids any forced or required combination sale of chickens with poultry by any commission man or receiver of poultry whereby more than 10 per cent. of young roosters (chickens) are required to be taken with 90 per cent. of fowl and whereby the 10 per cent. of chickens so taken must be free from all stags (large, rangy chickens.)

On the subject of price as affected by the schochtim, the Jewish religious functionary who alone has authority to kill the animal that shall be considered kosher, the Food Board sets forth full regulations.

It was announced by the Federal Food Board yesterday that a week has been designated as "Implement and Repair Week," when the farmers of the country are expected to get their farm tools and machinery into order for the year's work. The statement on the subject reads:

"During the week March 4 to March 9, inclusive, farmers of the United States are asked to put their implements in fighting trim to win the season's campaign against world hunger. Those dates will be known as national implement and repair week.

"An abnormal demand for farm machinery repairs is expected, and advance information from the metal working industries indicates difficulty in promptly supplying parts, especially those of malleable iron and steel, unless the bulk of orders are placed early. To keep the machinery in the field at the time most needed, farmers are asked to observe March 4 to March 9 as implement repair week, and to consider their machinery as the artillery of agriculture."

Following the approval of United States Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover, the Federal Food Board yesterday revoked the license of Charak & Myrowitz, wholesale fruit dealers, of 229 East Sixth Street, on the charge of forcing customers to make combination purchases when they came to buy sugar.

Calvin J. Huson, Director of the Bureau of Food Production of the State Food Commission, said yesterday that the outlook for Spring wheat in this State was excellent. He thought at least 100,000 acres would be planted, which would be a record for the State. Estimating at only thirty bushels an acre, which is a very conservative figure, he said, it would mean 3,000,000 bushels for the season.

ALL MUST SAVE FOOD OR GO ON SHORT RATION

Hoover Aid Says America Must Send 1,000,000 Tons a Month to the Allies, and Will Do It.

There will be compulsory food rationing for the United States if the provisions of Mr. Hoover's honor regulations are not observed throughout the nation, according to Dr. Vernon Kellogg, aid to the Food Administrator, who spoke at yesterday's session of the 116th meeting of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

"You can put this down as a fact," said Dr. Kellogg. "The United States is obliged to send 1,000,000 tons of food each month to the Allies, and is going to do it. Don't get the idea that this immense tonnage of food is intended to prevent England from imposing a compulsory diet or to give our Allies anything like the amount of food we ourselves are enjoying. Within the last few days England has issued new orders which are so drastic that we ought to feel ashamed of the comparatively small self-denials we are asked to make.

"Just think of it, no meal is allowed to be served in England in a public eating house after 9:30 at night. One pound of meat per week per capita is the allowance. No sugar for breakfast and none for tea is the order. One-seventh of an ounce is permitted for luncheon and the same amount for dinner.

"Compare this with the 'honor ration' which allows two and a half pounds of meat per week per capita, three-quarters of a pound of sugar, &c. This 'honor ration' was fixed by Mr. Hoover at the request of New York City housewives who wanted something definite to go on. As long as it is voluntarily complied with there will not be, so far as can be seen, necessity for compulsion. If the 'honor ration' is not accepted we shall have the compulsory ration."

Louis E. Rebur, dean of the Extension Division of the University of Wisconsin, now serving with the Public Service Reserve Bureau of the United States Employment Agency, described to the engineers the labor situation as it regarded essential and non-essential industries.

"The situation is serious concerning the matter of labor in the factories whose products are for war uses," he said, "but it is believed that with perfect co-operation of labor with the Government it will not be necessary to draw the line between the varied industries to the serious injury of the lesser ones. At present, it is considered that all the industries are essential, though the ones not engaged in actual war production ought to let their labor go to the essential ones as far as they can."

Dr. Thomas W. Darlington, former Health Commissioner for New York City, read a paper describing the economic loss which industry sustained through illness.

Discussing Dr. Darlington's paper, Dr. E. E. Southard, Director of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, said that mental ailments were among the greatest handicaps to maximum efficiency of labor in this crisis. "It is noticeable since the war began," said Dr. Southard, "that these mental ailments are on the increase. There are five things sapping the efficiency of our labor—disease, vice, ignorance, bad habits, and poverty. We must endeavor to suppress them."

ORDER TO STOP GOUGING.

Text of Stringent French Decree to Keep Down Prices to Our Troops.

The Official Bureau of French Information sends out the following:

"According to an official cable from Paris the French authorities have decided that in the regions occupied by the American troops all the shopkeepers must henceforth placard on their windows in French and in English the prices of all goods sold in the shop. When any prices will be asked, superior to the prices printed on the placarded list, the dealer will be prosecuted in conformity with the law of April 20, 1916, which severely punishes the authors of an unjustified rise in the prices.

"The decision of the French authorities will put an immediate end to the overcharge of which certain American officers and soldiers justly complained. It is to be noticed that in many cases the overcharges were due to foreign dealers who have settled in the localities occupied by American troops and taken the place of the French mobilized traders."

FEAR FOREIGN BUYERS OF GERMANY'S ART

Connoisseurs and Legislators Debate a Proposed Law to Protect Collections.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 20.—Art connoisseurs, collectors, professors, and legislators in Germany have been carrying on a heated controversy about the question whether German art treasures should be protected by law against the ravages of foreign collectors. The German Government has been considering the submission of a bill for that purpose to the Reichstag, but so far this plan has not taken any shape and probably will not take any for a few months.

Meanwhile professers and connoisseurs have been debating in the press what should be done. The matter was discussed in the Prussian Diet a short while ago and the Diet petitioned the Imperial Government for a law safeguarding German art treasures against sale to foreign countries.

Curiously enough, two of Germany's greatest art experts, Professor von Bode, Director General of the Royal Museums, and Dr. von Pannewitz, are decidedly against any law stopping the export of German art treasures entirely. Von Bode says that if such a law were passed it would immediately be replied to by Great Britain and France with similar measures, and the possibility of increasing the collections in large public museums from private sources would cease, especially in Germany's case, since it is well known that both England and France have far larger private collections, from which Bode himself has gathered many masterpieces for German museums.

Before America entered the war American collectors were the most feared in Germany, because of their enormous pocketbooks that made competition for most German collectors impossible. Since America became involved millionaires of neutral countries such as Denmark, Holland, and Switzerland have come to the front and are paying immense prices at German art auctions.

It is for this reason that von Bode, although he is against a law prohibiting all art exports, would like to see the Government exercise some sort of control over dealings in art treasures. He expresses great regret that because of the time being too short nothing can be done in the case of Baron von Oppenheim's collection, which is to be auctioned March 19, to prevent neutral dealers and collectors from making wholesale purchases.

This collection is well known to American connoisseurs as perhaps the most important private collection of Flemish and Dutch masters, among them Rembrandt, Rubens, Franz Hals, Peter De Hoogh, Petrus Christus, Van Dyck, Kessel, Keyser, Massys, Noor, Ostade, Jan Steen, Terborch, Teniers, De Witte, and also Velasquez and Holbein. There are only forty-four pictures in the collection, but every one of them is considered a jewel by experts. For Petrus Christus's "Saint Eligius" 1,000,000 marks was offered shortly before the outbreak of the war through an Amsterdam art dealer, but at that time Baron Albert Oppenheim's heirs were not ready to sell. Similar offers have been made for the unique portraits by Van Dyck of Franz Hals and Martin Ryckaert.

Von Bode has received so many requests from foreign collectors for his expert judgment regarding this collection that he fears there will be unusually heavy bidding in foreign interest. Although it is too late to place any legal restrictions on the Oppenheim auction, von Bode advises the Government to take measures for the future control of art treasures in Germany by inventorying and by reserving for the public museums options on any art pieces on the German market. Similar laws governing the art trade of Italy did not prevent the Martelli family from selling only recently the so-called Donatello statues to an American collector for 2,000,000 francs, which example von Bode quotes as proving that State control does not kill trade.

LAWYER REPUDIATES NEW RANGER WILL

DECLARES IT WHOLLY BOGUS

Details of an alleged plot to probate a fraudulent will of Henry W. Ranger, noted American landscape artist, who gave his estate of $250,000 to the National Academy of Design for the purchase of works of American artists more than 45 years of age, are set forth in affidavits filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday. The chief document is an affidavit by Charles M. Wexler, a lawyer of Stamford, Conn., before whom the alleged bogus will was supposed to have been executed, in which he admits his part in the plan and names others who were implicated.

The plot is alleged to have been instigated by Miss Edith Ranger, now of Noroton, Conn., a sister of the decedent, who was not mentioned in his will.

The confession by Lawyer Wexler of Stamford as to his part in drawing up the alleged bogus will says that on Jan. 14 last, at the instance of a friend, R. H. C. Cunningham of Stamford, who put him through college, he agreed to do what was asked of him by one Charles W. Meyer, described as a New York lawyer.

Lawyer Wexler said that on the following night he met Meyer, Cunningham, and Miss Ranger at the Hotel Davenport for dinner.

Mr. Wexler said that Cunningham, Meyer, and himself went into the hotel taproom, and when Meyer asked him if he would sign the affidavit relating to the execution of the will he said he would do so, in accordance with his promise to Mr. Cunningham. Meyer told him it would add weight to the affidavit if a copy of the will were attached, "because the litigation was at such a point that if the other side knew Miss Ranger had such an affidavit and a copy of the will they would throw up their hands and plead for mercy." Wexler said he replied: "Where do you think I am going to get such a will?" and Meyer answered, "That can be fixed up all right."

Lawyer Wexler said the party adjourned to his office at 8:30 o'clock that night and the will was then written by Wexler on a typewriter at the dictation of Meyer. They decided to tear up the alleged original will they had, and at Miss Ranger's request Cunningham burned the pieces. When they discussed the question of who were to be named as witnesses to the alleged spurious will, it was decided to use the names of Miss Laura S. Langdon, formerly Wexler's stenographer, who is now Mrs. Godber of Stamford, because she wouldn't remember whether or not she had copied or witnessed such a will, and of Herbert N. Valentine, a real estate agent who formerly shared Mr. Wexler's suite, because he was in California and it was not thought he could be found to deny that he had signed the will. Wexler said he then wrote their names as witnesses on two carbon copies of the will and gave one copy to Meyer and locked the other in his safe.

BLISS WINS PLAUDITS IN THE WAR COUNCIL

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Premier Lloyd George's allusions to American participation in the Versailles War Council make it proper to say that on all sides here one hears favorable comment on the work of General Tasker H. Bliss.

General Pershing attends the council and takes a most useful part in the proceedings, but General Bliss stays at Versailles and devotes himself to military studies in collaboration with the other military representatives. The latter are not members of the Supreme War Council, which officially is composed of civilians, although in practice the military representatives participate fully in all the discussions. Between the meetings the military men remain at Versailles and pursue their studies on the matters outlined in the course of the joint discussions.

General Bliss seems particularly well fitted for such work. I have learned from other representatives that the harmonious character of the proceedings of the last meeting were due in no small measure to his good judgment. General Bliss has the gift of "horse sense" and bears himself with a friendly modesty that has won his associates completely.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Credit for drafting the American document which played such a part in converting the Versailles conference to the plan for centralized control of the war is given by Secretary Baker to General Bliss, Chief of Staff and American representative on the Supreme War Council. Mr. Baker said today that he personally had nothing to do with the preparation of the papers, and that they doubtless comprised memoranda prepared by or at the direction of General Bliss.

No part of the document can be published, the Secretary explains, for the reason which Premier Lloyd George gave yesterday in his speech enthusiastically praising the American presentation of the case. Lloyd George said the only reason he did not read it to the House was that it was "mixed up with the plan of operations."

Frank L. Dowling, President of Manhattan Borough, told the Motor Truck Club yesterday that he was preparing to spend $2,800,000 repaving Manhattan streets. Mr. Dowling was the guest of the club at luncheon at the Automobile Club. He said he had just come from an inspection of thirty-five miles of streets, and he admitted that they were bad. Members of the club and other business interests have been urging for months that the marginal thoroughfares on the east and west sides in front of the piers be improved at once. In many places there are so many ruts that trucks have been seriously damaged delivering goods.

"These marginal ways present a peculiar condition," said Mr. Dowling, "because the Dock Department has charge of half of the street next to the docks and the other part is in charge of the Borough President. The paving should be under one control, and I have asked the Corporation Counsel for an opinion regarding the Borough President taking entire charge of repaving those streets. If he holds that the Borough President has not the legal right to do all the paving, it will be necessary to go to the Legislature and have this detrimental division of street paving authority along the river front removed."

Build Your Blood and You Build Your Body

If your health is poor because your blood is poor, Gude's Pepto-Mangan, combined with fresh air, good food, exercise, and sleep, will help make a new man or woman of you in a short time.

Picture your blood swarming with red cells—millions of them. These cells are tiny boats, sailing up the blood-stream to the lungs. There they take on a cargo of oxygen—the breath of life—and carry it to every cell and tissue of your body, nourishing them, filling them with new vigor.

So vital are the red blood cells to health and well-being that if you're well supplied with them, you have the vigor and spirit to live life to the full—to accomplish everything within your natural powers that you set out to accomplish. But if your blood is poor in red cells, you are ill prepared to run the race of life—to win the race of life.

If your blood really is below par, indiscriminate dosing will do you more harm than good. You must help Nature in her great work of healing with natural methods—regular exercise, fresh air, sleep and well-balanced diet. It is to be admitted that, in this busy bustling life, it is often hard to follow a diet so well balanced that it provides all the elements necessary for properly feeding the blood, nerves, muscles, brain, etc. Then the blood becomes deficient in important elements and a good blood tonic is needed. Such a tonic is

1833 The Sun. 1918

By FRANK M. O'BRIEN

In September, 1833

"New York was about the present size of Indianapolis or Seattle. Of its quarter of a million population only eight or ten thousand lived above Twenty-third street."

"Columbia College, in the square bounded by Murray, Barclay, Church and Chapel streets, had a hundred students."

"There were twelve schools."

"Postmaster Gouverneur had one clerk to sort all the mail that came into the city from the rest of the world."

Its first newsboy grew up to be Barney Williams, the famous comedian.

His boss, Benjamin H. Day, was the first American to make a success of a newspaper sold at a popular price. Day's capital was a hand press, some type and the courage that belonged to a typical Yankee only twenty-three-years old.

Ben Day, with one printer and one devil, got out the first Sun. Where Greeley and Bennett had failed Day succeeded. In six months The Sun had the largest circulation in New York—all of eight thousand copies.

THE STORY BEGINS IN

FURY OF WOMAN SCORNED

Yesterday afternoon at Carnegie Hall Margaret Anglin followed up her recent production of the "Electra" of Sophocles with the "Medea" of Euripides. The two heroines afford a very striking contrast, and enable Miss Anglin to place in evidence an ability in tragic acting which is as varied as it is intense. The hall was crowded to the doors, and the audience followed the performance with breathless interest, lingering after the final curtain for prolonged applause.

In "Medea," Euripides has depicted, in its utmost intensity, the fury of a woman scorned. And this is no woman of civilized Greek society, but a wild barbarian from what was then the ends of the earth. She is, moreover, a princess descended from the Sun God, and an enchantress versed in the arts of incantation and magic. "This uncontrollable, tempestuous spirit, blind with wrong," works her savage will with the aid of all the poisons of the earth, and the spirits of the air.

Jason, poor man, is her husband, and at once the cause of her fury and the chief object of it. He is much more happily known to story through the adventure of his youth, in which he met his lady. It will be remembered that he went forth in quest of the Golden Fleece, in the first of all ships that ever sailed the sea, the Argo, and that he accomplished the feat by aid of the Princess Medea, who had fallen in love with him, and slew her own brother in his behalf. Jason returned with the plunder and the lady, hero of one of the world's great romances. But there was an end to that perfect day. In Greece Medea went right on murdering in order to advance her husband's fortunes; but the result was different. For there were laws about homicide, so they and their children became wandering exiles. The upshot of Jason's great romance was a wife who would be a problem on any man's hands.

After long wandering the poor man hit upon what seemed to him a very reasonable solution of their family difficulties. Marriage with a barbarian was not recognized in Greece, so Jason was able to become engaged to the only daughter of the old King of Corinth, thus gaining a kingdom and assuring the future of Medea and her children.

This may seem a prosaic statement of the case. Indeed, it is intentionally so; for it is the habit of Euripides to view his characters in the light of every day. Prima facie, Medea is a barbarian woman who has given herself to a civilized Greek, and who, in the course of nature and the attrition of human life, is cast off.

It is true that the dramatist's sympathy goes with the wife, Jason cutting a rather poor figure, as was the fate of husbands even then. And, indeed, Medea is a very moving figure—splendid, too, caught as she is in a vortex of elemental feminine passions, richly colored by her barbaric soul. Once again she resorts to magic. With the gift of a poisoned robe she kills Jason's young bride in hideous agony. Jason she disdains to kill, reserving him for a greater torture. She has all the primitive woman's love for her children, yet before fleeing from this new crime she kills them both. Then she mounts to the roof of the palace in a magic chariot, and, as she sails away through the air, taunts the hero of the Golden Fleece that she leaves him without bride, kingdom, or child.

Her motive in all this? The murder of the children is brought to a crisis by the necessity of saving them from the vengeance of the people of Corinth; but in its inception it was devised to make Medea's triumph over Jason complete. "They shall not laugh who hate Me!" Deeper than all that is feminine, maternal, lies the fierce egoism of the barbarian. No character in tragedy is more richly, deeply colored by human passion and none perhaps more unswervingly real.

Miss Anglin wears a robe of barbaric green and scarlet. Her shock of raven hair is touched with white, and her countenance is haggard, as if devastated by every extremity of passion. Her voice responds to all the varied requirements of the rôle, from the tenderness of her tone toward her doomed children to the utmost outburst of rage and jealousy. It is possible that there are depths in the character that she does not fathom. Her experience in tragedy is not extensive, and there are possibilities in Medea which would tax any actress to the utmost. She was consummate, however, in denoting the fierce warring of maternal tenderness and uncontrollable hate which preceded the murder of the children—a passage in which the pity and terror of tragedy are blended in their utmost intensity.

The translation used is that by Gilbert Murray. It is crisply vernacular in its phrasing, and thus far more effective dramatically than Plumtree's version of the "Electra." It was made to seem even more modern by the strong outcroppings of feminism in the discourse of this legendary barbarian. Medea's revolt against the dominance of the male is sheer sex antagonism, fierce and uncompromising. In comparison, the truculence of our late smashers of window glass seems mere trifling.

Again Mr. Damrosch's music provided an emotional interpretation of great value, reinforcing the mood of the play. The cast, though not distinguished, was uniformly capable. The chorus was clothed in richly varied costume and ranged in effective groupings. In a season mainly devoted to trivialities Miss Anglin's classical productions come somewhat in the nature of a benefaction.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mme. Galli-Curci will give her first song recital in Carnegie Hall on Monday afternoon, March 4, under the auspices of the Rubinstein Club, which has taken the entire floor, platform seats, and lower boxes, where Mrs. W. R. Chapman will have as guests 150 Presidents of women's clubs in New York.

Alice Gentle, who will create the title role in Cadman's American opera, "Shanewis," at the Metropolitan early in March, arrived yesterday for rehearsals after a two months' engagement with the Bracale Opera Company in Havana.

Thamara Swirskaya, the Russian dancer and pianist, with Savell Walevitch, tenor, and the Balalaika Orchestra, will appear Friday evening in Carnegie Hall in a musical program preceding a lecture by Count Tolstoi.

"The Prodigious Son," a comedy by Martin Brown, has been accepted for production by Charles Hopkins of the Punch and Judy Theatre.

Eileen Van Biene, last seen here in "Have a Heart," will have the leading role in "Follow the Girl," which will have its New York run at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre Roof next week.

Next Wednesday's matinee of "The Cohan Revue," at the New Amsterdam, will be given in aid of the Comforts Committee of the Navy League. The entire proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of wool.

"Yours Truly," a farce with music, will be produced this Spring with T. Roy Barnes as the featured player. The book and lyrics of the piece are by Thomas J. Gray and the music by Herbert Stothart.

An additional holiday matinee will be given tomorrow at the Palace. Performances will begin at 1:30 and 4:30.

Evelyn Ferris, Marie McConnell, and Laura Walters are among those engaged for "Rock-a-Bye Baby," which the Selwyns are producing. The piece is a musical version of "Baby Mine."

DINNER FOR CAPT. OFFLEY.

Entertained by Federal Officials Before Going to Washington.

Captain William M. Offley, for the last ten years Chief of the New York Division of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, who will soon go to Washington to become an assistant to Attorney General Gregory, was the honored guest at a farewell dinner given last night at Reisenweber's by members of the district staff and Federal officials. Among those who attended were A. Bruce Bielaski, head of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation; Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox, Charles J. DeWoody, who succeeds Captain Offley in New York; Joseph A. Baker, Assistant Chief of the New York Division, and United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy.

An engrossed set of resolutions was presented to Captain Offley. They were signed by his Federal associates in New York and expressed their high opinion of him as man and official, and wished him the best of good fortune in his new position in Washington.

The Metropolitan Opera House was crowded last evening, as for weeks past, contrary to all expectations of New York's first "war season" in twenty years, and there were new matters of personal interest in the performance of Puccini's "Tosca," given for the fourth time in the current series. John McCormack sang and acted the tenor hero, as he had done in London but not previously here; Geraldine Farrar was again the Tosca, a part in which her public likes to see Mr. Gatti's leading woman star, while Antonio Scotti, in his great rôle of Scarpia, took his leave of Metropolitan audiences for a few weeks, starting today for his annual outing at Palm Beach.

Mr. McCormack earned an ovation after Cavaradossi's air in the closing act, which he sang quietly seated at the prisoner's table on the roof of Castle St. Angelo under the stars. The Irish tenor has not been in better form in any opera, either during his occasional Metropolitan appearances this season, or years ago at the Manhattan. In his cape coat and top boots as the revolutionist of the torture scene, he borrowed something of lively romance from famous heroes in "The Highwayman" or "The Shaughran," with no harm to Puccini or Sardou.

Miss Farrar was a beautiful Tosca, as always, and she sang well last night, with her usual dramatic climax of the murder. Mr. Scotti had as hearty applause as if the audience had known his impending departure and had wished to give him a hearty "au revoir."

'THE BAD SHEPHERDS.'

M. Copeau's Company Act a Play of Social Strife by Octave Mirbeau.

"Les Mauvais Bergers," (The Bad Shepherds,) a play of social strife, first played a score of years ago in Paris by Bernhardt and Guitry, was presented at the Vieux Colombier last night by the French company of M. Copeau. It brought out a cast of some twenty-four players, and in its five acts, its wealth of talk, argument and action, was quite the biggest thing the French company at the Viuex Colombier has yet offered. But it brought home to the audience how completely the war has put into the background the extreme views on both sides of the question of the rights of labor and of capital. "But we have changed all that," might be said in all seriousness as the epilogue of the play. Zola's fiery attacks on French society, even Galsworthy's dramatization of the labor wars, have been shoved into the background by the greater struggle in which the workmen and employers now find themselves. One might see in the character of Jean Roule, the strike leader, played by M. Copeau, a Bolshevik, but of another period.

This play, by Octave Mirbeau, never achieved the success of "Business is Business," produced a few years later and seen in New York. It would be easy to say that the author attempted too much. To present the extreme of the radicalism and conservatism and the clash between them is almost more than one stage and one evening can be called upon to take care of.

M. Copeau and Mlle. Bing, both well known to Vieux Colombier audiences, were seen in the leading parts which fell earlier to Bernhardt and Guitry. The play brought forward Mlle. Paulette Noiseux in the part of the spoiled daughter of the rich, while M. Dhurtal was the son of the rich who had the hopeless task of trying to reconcile the rich and poor in the play.

'BOOK OF JOB' TO BE STAGED

Stuart Walker announced yesterday that "The Book of Job," a dramatic version of the Biblical tale, will be produced by him for two matinee performances at the Booth Theatre next month. David Bispham will represent the Voice Out of the Wilderness; Walter Hampden will be Elihu, and Margaret Mower and Judith Lowry will be the Two Narrators. The three friends of Job will be acted by Edgar Stehli, Eugene Stockdale, and Henry Buckler. Music for the production has been composed by Elliott Schenck, and Frank Zimmerer has designed the costumes and setting. The performances will be given on Thursday afternoons, March 7 and 14, and will not interfere with the run of "Seventeen."

Henry Holden Huss, Composer, Plays

Henry Holden Huss, the composer, introduced at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon an American national song, "We Are Sincere Soldiers," and another, "A Lament," with several unpublished airs, sung by Mrs. Huss, formerly Hildegarde Hoffmann, soprano. Mr. Huss played original piano pieces, including a manuscript intermezzo, "From the East," and with Arthur Hartmann, violin, his sonata in G minor, Op. 19. Charles W. Clark, baritone, sang one group of songs by Mr. Hartmann, and Henry M. Gilbert also assisted at the piano.

War Benefit Recitals.

Miss Maggie Teyte, Mlle. Yvonne Garrick, Max Rosen, and Salvatore de Stefano will be among the artists at the concert to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Ritz-Carlton for the benefit of the Secours Franco-Americain. General Rodeguet is to speak.

Maurice Dumesnil, the French pianist, is to give a series of six "one hour" recitals at the Ritz-Carlton, beginning next Tuesday afternoon. William Sandos, Special Commissioner to this country from France, of 30 East Forty-second Street, is receiving applications for tickets.

Germans Revive "The Heirloom."

The German players at the Irving Place Theatre last night revived Felix Philippi's well-known drama, "Das Erbe," ("The Heirloom,") which has not been acted here for about twenty years. The play contains two characters said to represent William II. and Bismarck, but is not directly concerned with affairs of State. Last night's performance was in honor of Heinrich Marlow, one of the most popular members of Rudolf Christians's company.

Bequest to Vanderbilt University.

The will of Mary Ellen Calhoun Foote, who died Feb. 1 last at 113 East Thirteenth Street, leaves the bulk of her estate to Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., for the erection of the William Henry Calhoun building for literary and scientific purposes. One of the rooms is to be hung with portraits of the Calhoun family. The only other bequest in the will is $75 a month for life to an orphan who was adopted when a child by the testatrix.

MORE TALK OF BIG STAKES

Prosecutor Seeks Information of Alleged Loss of $25,000 by Russian Army Officer.

After witnesses were examined before Judge Wadhams in the investigation concerning poker playing in the Partridge Club, which is said to include among its members several Judges, attorneys, and former members of the Police Department, Assistant District Attorney J. E. Smith yesterday said one or more arrests of the members would be made.

Theodore Tietze, assistant manager of the Ritz-Carlton restaurant, told of some of the dinners and games the club had at that hotel up to May, 1917, when the management of the hotel was notified by Police Captain Duggan that the gambling law was being violated by permitting the club to have rooms for play. It was brought out by other witnesses that the club held monthly dinners preceding the play, which cost an average of $30 for each person. Weekly dinners cost $6 a plate, which was paid for by chips taken from the games.

Since September the club met at the Imperial, according to James O. Stack, manager of the hotel. Stack said the games played were poker, bridge, and "railroad game," played with three to six packs of cards. The last meeting at his hotel was Jan. 26, he said. When asked who were at the dinners or games, Stack replied that he had noticed ex-Fire Commissioner John H. O'Brien and T. J. Canty.

While Stack was testifying the President of the Partridge Club, George Y. Bauchle, entered the court room and seated himself in view of the witness. Judge Wadhams stopped the hearing and requested Bauchle to stand up, and asked him if he had made signals to the witness.

"Certainly not," replied Bauchle, who is an attorney at 51 Chambers Street. "If it appeared so it certainly was not intentional on my part." Judge Wadhams accepted the statement, but requested him to go out of the courtroom. Assistant District Attorney Smith wanted to know if a man named Heimendinger had lost $14,000 at one of the meetings at the Imperial. Stack said he didn't know.

"Did you hear of a Russian army officer losing $25,000 at one of the Partridge Club games"? Stack had not heard of it, nor had he heard of the reported large losses and winnings, $1,000 being the largest stakes he had heard of at any of the games.

Mr. Smith repeated his statement yesterday to the effect that a New Jersey attorney had called on Mayor Hylan and had tried to influence the Mayor against Smith and his work. The Mayor, however, had sent for Smith and after hearing his report he had promised his support in the investigation.

Carl and Louis Hyman, Jesse Mann, and Charles Schlenger, arrested at the Merchants' Club, 108 East Seventeenth Street, were released in bail for trial in Special Sessions on charges of keeping a gambling room.

Attorneys for Major George B. McClellan, owner of the house at 22 West Thirty-first Street, which was recently fitted up at an expense of $12,000 by the Independence League Club, notified the court that the club would be requested to move. Several members of this club are to have a hearing today on a charge of keeping a gaming room.

A. J. Talley, chief Assistant District Attorney, appeared in the gambling cases for the first time yesterday.

'YOUTH' AT THE COMEDY.

Douglas Hetherly	Saxon Kling
Frank Denton	Robert Strange
Ferris	Edward Balzerit
Cecil Wainwright	Arthur Hohl
May	Jay Strong
Antony Gunn	Edward F. Flammer
Tom	James Terbell
The Rev. John Hetherly	Samuel Jaffe
Estelle	Helen Westley

Has anybody observed the one unmistakable trait of youth? It is that it talks so much. It talks so much because it thinks so little and feels so abundantly. When Miles Malleson set about his little play, he was feeling that marriage is too dreadfully permanent for any young man to venture upon, but that single bachelorhood is too dreadfully lonesome, and otherwise disquieting, to be endured. So he wrote three acts, at the end of which his two young people decide to be less lonesome in double bachelorhood. The rubric of his program is:

"You will die unless you do

One can only hope that they will whisper. Last night they did a deal of declamation.

The confidantes of this affair are two older people who also, in their first youth, saved their lives. The man has married another and has a happy home with a proud heir. His former partner also has whispered to a new mate, and says, "I am an unmarried woman with a child, and I try not to be too proud of it." Her endeavor at modesty is not altogether successful. She, and the whole play, in fact, quite glorify trial marriage, blissfully certain that it is by no means the trial that married folk who are married have so often found it.

Needless to say, the people of the play are artists, presumably of Greenwich Village. The three acts take place behind the scenes in a theatre. But if it ever occurred to Mr. Malleson that the lives of theatrical folk are very far from normal and representative, in fact about the most abnormal and distorted lives imaginable, he does not bother to hint of such a thing. His message is to the wide, wide world. Youth is youth, and must whisper or die. As far as he goes, which is not very far, he is sincere and human enough, and therefore interesting. But when he gets through saving his life he will find time to think, and then he will go much further toward writing things that really signify.

The background of the life of the theatre is very well observed and is presented with considerable skill and humor. Just so are plays rehearsed and actors "made up." Saxon Kling and Marjorie Vonnegut were the young whisperers. Arthur Hohl and Helen Westley were the older ones. It is significant that they did not find much material with which to shine.

Perhaps the final comment upon "Youth" is that for the first time it makes the onward path attractive. Such a bore to be always whispering, and so loudly.

DALY SURPRISES AUDIENCE.

Says in Speech That He Will Retire to Movies Unless Play Is Supported.

Arnold Daly surprised his audience at the second performance of "The Master," last night, at the Hudson Theatre, by appearing before the curtain at the end of the second act and announcing that he would retire permanently from the stage unless his present venture finds support at the hands of the public. Mr. Daly added that he might continue to produce plays, and that he also would teach acting, but that his own performances would be confined to the motion pictures.

"I have as much indifference and contempt for people who pay $40 a seat for feminine pulchritude and jazz band comedy," Mr. Daly added, "as they have for me."

IMPORTS FROM CANADA NEED NO LICENSES

Trade Board Temporarily Modifies Order, Except as to Articles Put Under Ban on Nov. 28.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A general order by the War Trade Board today permits, without individual licenses, importation of all commodities from Canada except those mentioned in President Wilson's proclamation of Nov. 28. Importers are urged to make haste in sending in their applications for licenses to import shipments from all other countries.

The blanket license arrangement was put into effect, it was explained at the War Trade Board, to relieve freight congestion, and to give time for the import licensing system to adjust itself properly. Commodities named in the President's proclamation of Nov. 28 are coming in now under individual license, and the system is working smoothly as it applies to them, but considerable confusion was created when the board recently put all imports under individual license.

Individual licenses for all article imported from Canada will be required as soon as congestion is cleared and when the system is working more smoothly.

Vance C. McCormick, Chairman of the War Trade Board, telegraphed to the Merchants' Association yesterday that the President's order requiring licenses for imports had been suspended as to merchandise in transit on Feb. 16, the date the order took effect.

Mr. McCormick's telegram answered one sent by the association, and read: "Telegram received concerning imports order of Feb. 15. A blanket license was granted to all the Collectors of Customs to admit goods in transit on the 16th. That will avoid congestion at the various ports."

This modification of the order was made in response to representations by the Merchants' Association that congestion caused by incoming cargoes was found to be increasing confusion in the port. The blanket license made it possible yesterday for importers here to make usual entries at the Custom House, and remove merchandise from piers, thus helping to make room for outgoing food and war supplies.

PRAISES GARMENT WORKERS

Louis Marshall Commends Women for Giving Holiday Pay to War Aid.

Benjamin Schlesinger, Chairman of the Relief Day Committee of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, which tomorrow, Washington's Birthday, is to give up its holiday and devote the day's pay of the 75,000 workers to Jewish war sufferers, by arrangement with the American Jewish and People's Relief Committees, yesterday made public the following letter addressed to the union by Louis Marshall, who, with Jacob H. Schiff, constitutes the Special Committee of the American Jewish Relief Committee in charge of this contribution of the workers:

"Permit me to express, through you, my hearty thanks and appreciation of the high-mindedness which has been exhibited by the members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in their determination to carry out their pledge to devote their earnings on Washington's Birthday for the relief of the war sufferers. At the time when this pledge was made it was not anticipated that the workers would be subjected to the added loss consequent upon the order of the Fuel Administrator, which prevented them from working on days on which they would otherwise have been employed.

"This curtailment of employment, which followed almost immediately upon the commencement of the short season of industrial activity, has undoubtedly greatly diminished the earnings of the workers.

"Appreciating that fact, I would have been willing to have absolved them from carrying out their pledge, but they have insisted upon making this additional sacrifice to the cause of humanity and brotherhood by disregarding themselves, and thus demonstrating to the world their unselfishness and idealism.

"I have not the words adequately to characterize the nobility of spirit which they have evinced. Theirs is an example which cannot fail to impress itself upon the entire community, and I can assure you that it will never be forgotten."

FRANK CURTISS'S WILL FILED

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Feb. 20.—The will of Frank Curtiss, who had homes at 46 West Fortieth Street, New York, and at Sheffield, Mass., and who left an estate of several million dollars, was filed here today. No public bequests are made in the will. The controlling interest in the Mahawie National Bank of Great Barrington is bequeathed outright to Mr. Curtiss's son, Roy A. Curtiss.

To the widow, Ella R. Curtiss, is left all of the jewelry, automobiles, horses, and furniture, with two exceptions, and for two years the use of the New York house which, after that time, becomes a part of the residuary estate. Mrs. Curtiss also receives the life use of the Curtiss country place at Sheffield, and on her death the homestead goes to a grandson, Franklin Curtiss.

Other bequests are: To a daughter, Sophia Curtiss, $20,000; to a son, Roy A. Curtiss, $10,000; to the wife of Roy A. Curtiss, $10,000; to a sister-in-law, Elizabeth R. Roys, $2,500; to two nephews, Frank M. and Frederick H. Curtiss, $2,500 each; to two nieces, Kate Sanford and Caroline Johnson, $1,000 each; to a niece, Kittie Cash Morse of New Rochelle, $1,000; to Jean and Florence Bascom of Williamstown, $1,000 each; to Edward Smythe of New York, $1,000; to Edmund H. Garrison, Treasurer and Secretary of the Sixth Avenue Railway of New York, $1,000.

In trust, $10,000 is left to a grandson, Franklin Curtiss, and $20,000 to a grandson, Roy A. Curtiss. It is directed that $12,000 be paid annually to Mrs. Curtiss, widow of the testator. The residue of the estate is left in trust for the son, Roy A. Curtiss, and daughter, Sophia Curtiss, the trust to continue until after the decease of the children of Roy A. Curtiss.

NO GERMAN CHARITY BALL.

Committee Makes Appeal for Direct Contributions.

For the last twenty-seven years some German American clubs in the City of New York, such as the Liederkranz, Arion, and the Beethoven Maennerchor, have given a ball annually for the purpose of raising funds for various charitable institutions. This ball, which was called "The German Charity Ball," had become quite a fixture in the social life of New York City, and more than $10,000 was raised annually for charitable purposes.

Owing to the war, the committee this year decided that it would forego the ball, but in order to provide the institutions with the funds on which they have heretofore depended it was decided to call upon the public to contribute the amount of money usually raised. The committee has already sent out its appeal to those whom it knew to have been its patrons in the past and have succeeded in raising $7,200 to date. It is anxious to raise the amount of $10,000 before March 3, so that the institutions will receive their customary donations at the usual time.

Contributions should be sent to the Treasurer of the Charity Committee, Hubert Cillis, 50 Union Square.

CAPLIN BOOK SALE ENDS.

Smith, for catalogue No. 387, the rare, original edition of the earliest printed account of the "Proceedings of the Congress held at New York in 1765 on the subject of the American Stamp Act."

RUSSIA'S ONLY HOPE.

Whether Germany demands an indemnity of $4,000,000,000 from Russia, or only $1,500,000,000, as Trotzky is represented as stating it, makes very little difference to Russia. She can pay neither one sum nor the other. Germany's security for the payment will be her power to seize Russian territory, and necessarily failing to collect in cash, she will seize the collateral. Russia's only way of escape lies through the resumption of her former relation with the Allies, a return to her place among the Powers fighting to destroy German despotism. It may be thought improbable that she will choose that way, but it is absolutely the only possible way for her to escape the peril that confronts her.

Her re-entry into the alliance against Germany would give her the moral right to aid and protection by her allies, and it is conceivable that important aid might be given by Japan. Her right to assistance would be undeniable, for she would render a service to the Allies of the west comparable to that she rendered at the beginning of the war, which was in the highest degree important. Forced to resume fighting on the eastern front, Germany would find her plans for the loudly trumpeted drive in the west much disarranged, to such a point even that she might be compelled to abandon them. Such a service, the mere threat of military operations which would necessitate the retention of a large German force in the east, would demand substantial recognition and repayment from the Allies, for its value would be very great.

The obstacle, a very serious one but perhaps not absolutely unsurmountable, is the disorganization of the Russian Government and of the Russian army. The condition of the Government is a more serious obstacle than that of the army, for if a competent Government organization could be set up, the army, with millions of men still armed, might be remarshaled and made formidable enough to demand the serious attention of Germany. The condition precedent is that the Russian people should realize that they have been betrayed by the Bolsheviki, that Lenine and Trotzky have delivered them helpless into the hands of their destroyer. Were the Russians less densely ignorant, had they not been so desperately deluded by their betrayers, who have preached international socialism to them until their brains are addled, their return to reason and sanity might not long be deferred. It has been everywhere remarked that the Bolsheviki were willing to fight Russians, to fight the makers of the revolution, to fight everybody but Germany. The Russian people must know that as well as all the world knows it.

A more difficult thing to overcome is their intense weariness of the war, their delusion that peace will bring them quiet and comfort. The reorganization of their Government could come only through the appearance upon the scene of a strong man or a body of strong men capable of assuming the leadership, of sweeping away the mischievous proletariat leaders and the socialistic rubbish. These new men would not succeed unless they could make it clear to the army and to the people that they could find safety only through Government reorganization and the resumption of hostilities against Germany. The Russians, and particularly the army, had been so much befooled by the talk about peace, the distribution of the land, and the coming of the socialistic millennium that the task would be most difficult. They would prefer to hug their delusion of peace, ease, and new riches. That way lies their sure destruction and they must be made to see it if they are to be saved. Of course, there is no peace for Russia, no freedom for Russians, no future either for the State as a whole or for a federation of its parts so long as Germany remains unconquered. They will be enslaved, and Germany will take from them what she needs. The certain thing is that she will assume dominion over all Russians and will hold them in bondage, a condition absolutely fatal to their development as a nation, to their happiness and prosperity as a people.

It would be a giant task to make the Russians understand that their only hope of present deliverance and future freedom is to be found in their return to the alliance against Germany. Yet that is the only way in which they can establish a title to a seat at the peace conference table. Failing that, Germany would be their representative in the negotiations. They ought to be able to understand what that would mean. Should the Germans for their own purposes continue the Bolsheviki in their hold upon a semblance of power no representative they might send to the peace conference could be recognized by the Allies, whom Russia has betrayed, for the Bolshevist Government has no rights which they are bound to respect. Russia's interest and Russia's duty run parallel, they are clear enough. Russia's present condition stands in the way, and it is a terrible reality, so chaotic and formless that it is difficult to deal with beyond any precedent in the world's history. But if any sane and competent men remain in Russia, men who might come to the fore with some hope of gaining the confidence of the people and of the army, they may be assured that the Allies would give them prompt recognition and all the help it is possible for them to give in restoring Russia to a place among the nations.

TRADE COMPACT WITH SPAIN.

German submarines have sunk three Spanish ships since the beginning of negotiations at Madrid for a new trade compact with the United States. Reports from that city say that agreement has been reached as to all the terms proposed, and that acceptance of them will soon be officially announced. There are some indications that the Entente Allies are parties to the compact, as it provides for exports of certain products to them, and that for this reason it may bring Spain nearer to association with them in the war. This promises to be the effect of it if Germany finds the accepted conditions as objectionable as those in our recent trade agreements with northern neutrals, and if her official press adds denunciation of Spain to its attacks upon Sweden, Holland, and Denmark.

The Spanish Government has been making careful inquiry concerning the destruction of ships, and its note of protest will soon be sent to Berlin. About four weeks ago the Giralda was torpedoed. The loss of the Sebastian followed, on the 8th, and three days later the Ceferino was sent to the bottom, near the Canary Islands. In addition, an Italian ship, the Duca di Genova, was torpedoed two weeks ago in protected territorial waters, less than a mile from the Spanish coast. It was said in dispatches from Madrid that the new compact had released ships held in Spanish ports, and that they were coming to New York for cargoes. One of these was the Sebastian, sunk a few hours after she had started to cross the Atlantic.

While the terms of the agreement have not been published by official authority, there is reason to believe that they provide for shipment of iron, copper ores, and food from Spain to the Entente Allies, and of cotton and petroleum in specified quantities from this country to Spain, which is also to receive from us railway locomotives and cars. We can spare the cotton and oil, but our own roads have not enough cars and engines. Railroad rolling stock has been promised to France and Italy, and some of it has been exported. If we are to satisfy the wants of the three countries, the output of factories here must be increased.

Our trade with Spain has been growing, mainly because her people have come to us for some products which they obtained elsewhere before the war. Our own needs and those of our allies now call for strict regulation of all exports, but it may be that shipments to Spain will not be reduced by it. Probably the new agreement, like those with the northern neutrals, provides that Germany shall not be aided, even indirectly, by the imports from this country. But there is evidence that the Spanish people need for their own use all that their ships will bring from our ports. Germany has friends in Spain. On the other hand, many progressive Spaniards would like to see their nation in war partnership with the Allies. The effect of the trade agreement and the destruction of ships cannot be favorable to the Central Powers.

THE ARRAS-ST. QUENTIN SECTOR.

Once more, this time with more insistence than ever, a supreme German offensive in France is presaged. The prophets are sure now that the blow will fall "on the sector between Arras and St. Quentin," where the line is held by the British. This is somewhat indefinite, as Arras and St. Quentin are forty-five miles apart. The portents are night raids to bring in prisoners for inspection (numbers and stripes on uniforms, &c.) and examination by the usual coercive methods, great aerial activity, and heavy gunfire. But both sides play at that game, not only in the so-called Arras-St. Quentin sector but on the entire front from the sea to Switzerland.

If the Germans should strike south of Arras, their offensive would probably be a renewal of the second battle of Cambrai, which was a reverse for the British. It has been called a surprise, but Mr. Bonar Law recently told the House of Commons that an inquiry had brought out the fact that the German attack had been expected by Sir Douglas Haig for two days before it was made. Nevertheless, there was an element of surprise in the first shock, for it occurred at a point where the British commander was least prepared to defend his new salient, which was very vulnerable. The German Staff "outguessed" him.

Back of Cambrai the roads and railways could be used for large concentrations of troops, in which respect Cambrai has a remarkable strategic value. An offensive launched in the neighborhood of St. Quentin must also have been considered by the Germans, for at that point a wedge might be driven between the French and British armies. If there is to be an offensive anywhere on the line Arras-St. Quentin, the fighting will be on ground from which the Germans were pushed back periodically with heavy losses between Jan. 1, 1917, and the last week in November, when the Battle of the Tanks ended with promotion for General Sir Julian Byng, who found himself knocking at the gates of Cambrai, as he believed.

On the last day of 1916 the British line crossed the River Scarpe a little east of Arras and, extending south, almost touched Monchy, which is twenty-five miles due west of Cambrai. About twenty miles south of Arras the British trenches took a turn southeast, crossing the Ancre and winding below Bapaume. Thence the line sinuously reached the Somme near Peronne and turned again toward Chaulnes, which lies about as far west of St. Quentin as Monchy is from Cambrai. The British offensive of January-April, 1917, carried the line to within ten miles of Cambrai and to within four of St. Quentin, both Bapaume and Peronne being captured. The Generals in charge of the operations were Sir Herbert Gough and Sir Henry Rawlinson. The latter has just been appointed Great Britain's representative on the Supreme War Council at Versailles.

There followed the first battle of Arras, which began on Easter Monday, April 9, along a forty-five-mile front from Lens to St. Quentin. In the opening battle the Canadians won immortal glory by storming Vimy Ridge, the northern pivot of the Hindenburg line. After seven days of fighting the British were in the environs of Lens, and with the co-operation of the French on the south St. Quentin was almost surrounded. The advance on the Bapaume-Cambrai road threatened Cambrai, but it was not until the Battle of the Tanks in November that this strategic point was in real danger. There was a second battle of Arras. It began on April 23, 1917, and dragged on, with terrific fighting and heavy casualties on both sides, until the middle of May. How desperate the assaults and how stubborn the defense may be judged from the fact that it required fourteen days to oust the Germans from Bullecourt. They still held Lens, and Cambrai still defied General Haig.

A successful offensive in the Arras-St. Quentin sector might re-establish the famous but rather vague Hindenburg line, but it would be at fearful cost. While the terrain seldom rises to an altitude much above 100 feet, the British occupy many points dominating the ground over which any advance must be made. It took them with superior artillery nearly a year to push their line east from ten to twenty miles, and they have had ample time to strengthen each position won. They should know every inch of the country, and their guns must be placed exactly where they will do the most execution. If there is anything lacking in General Haig's information, it can be supplied by General Petain, who was stationed at Arras just before the outbreak of war. The Arras-St. Quentin sector does not promise a quick and easy triumph for the great Hindenburg; in fact, the conditions seem to be so favorable to the defenders that they should welcome assaults in force by the enemy and his desire for a decision.

ONE INCOME TAX BLANK.

Criticism of the insults, intricacies, and annoyances of the income and excess profits taxes is fair, because they were imposed upon the country despite discussion and warning while the taxes were under consideration. What is said regarding a single one of the several blanks which must be filled out by any well-to-do individual or corporation is not to be taken as criticism of the blank. The Treasury officers are charged with the collection of the taxes according to law. They must place the responsibility for the law where it belongs. The lawmakers, not the Treasury, flouted the distinction in fact and in law between income and capital. Congress, not the makers of the blanks, proposed to tax excess profits, not by a comparison between profits in peace and war, but by a graduated scale of rates rising with profit on invested capital.

This blunder is not one of detail. It is one of principle, and runs through every process of enforcing the law. It is the less excusable because it is a repetition of the same blunder in the regulation of railways. Scores of millions have been wasted in the attempt to discover what is the invested capital of railways, and the bill will be larger before the futile attempt is abandoned. Those who knew told the railway regulators that there was no relation between reasonable rates and dividends on capital, but the regulators were resolved that if there was not there ought to be, and must be. Congress took the same attitude regarding taxes on profits. Nine per cent. is the dead line above which the man or the corporation making more must be penalized, regardless of whether the excess profits were due to the effect of the war, or were the result of excess work of hand or brain, or just good fortune. That is why it is necessary to find out what capital is invested before it is possible to collect the tax. In the case of individuals where there is no invested capital, the discrimination against effort of hand or head is obvious. High salaries or fees are not profits, nor income on capital, but they are taxed just the same, on a penal scale.

The same taxes on corporations or firms are less insulting, but more irritating. Nobody has kept books according to this law. The Federal Trade Commission has found that nine-tenths of corporations do not know what their costs are, and, therefore, do not know what their profits have been or ought to be. Half of all corporations make no charges for depreciation, and therefore do not know what remains of their invested capital. Few corporations know what their investment was originally, and in some few cases there may be intent to deceive. The conditions are scandalous, indefensible. Nothing could be worse except a law drawn upon the assumption that the facts were otherwise, or that a law was practicable which antagonized all business practice.

Applying these facts to the Corporation Excess Profits blank, there appears on the first page a schedule for "invested capital." It had to be there. In order to discover excess profits there must be comparison with the pre-war years 1911-12-13. The prospect of the comparison being truthful is enough to make the recording angel blot his useless books with tears. On the second of four large pages there are schedules for making adjustments in profits before and after deductions belonging to the taxable year in comparison with other years. On the third page there are schedules for like changes in capital. These reports must be sworn to, and then on the fourth page will be found the cross-examination of the taxpayer, going all over the sworn ground anew. "What was the fair value of "the total capital stock of the corporation?" "If any patent is included among assets attach a schedule "showing amount of cash or stock "paid therefor, and its present book "value." "Submit a statement describing all intercorporate relationships." "Submit a copy in detail "of the balance sheet of the corporation." These specimens suffice to justify the warnings before enactment that the law was inquisitorial and impracticable. Possibly business ought to be conducted in such manner as to make the law suitable for compliance by imperfect human nature and the established course of business practice. Certainly the facts are contrary to that assumption.

It follows that, although a worse law might have been passed, it is probable that never was there a worse law of this sort. Not a word has been said in condemnation of the amount of the tax payable. Not an objection of that sort has been raised in any responsible quarter. The conduct of our taxpayers is as admirable as that of our manhood in support of the war for democracy. It is lamentable to think what a waste of willing and inexhaustible tax resources has followed upon the resolve to punish wealth and profits rather than to utilize them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

One Blunder Mustn't Be Repeated.

Already—and not a day too soon—the members of the State and County Coal Conservation Committee are beginning to think and talk about fuel supplies for next Winter. It is to be hoped that the thinking and talking—and, still more, the acting—may not be along the lines followed last year.

All of us who are householders, as well as all who are landlords under obligation to warm the apartments of tenants, can well remember how we were told that if only we would be patient and considerate, and if we did not burden the country's temporarily embarrassed transportation facilities by demanding more coal than just enough to meet immediate needs, then everything would be well and nobody would suffer from a scarcity of fuel. We believed the confident promises then made, followed instructions with the docility that then marked all good Americans, and few indeed confronted the approach of cold weather with the full bins that in other years nobody had dreamed were an evidence of nefarious hoarding.

And we had our reward—in the shape of the proud consciousness that we had subordinated our private judgment to that of our betters and wisers. That feeling, unfortunately, did not save us from shivering through the months that came later, nor did it reduce the anxieties that went with getting an occasional half or quarter ton of coal at high prices and as the result of hard pleading.

The same mistake should not be made this year. Householders should be encouraged to put in their orders now for the coal they will need during the coming Winter—not for immediate delivery, of course, but, as opportunity serves, through the Summer and Fall. That has been the usual practice. Always a good one, it is now even better, and only misguided critics, official or other, will give the obnoxious name of "hoarders" to the people who follow it. Only thus can the mining companies and the railways be saved from the strains imposed on them this Winter, largely by the adoption of the opposite policy.

Hyphenizings Right and Wrong.

A needlessly excited correspondent of The Times takes it severely to task for putting over one of its news articles the other day a headline that contained the phrase "German-Americans." That, he writes, was very, very wrong, partly because there is and can be no such thing as a "German-American," and partly because the use of the double-barreled name pleases people who do not deserve to be pleased and encourages them to go on doing things they shouldn't do.

Of course it is easy to see what this critic's grievance is, and, also of course, in one sense, he is right in his contention that "German-American," like "Irish-American," or any other hyphenization of the same sort, is a contradiction in terms. A man either is or isn't an American, when he is considered politically and from the standpoint of allegiance, full and sincere. But there are other standpoints than that one, and if, as often happens, and as happened in the case under consideration, the matter of ethnic origin is in mind, the hyphenated form of description is true, innocent, and convenient.

Our correspondent declares that "German-American" is as absurd, and absurd in the same way, as would be "Catholic-Protestant" or "Protestant-Catholic." He is quite wrong, and the analogy does not hold. He should have credited The Times with seeing as clearly as himself that a German is not an American and an American not a German. But he probably knows that a German can become an American, and the fact that not a few of them have done so is entirely compatible with the other fact that some Germans haven't done so and some have only pretended to do it.

This country has been populated from many sources—a peculiarity that cannot be denied and should not be ignored. Certain of the fractional elements do show a harmful tendency to maintain and emphasize and perpetuate their original apartness. They will get over it in time or suffer penalties even heavier than are now endured by the most notable exponents of this grave mistake.

National Memory Is Long.

That many, perhaps a majority, of Americans do not yet fully realize the gravity of the situation created for them by the war is probably true, though all are learning it rapidly from the daily publication of "casualties" among our men abroad and from the ever-growing sacrifices demanded of them. With appreciation of what is before us, and upon us, too, there is beginning to be felt here toward the nation responsible for the war something, and more than a little, of the bitterness long since apparent among the French and English.

The Germans may think that these antagonisms will die away with the return of peace, and that soon the friendly relations of other days will be re-established. That is not the lesson of experience. There may be no "war after the war" in the official sense, but the "frightfulness" of Germany will not be forgotten by the present generation of those now her enemies, and it will not be forgotten by the children who are hearing daily of "atrocities," not as the acts of individual criminals, but as the products of a settled policy deliberately carried out in an attempt to subject the world to German domination.

That such animosities continue long after treaties have been signed is shown plainly enough by the survival in so many American minds of memories dating back to our Revolutionary era. They are based on things done by the British Government and military men of that day which, in comparison with German conduct in Belgium, in the occupied part of France, in Serbia and Rumania, and in Armenia, deserve characterization hardly more severe than can be made by the word "tactless." Yet England still suffers appreciably from her management of the prison ships and her employment of the Hessians.

This nourishing of old grudges is wrong and it is unwise, but it is an unalterable "folkway," and for more than one century or two Germany is going to pay for her mad ambition penalties which no indemnities or annexations she can get from helpless Russia will balance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Brother Masson's enthusiastic patriotism should be infectious. We need all the Massons we can get. Zeal, however, sometimes leads to error. It has done so in this case when he writes to you, intimating that the "Star-Spangled Banner" is being played at the Metropolitan Opera House before the performance begins, instead of during an entr'acte "in order to accommodate the Germans, who now wait before taking their seats until after it is played, so that they will not be subjected to the annoyance of having to stand up."

This is a serious injustice to Mr. Gatti-Casazza, whose pro-ally patriotism is just as ardent as Mr. Masson's or mine, and who has the same warm affection for the "Star-Spangled Banner" as he has for the "Marseillaise" or the "Garibaldi Hymn" of his own Italy. Perhaps Brother Masson will recall that when he attended "meeting" on Sundays in his early days it was opened with a hymn and a prayer. Why, therefore, may we not open our operatic performances, which represent the most dignified and impressive form of stage entertainment, with the "Star-Spangled Banner," which surely is both hymn and prayer to all of us who believe in the religion of patriotism?

However, if the fear of God and Uncle Sam can be more effectively injected into the heart of any Hun or Hunophile who happens into the opera, I am sure that the management of the Metropolitan Opera Company will gladly order the National Hymn to be played just when he or she can least escape hearing it. W. J. GUARD.

In an editorial article in today's Times headed "Our Terms with Norway" we read that that country was to receive "about 10,000,000 bushels of wheat and rice, with specified quantities of sugar, meat, oils, cotton, wool, and lead" on condition that none of these imports shall go to Germany. It appears further that besides supplying the Germans with 48,000 tons of fish a year—to which we agree—"Norway insists upon selling to our enemies certain raw materials for munitions." And it is added that "the negotiations will be continued."

Now, why in the name of common sense should we enter into any such negotiations?

In the desperate life and death struggle which has been forced upon us the one thing we have to do is to throw the solid weight of all our resources into the effort to crush the German monster. To this end all that America owns must be devoted to her own needs and those of her allies. Not a pound, nor a bushel, nor a gallon, nor a bale can be diverted to other uses. Neutrals have no right to our property and no claims upon us that can be recognized. Our work is cut out for us and everything must give way to its imperative necessities. In this world-wide food shortage we are willing, and more than willing, to skimp and stint and save to supply our gallant allies, who have done and suffered so much more than we, but some of us, at least, are not willing to deprive ourselves in order to send wheat and rice and sugar and meat to neutrals—least of all to such as "insist upon selling to our enemies materials for munitions." STEEL FOR JAPAN.

With That She Can Render Great Aid to the Allied Cause.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having achieved world leadership, America, fully equipped, entered into the arena as the faithful defender of democracy, liberty, and humanity. All the civilised nations that are now fighting look upon Uncle Sam as the guardian daddy of the allied family. Little Belgium, crying for food, has it by mere asking. Big England, France, and Italy asked for food, war necessities, and money, and they all have their share. Sister France is now getting her escort into the trenches, too. For the maintenance and supervision of the allied family, daddy is certainly very busy in every direction.

Far away from the arena, Japan stands firm for the cause. She has already achieved the assigned duty, keeping the old hemisphere stretching from Suez to the Pacific and from the Cape to Bering Sea in perfect tranquillity. Her warships are silently but effectively patrolling in the Mediterranean and Bay of Biscay. She is doing her utmost in actual support and co-operation with the Allies, supplying not only war materials, but also money to the extent of $700,000,000, which is not a meagre amount to her treasury. And without any fuss, too, which her Bushido disdains. This is not all! She is energetically working to enter into the field whenever called. With the view to meet the emergency she is fast preparing war materials and ships.

In the midst of this deliberate preparation Japan was thunderstruck with the steel embargo. She is willing to do her best, even sacrificing her last man, if necessary, for the cause. But, alas! Her hands and feet are tied because of it. To build ample guns and ships is to win the war; but her need is forgotten, her cries are unheard.

I often hear asked why Japan does not send her men into the trenches, but how? In modern warfare her Samurai spirit alone does not count; her jujitsu does but little. To make her move effective, at least a half million men fully equipped must be sent. The recognized authorities agree that it requires about twenty ship tons for one fully equipped soldier to cross seas and oceans of 8,000 miles, nearly four times the distance from the American border to the front. Japanese cannot fly like birds, although they are smaller than their brothers. Political reason forbids the use of Siberian railways, Russia knows. Put her entire available ships for war service, sacrificing everything that she has, yet she may not be able to send more than 75,000 to 100,000 men. This best is not effective enough to show the spirit of the sons of the Rising Sun. Common sense will convince you of the fact.

Let Japan have steel, whatever you can spare, to show your good-will like the rest of the family, and see what her brave sons will do for daddy and for the family. The need of steel is a vital question of life and death in Japan today. Give her even scraps and old iron that are scattered around in your foundries. Her ships will come and get them, paying good cash prices, without curtailing daddy's bottoms. She can make best use of them in trimming her sons for "Attention, Stand By, and March." And if her sons fail to prove what daddy expects of her, then curse her as unworthy of you. Then ostracize her from the allied family and civilized world! Japan is ready for criticism. SHIZUO KONDO.

How 'Jawbone' Came to Mean Credit

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In today's issue was an article credited to The Kansas City Star about a "new" slang word used in the army, namely, "jawbone"—meaning credit. It is not new, having been first used by the American army of occupation in Manila twenty years ago, and now used by natives and Chinese throughout the Philippines and in parts of China. Most of the small stores in Manila supplying the wants of soldiers for such things as tobacco and fruits were, and are still, run by Chinese, and no matter what else they may advertise on the walls of their shops there will always be the Spanish word for soap, "jabon," and frequently that will be the only ware advertised. The small Chinese storekeeper was very anxious to ingratiate himself with the American soldier, and extended credit, and it requires no great imagination to see how the latter, thinking "jabon" to be the storekeeper's name, would explain to his "bunkies" where and how to get tobacco on credit at "jawbone." Of course, the Spanish pronunciation for jabon does not sound like jawbone, but how else would an American, ignorant of Spanish, pronounce it? OLD SOLDIER.

German-American Loyalty Meetings

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am sorry the mass meeting of German-American citizens held last evening at the Grand Central Palace escaped my attention. Similar meetings by the Friends of German Democracy should be held in other large cities of this country, so the sentiment expressed at last night's meeting may reach every German-American and others of German blood.

Let every good and clear-thinking German stand by our worthy President for the slogan that we are fighting for democracy and for nothing else, and if the German people abroad unite with the Germans at home the octopus of German military government can be changed into a government on the style of the English, where the people, and not a military caste, rule. No Compromised Peace.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let us all thank S. H. Church for his letter on "The Danger of Peace Discussion," published in Sunday's issue. His is assuredly one of the truest, sanest, wisest, and strongest voices we have heard in many a day—a clarion voice, acting as a bracing tonic after the debilitating effects of repeated "peace aims" and "peace views." As Mr. Church intimates, the self-contained, uncompromising attitude toward the brutal savages we are fighting is the dignified course. To hint at coming to terms with them strikes us as at once absurd and contemptible. It is precisely that consummation that the brutes are working for. Obviously, they are playing upon our stops with some success. E. B. CAMPBELL.

REVISIONS.

  The sword, of the cane;
The gun, of the plow;
  The tank, of the train:
But faith takes place of the doubt;
  And strength, of disdain;
  And honor, of stain!

  The loophole, of pane;
The dugout, of dome;
  The trench, of the lane:
But courage takes place of fear;
  And act, of refrain;
And slogan, of sneer;

  Sly bullets, of rain;
And hunger, of meat;
  The fallen, of grain:
But men take place of the herd;
  And heart, of the brain;

RICHARD BUTLER GLAENZER.

BRITAIN'S WEST INDIES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having waited patiently in vain for some one to bring into prominent relief and subject to severe criticism a section of Chapter VII., devoted to the consideration of the proper disposition after the war of "the group of islands" * * * "designated in common parlance the West Indies," by "An American Jurist," I venture to solicit the hospitality of The Times for the briefest possible statement.

Premising that in the general peace to follow the present world war the Entente statesmen could do much toward the better definition and limitation of the American spheres of influence in the West Indies," the "Jurist" proceeds to make this singular and startling proposition:

> By reason of the mere co-operation of America with England in the present great war England's precarious tenure of her widely extended empire has already been assured for an indefinite period beyond her reasonable hopes. If England does not recognize this fact her statesmen do, and it is her statesmen who control the immediate future of the British West Indies. That the peace negotiations could be made the means of transferring Jamaica and Nassau, for example, from England to America is not doubtful, if English statesmen were willing to consent. They certainly will not consent if they are not asked by America to consent.

Considering it merely as a proposition in the light in which "Mr. Jurist" hopes to have it regarded, permit me to state my confident belief that if any English statesman, the present Premier, for instance, in a moment of amicable weakness were to endeavor to give it effect in the usual way by introducing a bill in Parliament he would go out of office in two days. Canada would most decidedly object and waste no time in registering her objection. Canada's objection alone would be fatal. The Union of South Africa and Australia would object in equally strong terms, and for similar reasons. The South Africans, through General Smuts and General Botha, have intimated that German East Africa having been conquered is to remain British territory and not be returned to Germany. Some American writers, especially "Mr. Jurist," fail to appreciate the certainty that Canada, Australia, and the South African Union, standing together, and with not dissimilar interests at stake, will exercise a potential influence in the peace negotiations. That, let us hope, will take place before another year has passed. There is not the least doubt that their views will be most cordially entertained by the Imperial Government.

There is one small but very important connecting link between the motherland and the dominions beyond the seas at work night and day that "American Jurist" has completely overlooked. I refer to the ocean cable services encircling the globe and connecting all parts of the British Empire. If anything happens today in London or Dublin or Edinburgh, an important statement by the Premier or by Mr. Bonar Law in the House of Commons, a speech to his constituents by Mr. Asquith or Mr. Balfour, a message from the King to his people, it appears tomorrow in the daily papers of every city or prosperous town wherever the Union Jack is flying—even in Nassau and Jamaica. That constitutes a daily bond of union. We need not worry about the destinies of Canada or the other great dominions. The national ties have grown immensely stronger during the past lustrum; in another decade the bonds will be stronger still, more durable and more permanent, but in all probability as light and flexible as at present. Prompt and Delayed Mail.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent "K. F. M. D." has touched a vital point in the need of the soldier of letters from home and in urging the importance that no effort should be spared to get them to him promptly and surely. It is pathetic, the eagerness and longing they have for home news, and most depressing when the letters are delayed. The letters to some units go with a fair degree of regularity, and we must, of course, consider the present difficulties of ocean travel, which cause delay.

In our own experience we have found that of forty-four letters sent up to Dec. 18, 1917, all but two had reached France, the last on Jan. 11, 1918, and the time of arrival of twenty-seven of which we have accurate dates of receipt. The shortest went in seventeen days; the longest took forty, and the average was twenty-seven. Of letters from France, nineteen, (the last written Jan. 11, received here Feb. 5, 1918,) all have been received; the shortest seventeen days, the longest thirty-four, and the average twenty-five days.

I wish I could say the same of merchandise. A Christmas box, of wood, hinged and screwed cover, plainly marked by an expert letterer, duly approved by the Postmaster, with a list inside of every article, and carefully packed, weighing eighteen pounds, was sent Oct. 31, 1917; but it had not been received Jan. 11, 1918.

Another Christmas box, this of tin, and with contents weighing four pounds, was sent under the same conditions as above on Nov. 13, 1917, and was still missing Jan. 11, 1918.

These boxes were substantial, and packed so that no loose places were left to allow shifting of contents; and, with proper and honest treatment, were fitted to go to Europe and to return, if necessary, intact.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Regarding the recent dispatch from Amsterdam, as announced by Bishop Karevichius of Kovno, that Lithuanians demand a monarchical State under the German wing, I wish to state that the dispatch was considered at the special meeting of the Lithuanian National Council, held at 320 Fifth Avenue, New York, this date, and great doubt was expressed as to the truthfulness of such a report coming from a German source.

Contrary to the report, it is a well known fact that the Lithuanians here and in Europe made repeated representations demanding the creation of an absolutely independent State with a democratic republican form of government.

It is most improbable to suppose that the Lithuanians are leaning toward Germany. Since the outbreak of this war, the Lithuanian sentiments were entirely, and still are, with the Allies. The Lithuanian press is decidedly antagonistic to Germany. On the Russian front there were over 500,000 of the Lithuanian Army fighting for the Allies' cause, and a considerable number of Lithuanian-Americans are fighting now in France.

It is to be deplored, however, that the efforts of the Lithuanian people and their sacrifices for the Allies' cause, apparently, were not appreciated by the Entente Allies.

The Lithuanians did not receive any encouragement in their struggle for independence. The Germans meantime exerted every effort to win the people, and evidently the message is a manifestation of the German propaganda.

It is hoped, however, that the Lithuanian people will not share the views expressed by Bishop Karevichius should the report prove to be correct. P. S. VILLMONT, President Lithuanian National Council.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You published in The Times recently a long letter from Professor Gilbert Murray cabled from England.

Professor Murray has unconsciously joined the ranks of the Laodiceans. He asserts that Lord Lansdowne's regrettable pronunciamento, at first condemned by the British people, was finally, by complete bouleversement of public opinion, enthusiastically accepted as expressing British opinion in favor of a negotiated peace based on concessions and compromises. This is not the fact. Lord Lansdowne himself explained away his pacifist attitude, which provoked popular indignation, by stating that he accepted President Wilson's views as his own. Personally I deplore Mr. Wilson's fondness for nuances of expression, but he has said nothing to support Professor Murray's attribution to him of the recognition of the "need of facing frankly the military situation created by the withdrawal of Russia, on the impracticability of the knockout blow policy involving the unconditional surrender of the enemy"; nor, I am sure, would Mr. Wilson admit there was here "widespread ignorance of what we are fighting for." No one has expressed more forcibly than Mr. Wilson his resolution, as representing American opinion, to "knock out" (to borrow Professor Murray's expression) the Potsdam gang.

If I understand his intention it is a generous appeal to the German people to rid themselves of this bloody incubus. Let them bring forth fruits meet for repentance and they may expect generous treatment. As to Professor Murray's statement that the knockout is impracticable, Mr. Wilson, as explicitly as words can convey, states that said knockout can not only be delivered but that, if necessary, it will be. If anything should limit the fruition of our hopes in this direction it would be the faint hearts encouraging the slackers and the traitors.

Professor Murray, under guise of generally deprecating the attitude of British labor, certainly does not sternly reprove it. He simply puts it forward as a reason for a compromised peace. He doesn't state as a fact that British labor has no cause of complaint against the British Government, nor deny that "an atmosphere of intrigue, camouflage and one-sided propaganda" exists. He leaves one in doubt as to the distinction between "one-sided" and two-sided war propaganda. To their credit be it said that the overwhelming majority of English papers are "one-sided." They are all bitterly anti-German in their determination to prosecute the war to the utter defeat and ruin of the Hohenzollern, "impracticable" as that end may seem to Professor Murray.

In some holy compact of British labor with the Bolsheviki Professor Murray sees a prophecy of peace. The Entente leaders should fully realize what man it is with whom, in amity, peace is to be discussed. It is William of Hohenzollern, born in the purple, who has dyed his imperial robe with red as more acceptable to his partner, the bloody god of the old dispensation—the god who punished Saul because, while according to orders he exterminated the men, women, and children of the Amalekites, he spared Agag, the King, and the herds; who, more nearly than even his prototype, Attila, approaches the ideal of the Apocalyptic beast, and who would repudiate any treaty when convenience dictated. Therefore the German people, for whom some in high places even now evince such tender sympathy, must cast out Wilhelm and his coadjutors in crime, or, if they prefer to enjoy his benign reign in future, must cede Heligoland or some such tower of observation useful for the inspection of his imperial activities in the future. This man is directly and confessedly responsible for the Lusitania, the Cavell, and the Fryatt murders, the wholesale massacre of women and children in peaceful towns, and for deeds inspired by his holy memory of the Huns, his avowed exemplars. He has been indicted twice at least for murder in England, and is a living candidate for the halter. Surely, Mr. Wilson must have had some mental reservation when, in the flow of rhetoric, he disavowed the intention of in any way interfering with the Germans' choice of their post-bellum Government. If Napoleon, who, impelled by ambition, the madness of noble minds, in no great measure ever broke the conventions of civilized war, was condemned to life imprisonment, surely this imperial paranoiac should not escape the just punishment of his crimes, unless, perhaps, under plea of insanity. The future peace of the world depends on the complete military victory stated by Professor Murray to be impracticable.

I protest against these insidious attempts to weaken the final and necessary stroke of justice. G. STANLEY SEDGWICK.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was amazed at Professor Hocking's proposal concerning the disposal of Alsace-Lorraine. No Alsatian or Lorrainer ever thinks now of anything but a complete restoration of Alsace-Lorraine to France. The few autonomists in the annexed provinces have disappeared since Germany's outrageous treatment of the people and soldiers of Alsace-Lorraine during the period of the war. Alsace-Lorraine fares no better than Belgium.

As to the German settlers in Alsace-Lorraine, they have no claim whatsoever. Alsace-Lorraine did not invite them to cross the Rhine and was powerless to keep them out. As to the question of a plebiscite, Professor Hocking forgets or ignores that the chosen representatives of Alsace and Lorraine refused to accept the terms of the treaty of Frankfort, both in the National Assembly of France at Bordeaux in 1871 and in the German Reichstag in 1874. Their vote each time was unanimous.

The wrong done to Alsace-Lorraine must be righted from the day it was done and not forty-seven years later, plus twenty-five years, as Professor Hocking so cruelly suggests. No, the Alsatians and Lorrainers have nothing in common with their conquerors. No friendly assimilation is possible.

Suppose Alsace-Lorraine is to remain an autonomous State for twenty-five years. What will happen? Just what is happening wherever small nations are in the way of Kultur—a new Belgium. The Teutons will overrun the country, and before twenty-five years are passed Alsace-Lorraine will be without its native element. The foolish idea of "all European powers" guaranteeing the proposed autonomy of Alsace-Lorraine is no guarantee whatever, because such a settlement is not based on right. The question of Alsace-Lorraine is not a European question in itself, it is a question between Alsace-Lorraine and France. Nothing else will do. France alone can satisfy the aspirations of Alsace-Lorraine. Without France, misery and intellectual starvation will be the lot of my beloved little Alsace.

We may see that Professor Hocking's proposal is going to be in the end the proposal of Germany. F. J. TRIGH.

CARPENTIER LEAVES COLUMBIA A MILLION

Columbia University and Barnard College each receive residuary bequests aggregating more than $1,000,000 under the will filed yesterday of General Horace W. Carpentier, a Trustee of Columbia, who died at his home at 108 East Thirty-seventh Street on Jan. 31, at the age of 92 years. In addition to dividing the residue between the two institutions, General Carpentier gave specific bequests to each to increase gifts previously made. The legacy to Barnard is one of the largest single gifts to be received by the institution, and is in addition to the presentation to the college of General Carpentier's home by a deed of gift filed last December. Both residuary bequests are for the endowments of the institutions.

General Carpenter, who laid the basis of his fortune when he went to the California gold fields in 1849, and later increased it through trade with the Orient, was at one time Mayor of Oakland and was founder of the Bank of California, but he had lived in New York for twenty years. At his death his estate was estimated at $20,000,000, but it was said yesterday that the total value would be between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000, practically all of which is left to public institutions and organizations.

The will filed yesterday was executed on Sept. 2, 1916, at the decedent's country place, Galway, in Saratoga County, and shows that on account of his advanced age he was taking extreme pains to see that his fortune was distributed as he wished. He provided that if the last will were successfully attacked by heirs at law, a previous will, made in 1912 and supplemented by a codicil in 1913, which made a similar disposition of his property to his last will, was to be filed.

Small Bequests for Heirs.

In his last will General Carpentier states that he is "presumably of disposing mind and memory." He gives various heirs at law and next of kin $2,000 bequests, and explains that he has no wife or child, brother or sister, or other near relative, and that the fact that he does not give more to his next of kin "is not through oversight or failure of memory." The testator said further:

"It is deliberate and intentional, and because, in my well-considered opinion, I have heretofore been fairly liberal in their direction." He provided further that if he has omitted a bequest to any blood relative such person is to receive $500 on proving relationship.

The will makes no mention of the former Miss Maude Alice Burke, daughter of Mrs. James F. Tichenor. When the latter remarried in the early '90s General Carpentier made Miss Burke his ward. She became engaged in 1894 to Prince Andre Poniatowski, but the engagement was broken when General Carpentier threatened to cut off his ward. She was married in 1895 to Sir Bache Cunard. Lady Cunard has been described recently as the musical arbiter of London.

The additional gifts to Columbia University in the will include a sum sufficient to increase to $300,000 the Dean Lung Department of Chinese, which General Carpentier established in 1901 after a trip to China, and which he named in honor of his Chinese valet. The fund was originally $100,000, and several years later $12,000 was added. No part of the new gift is to be used for gratuities or pensions. The will increases the Edward R. Carpentier Memorial Fund to $300,000, and gives $50,000 to the Medical School of the university in memory of Dr. Reuben S. Carpentier. The Sloane Maternity Hospital affiliated with the Medical School gets $80,000. Because of the relations between Presbyterian Hospital and Columbia University the hospital gets $200,000.

Additional Bequest to Barnard.

The additional bequest to Barnard College is $200,000, to provide scholarships for "deserving girls—not excluding Chinese—seeking education there."

The University of California and the Pacific Theological Seminary, both at Berkeley, receive $100,000 each. The Canton Christian College at Canton, China, gets $25,000, and $40,000 goes to the Saratoga Homestead Sanitarium for Tuberculosis. Saratoga County receives $10,000 for the erection of an infirmary for the poor, and the American Humane Educational Society of Massachusetts and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of New York receive $5,000 each. For the purpose of establishing a Booker T. Washington Memorial $30,000 goes to the Tuskegee Normal Institute.

The bequests to individuals include $30,000 to Alice D. Burt, formerly Wait; $10,000 to Dorothy Alstrom, and $5,000 to Virginia Alstrom.

General Carpentier's gift to Columbia compares favorably with other large gifts made in the past, and, with his past benefactions, makes him one of the largest contributors. The university records show that the Dean Lung Fund is now $225,000. General Carpentier gave $300,000 in 1903 to the Law School in memory of his brother, James S. Carpentier, and $100,000 to establish a medical professorship in memory of Dr. Reuben S. Carpentier.

The largest single gift in the past was $2,181,380 under the will of John S. Kennedy, long a Trustee of Columbia. The George Crocker Special Research Fund for Cancer brought the institution $1,411,148, while the total benefactions of Joseph Pulitzer aggregated about $2,500,000 made during his lifetime and under his will. Gifts of William D. Sloane and Mrs. Emily Thorne Sloane for the Sloane Hospital for Women Fund now amount to $600,000.

The gift to Barnard makes General Carpentier the largest benefactor, considering former donations aggregating $499,958, to establish the Henrietta Carpentier Fund in memory of his mother, from which three annuities are paid. Mrs. Emily O. Gibbes gave a total of $372,391. The John D. Rockefeller Endowment Fund is $250,000.

How Columbia will use Mr. Carpentier's gift was not known at the university last night, nor did the administrative authorities know of the bequest until they got the information from a TIMES reporter. It was said that the disposal of the fund would be left to the Trustees, and that a report would probably be made at the next monthly meeting of the board, unless there were special provisions for the use of the money in the will.

Other large gifts in recent years besides those already referred to include $300,000 given anonymously for the establishment of a School of Business; $100,000 from the will of J. N. Narvie in 1916, $100,000 in the same year from the estate of E. C. Bundy to be used by the College of Physicians for cancer research work. There is also the Amos F. Eno money, estimated at between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000, which is the amount of the residuary estate of Mr. Eno and for which the university has been contesting for several years. The case was tried in the Summer of 1916 and was decided against the university, but appeal was taken and the decision now rests with the Court of Appeals.

DANIELS PRAISES OFFICER'S GALLANTRY

Captain G. L. Garden of the New York Division of the Coast Guard Service received yesterday from Secretary Daniels a comunication commending First Lieutenant Jesse W. Glover for bravery in attempting to prevent the sinking of the Coast Guard steamer McCulloch after she was damaged in collision on June 13 last with the Pacific Mail steamship Governor off Conception Point, California.

The Secretary quotes this extract from the report of the Court of Inquiry convened to inquire into the sinking:

"Lieutenant Glover's voluntary efforts to save the ship deserve the highest commendation, for had he been allowed to attempt it, it would probably have meant losing his life."

Captain Carden narrated the incident yesterday. The Lieutenant with two members of the crew, the latter of German birth, did go down to the engine-room and remained there until the task was hopeless. Even then the Lieutenant asked permission of Captain J. C. Cantwell, her commander, to go down again, and it was this latter request to attempt to save the vessel to which the Navy Department findings refer.

After the collision, when the vessel was settling, the Lieutenant believed if he could get the pumps working and keep the engine room free of water he could save the vessel. He appealed to Captain Cantwell and obtained from him permission to make the attempt. While the boats were being lowered he called for two volunteers, and two members of the crew promptly came forward. They were oilers named Kleindt and Seller, and the former had served on the Kaiser's yacht.

The chief engineer got the pumps going and took other steps to keep the water out of the engine room. The pumps could not make headway against the incoming water, and the engine room began to fill. Realizing the danger, Glover ordered his assistants to go on deck and take to the boats with their companions.

They did not obey. Instead Seller stepped forward and, saluting, said: "Sir, we will go on deck when you go."

A few minutes later Captain Cantwell, seeing their task was hopeless, ordered all hands on deck. The water was then almost up to the steamer's deck, and the last boat was alongside and ready to pull off. Even then the Lieutenant wanted to go back in the hope that he might still keep his ship afloat. The Captain refused permission, and the engineer and his two assistants piled into the boat. They were hardly clear when the McCulloch went to the bottom.

Miss Gessford to Wed Lieut. Amy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Douglas Gessford of Ridgewood, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Muriel Josephine Gessford, to Lieutenant Henry J. Amy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Amy of 30 East Fifty-third Street, this city.

Miss Gessford is a graduate of the Academy of the Holy Child, at Suffern, N. Y. Lieutenant Amy was graduated from Fordham College, class of '16, and received his commission at the first officers' training camp at Plattsburg. He is now a First Lieutenant in Battery A of the 304th Field Artillery, at Camp Upton.

Capt. Jones to Show His Drawings.

The drawings are in the main of early English costumes, from the fifteenth century to the present day. Captain Jones conducted a similar exhibit in London at the Leicester Galleries a year ago. He made the designs for the Italian masque given at His Majesty's Theatre, London, in February, 1917, under the direction of Lady Arthur Paget.

Sulgrave Dinner Put Off.

Judge Alton B. Parker, Chairman of the Sulgrave Dinner Committee, announced yesterday that the dinner, which was to have been held tonight, had been postponed because none of the speakers was able to be present. The dinner will be given at a date to be announced later.

FIFTH AVE. WORKERS TO AID RED CROSS

Association Announces Plan to Mobilize Volunteer Army of 75,000.

WILL GIVE LABOR FREE

Several hundred prominent business men at the luncheon of the Fifth Avenue Association in Delmonico's yesterday heard the announcement of a plan to mobilize 75,000 workers in their employ for Red Cross activities after working hours. The work will be entirely voluntary and will bring to the support of the American Red Cross the skill and experience of trained hands in the production of apparel and other materials needed by the soldiers at the front.

A call has already been issued, and thousands of the employes of the retail district along lower Fifth Avenue have expressed their willingness to give a few hours each day after work to the making and packing of things for the soldiers. Some of the establishments have set apart lofts, where this work can be carried on without interference from any of the other departments. It was stated at the luncheon yesterday that a number of the employers have also expressed their willingness to allow their employes to take an hour or so off during their regular labor for Red Cross work.

A. C. Ball, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Fifth Avenue Association and President of Best & Co., discussed the plan at the luncheon, and apealed for co-operation. The movement has already received the support of Henry P. Davison, Director of the American Red Cross.

Dr. Jonathan C. Day pleaded for solyidarity between all classes of the community, and the elimination of such distinctions as tended to keep various groups of the masses out of sympathy with each other. Thomas W. Churchill insisted that class distinctions had long since ceased to exist, and that Fifth Avenue was and has been for a long time every bit as democratic as Avenue A.

"Whatever class distinctions remain," said Mr. Churchill, "is being completely wiped out by the war. There is no such thing any more and we might as well recognize that fact. The war has been a great leveler. It has brought everyone upon a common level, fighting in a common cause. We must be fair, and we must admit that the rich have come forward as well as the poor, and that the rich have given up their sons to the flames of war as well as the poor."

Grover Whalen, secretary to Mayor Hylan, read a letter to the association in which the Mayor praised the work of the organization and asked for its advice and co-operation in the administration of municipal affairs.

"I shall welcome your suggestions from time to time," the letter stated, "and shall call upon you to help the Administration in its efforts to develop and protect this great city of ours. May I say in conclusion that I especially appreciate the offers that you have already made to the Administration to give the services of yourselves and of members of your executive staff to help in any special movement we may have in hand for the good of the city."

22 Million Families in the United States

IF EACH FAMILY saved one cup of wheat flour it would amount to 5,500,000 pounds, or more than 28,000 barrels. If this saving was made three times a week, it would amount to 858,000,000 pounds, or 4,377,000 barrels in a year.

You can do your share in effecting this saving and really help to win the war by omitting white bread from one meal today and baking in its place muffins or corn bread made according to this recipe:

Corn Meal Muffins

4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons sugar
No eggs
2 tablespoons shortening

Sift dry ingredients together into bowl; add milk and melted shortening and beat well. Bake in greased muffin tins in hot oven about 20 minutes. Same batter may be baked as corn bread in greased shallow pan.

CROOKS.—At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Fidelity Trust Company held Feb. 20, 1918, the following minute was unanimously adopted:

The Board of Directors of the Fidelity Trust Company desires to place on its records its sincere appreciation of the life and services of their fellow-member, Samuel Crooks, who passed away on Jan. 15, 1918.

Samuel Crooks was born in the north of Ireland, coming to this country as a young man. He early found employment in a prominent wholesale grocery house in New York, and by diligent attention to business and by habits of thrift soon gained a secure foothold in the business world. He was well known among the business men of the lower west side of the city, having established the firm of Samuel Crooks & Co., wholesale dealers in teas, coffees, spices, &c., the name of which was later changed to Crooks, Thomas & Co. Mr. Crooks retired from business several years ago, and devoted his time and attention to his own private affairs. He was one of the incorporators of the Fidelity Trust Company, which was established in 1907, and continued as one of its Directors up to the time of his decease. While holding firmly to his convictions, he was a very modest man and never forced his opinions upon others, always showing them the utmost kindness and consideration. He was beloved by his friends and highly respected by all who knew him. We shall greatly miss his wise counsel and his engaging personality.

To his widow, Mrs. Eleanor L. Crooks, and his young son, Samuel Hugh Crooks, we extend the assurance of our most profound sympathy for them in their bereavement, and direct that an engrossed copy of this minute be forwarded to them to remind them whenever they shall read it how deep was the affection that bound Mr. Crooks to his business associates and friends in this board.

KINGS AND QUEENS OF DOGLAND FALL

GOODLY SHOW OF TERRIERS

Tiny Maltese Transcontinental Travelers Arouse Interest Among Crowd in Attendance.

The petted aristocrats of the dog world—1,636 strong—were benched at the forty-second annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club at Madison Square Garden yesterday, and throughout the week will compete for blue ribbons and prizes in the praiseworthy cause of the American Red Cross. Dog fanciers from every part of the country have rallied to aid the show, and it is believed that a large amount will be realized for the war charity. In addition to ribbons and trophies, there will be cash prizes amounting to more than $22,000, and, as was the case at the National Horse Show, part of this will also be given to the Red Cross by the winners.

On account of the unsettled transportation conditions many of the dogs encountered rough going on their way to the show, and perhaps this is the reason why the temper of many of the pets was not as smooth as usual. The show, with its continual din of assorted barks, sounds like the nosiest one ever held. Every breed in the long calendar of canines is on exhibition, and there are many newcomers to endanger the standing of the champions.

The American bulldog holds sway on the Twenty-seventh Street balcony, while on the balcony opposite are scores of Boston terriers. The toy dogs—and there is a gorgeous array of them—are in the concert hall. This part of the show was the centre of feminine interest yesterday, when the Pekes and Poms were in the ring, and the room buzzed like a beehive. Here the pets slumber on satin cushions within tiny houses of glass. Two of the entries belonging to Norman K. Swire of Ontario met a tragic fate when they were smothered among the trunks and boxes of a baggage car.

Awards Cause Surprise.

There were an unusual number of surprises in the decisions of the judges and the dog owners were grouped about in little gatherings, airing their opinions all afternoon. One of the surprises was the defeat of Col. Jacob Ruppert's St. Bernard, Oh Boy, by Miss Caroline B. Trask's Champion Cragwood Ben Barry. Another unlooked for result was the unplacing of William Zeigler, Jr.'s noted pointer, Mary Montrose. The awarding of the blue to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Thompson's Yorkshire terrier, Champion Gatensby St. Wilfred's King, over Mrs. Anna Radcliffe's Tena, was a reversal of a recent award for the same entries. The judge of the St. Bernards and pointers was James Cole of Kansas City.

Although Colonel Ruppert's St. Bernards carried off the honors in all except one of the dog classes which were judged, he was noticeably disappointed when Oh Boy was defeated in the open class by Ben Barry. This same Ben Barry was brought from California last year by Miss Trask and was last among the St. Bernards a year ago. The dog was not sent back to the coast, but was taken by Alf Delmont to his kennel at Winniewood, Penn., where he groomed the entry especially for this show. The dog won a championship on the Pacific Coast before being defeated here last year, and since that time has won many ribbons in shows at Toronto, Montreal, Mineola, and other places. At the Toronto show Cragwood Ben Barry was judged the best of all breeds. Mr. Cole stated that he considered Ben Barry the finest St. Bernard he had ever seen, although many about the ring did not agree with him. The dog is white and tan and of good type.

Mary Montrose Placed Fourth.

When Mary Montrose came into the ring with the other pointers, it was taken for granted by the knowing ones about the rail that she would carry away the blue ribbon. But Mr. Cole favored another of Mr. Zeigler's pointers, Great Island Ringing Bells, for first prize among the American breds, with T. J. Donahue's Shannondale Bella Donna second, W. T. Payne's Midkiff Zuka third, while Mary Montrose was fourth. This class furnished the greatest surprise of the day.

Mr. Zeigler's pointers and field trial dogs are among the best exhibits of the show. These dogs have, during the last year or more, competed in field trials in Manitoba, North Dakota, Oklahoma, and in the South, and have finished in first place in seventeen events. These dogs also won the Derby championship in Oklahoma, and among this pack Mary Montrose was rated as a perfect type of the species.

The show has a large exhibit of wire-haired fox terriers, Mrs. Roy A. Rainey showing her wonderful kennel, which includes the best dog of last year's show, Champion Conejo Wycollar, and also the 1916 winner, Champion Matford Vic. Lieutenant Harvey S. Ladew also has a large entry in this class. This breed is again a favorite for the highest honors of the show, although the competition this year, judging from the many reversals thus far, is sure to develop other surprises.

Afon Squib Is Best of Poms.

Among the daintiest of all the toy benchings are the Maltese terriers shown by the Melita Kennels, owned by Mrs. Anna R. Judd of Seattle, Wash. One of Mrs. Judd's Maltese, Melita Snow Dream attracted much attention yesterday, and the owner was offered $1,000 for the pet, but refused it. This class will be judged today. Snow Dream was the best toy puppy at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. Mrs. Judd brought five Maltese puppies across the continent with her, and the dogs required constant attention to prevent them from freezing to death while journeying through North Dakota with the temperature 30 below zero. These Maltese have satin coats and pencilled eyes, and one of the puppies weighs just twenty ounces.

Among the Pomeranians, Charles G. Hopton, the Judge, made some reversals of the placings of Captain A. M. Hall at the recent show of the Pomeranian Club. Winners' dogs was won by Mrs. Olin Finney's sable Afon Squib. The special for the best Pomeranian in the show went to Afon Squib, Mr. Hopton judging it superior to the other entries in size and type lighter in bone, and more fox-like in face.

The Yankibourne Kennels, owned by Elbridge Gerry Snow, Jr., swept everything in the Pekingese classes, Phantom of Ashcroft winning the ribbon among winners' dogs. In all, he won thirty ribbons, among them being nine blues and eight specials.

WHITE BEATS RICE IN UPHILL BATTLE

Charles E. White	2	0	30	6 14-31
Julian Rice	2	1	30	6 20-30
George T. Moon, Jr.	1	0	26	4 32-42
David Weiner	1	2	30	7 11-27
C. P. Mathews	0	3	30	5 13-27

Charles E. White of Brooklyn, holder of the national Class B amateur billiard championship, almost crossed the border into the land of defeat yesterday in the championship tournament, at the New York Athletic Club, when he was opposed by Julian Rice. For fully three-quarters of the contest the veteran trailed far behind his younger rival and it was only because the latter broke under the strain that White was enabled to come through to victory by a score of 200 to 182.

Once again averages were low and high runs were scarce, but the contest was watched closely by a large gallery, which was doubtless as much surprised to see Rice forge ahead in the early part of the game as it was astonished to witness his eclipse when the match was within his grasp. White is an able player, a wonderful shot maker, even though he does not conform in play to the usual standard of balkline billiards. Yesterday, however, it appeared for a time as if his ability as a point getter was deserting him.

Rice was slow in his shooting, scanning the table and the balls carefully before negotiating some of his carroms. At one time he hesitated several minutes before making a shot. Here and there he gave glimpses of proficient balkline work, but they were fleeting and many promising positions were shattered woefully. The same was true, however, of White, who, time and again, cast opportunity aside by breaking up a close position. He seemed to take delight in playing the open table game, even though it was not bringing to him its usual fruits.

White's string of ciphers counted heavily against him, and Rice took a big lead in the struggle by the misses of his opponent. In the eighteenth inning Rice was leading at 73 to 47. Three innings later Rice brought together a cluster of 31, which placed his star pronouncedly in the ascendant. At that point he had outplayed his rival by nearly two to one.

Nervousness was, however, beginning to manifest itself to the detriment of Rice's game, and White, cool and collected, started out to overhaul his opponent. In the thirty-first inning Rice had 164 and White 111. From then to the close Rice never counted in double figures, in fact, 4 was his highest run for the last fourteen innings of the match. White romped along with a number of sizable clusters and snatched the victory. White's average was 4 16-46, while that for Rice was 4 2-45.

The evening game in which David Weiner defeated Charles P. Mathews by 200 to 148 was, from the purely technical billiard point of view, one of the best matches that the tournament has brought forth. Weiner showed rare skill in his manipulation of the ivories and compiled several interesting runs. His counting was steady, and although Mathews was in better stroke than in any of his previous games he could not match the superior play of Weiner, who made the highest average of the tournament, 7 11-27.

ICE YACHTS SEEK HAVENS.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Feb. 20.—Last night's warm rain and southwest wind cut away so much ice that the second championship ice yacht race, scheduled for this afternoon, and the carnival set for Washington's Birthday were called off, the racing season coming to an abrupt ending.

The ice gave away so rapidly that the yachtsmen were forced to hustle some in getting their boats to land. One runner of the champion Ingenue had broken through, and the Tyro had partly sunk, and it was with difficulty that these yachts were pulled to safety.

The Ingenue, which gave the Imp such a decisive beating yesterday, has won the State pennant and also the North Shrewsbury Club daily pennant. This has been one of the most successful seasons in the history of yacht racing on the North Shrewsbury, and plans are already under way for an even bigger season next year.

REINER SKATES TO VICTORY.

St. Nicholas Racer Defeats Beebe in Mile Event at Newark.

A spirited sprint on the last lap gave Irving Reiner of the St. Nicholas Rink a victory in a special one-mile skating race at the Newark Ice Skating Palace, Newark, N. J., last night. The St. Nick skater covered the distance in 3:33, and at the finish had a convincing margin separating him from Warren Beebe of Long Branch. H. Wooley, another Long Branch skater, was third.

William Taylor, the New York A. C. crack skater, was among the starters, but after setting a stiff pace for fourteen laps, fell on the ice and lost so much distance that he had to be content with fourth honors. The race was decided on a twenty-lap track.

YALE TEAM WINS IN TANK.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 20.—Captain Mayer of the Yale swimming team tonight twice defeated his old rival, Mike Prendergast of Brown University, aside from the team relay event, in which the Elis captured the race with Mayer and Prendergast as the respective anchors. Mayer was forced to a mark of 25 1-5 seconds to win the fifty-yard swim, tieing the intercollegiate record, and to the excellent time of 50 4-5 seconds in nosing out victory in the 100-yard bout.

The summaries:

50-Yard Swim.—Won by Mayer, (Yale;) second, Prendergast, (Brown;) third, Peters, (Brown.) Time—0:25 1-5, tieing intercollegiate record.

COLUMBIA FOILSMEN WIN.

With three victories to his credit, H. W. Forster, captain of the Columbia University fencing team, led the Blue and White foilsmen in a triumph over the fencers of the New York Turn Verein last night. The competition was decided in the New York Turn Verein gymnasium. The collegians displayed far better skill with the foils and won the event by a score of 7 to 2.

Captain Forster scored his greatest triumph when he defeated A. Strauss, a veteran of the Turn Verein team, by 5 to 4. In addition the Columbia University leader triumphed over Kern and Meyer of the Turn Verein.

The only victories by the Turn Verein foilsmen were scored by Strauss, who defeated Horcasitas and Bloomer of the Blue and White, both by the margin of 5 to 2.

Miss Adelaide Gehrig, runner-up for the women's championship last year, and Mrs. Lule Zanker gave an exhibition with the foils, in which both displayed rare skill.

Columbia was represented by M. J. Bloomer, Jr.; J. Horcasitas, and H. W. Forster. The New York Turn Verein team was composed of B. Kern, A. Meyer, and A. Strauss.

The summaries:

Forster defeated Strauss, 5 points to 4; Kern, 5 to 2, and Meyer, 5 to 1.

Bloomer defeated Kern, 5 points to 1, and Meyer, 5 to 2.

CRESCENTS BEAT SOLDIERS.

Defeat All-Star Army Five by a Score of 33 to 26.

The Crescent Athletic Club basket ball team added another victory to its string last night by trouncing an all-star army team in the New Moon gymnasium by the score of 33 to 26. The contest was closely played throughout, but the superior teamwork, clever passing, and accurate shooting of the wearers of the New Moon gave them the victory.

In the first half both teams played a close guarding game, but the Crescents led in the scoring by 10 to 9. The play in the second half was more open, and in this department the New Mooners also excelled, Nicklas and Butler proved the stars of the victorious team, accounting between them for twenty-three of the Crescent points.

The lineup:

Crescent, (33.)	Position.	Army, (26.)
Nicklas	R. F.	Mueller
Heath	L. F.	Seaman
Ashmead	C.	Fiedler

Leads by a Point in First Half, but Loses to St. Peter's Prep, 25 to 17.

Xavier High School's basket ball team went down in defeat yesterday at the hands of the St. Peter's Prep quintet of Jersey City in an interesting game on the Xavier court by the score of 25 to 17. The Xavier representatives, after gaining a lead of one point in the first half, wavered in the second half of the contest and were unable to combat the offensive of the Jersey City five.

The lineup:

St. Peter's, (25.)	Position.	Xavier, (17.)

EASY FOR QUAKER QUINTET.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Feb. 20.—Penn had an easy time defeating the Lafayette basketball five tonight, by the score 30 to 24. The contest was slow and uninteresting, neither side exerting itself appreciably. Penn kept the ball in the hands of her men for minutes at a time, and that the score was no larger was due to lack of effort on the part of the Red and Blue tossers.

The lineup:

Penn, (30.)	Position.	Lafayette, (24.)
Sweeney	R. F.	Anderson
Stannard	L. F.	Keating
Davis	C.	Miller
Martin	R. G.	Robbe

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Feb. 20.—Depauw lost its fifth athletic captain of the year with the departure of John P. Wheat, Jr., captain-elect of the 1918 football squad. The other four each entered some branch of military service. Wheat has enlisted in the Officers' Reserve Aviation Corps.

NEW YORK'S RALLY COMES TOO LATE

A spectacular rally in the second period just failed to turn the tide of battle favorably for the New York hockey team last night in the third game of the interborough hockey series at the Ice Palace in Brooklyn, and the result was that the All-Manhattan sextet was downed by its All-Brooklyn rivals by the close margin of 5 goals to 4. This setback makes the third defeat the Manhattanites have suffered in as many games in the series, which has three games to run before completion.

The contest last night furnished plenty of thrilling hockey playing and gave the New York contingent an opportunity to show a decided improvement in form as compared to the playing the team has displayed in its two previous conflicts with the Brooklyn aggregation. However, the Brooklynites showed a corresponding improvement in play and were, therefore, enabled to tuck away their third consecutive triumph over the team representing this end of the bridge.

In the opening period the Manhattan representatives were outclassed completely. They showed plenty of fight, but were unable to overcome the superior passing and consistent teamwork of the Brooklynites. The teams struggled along for more than five minutes without either being able to score, and then White, the Manhattan point, shot the puck into the Brooklyn net on a clean drive for the first goal of the game. This proved to be the only tally registered for the Manhattanites for the period, and thereafter the Brooklyn sextet, playing a fast and accurate game, kept the puck pretty constantly in Manhattan territory.

Following White's initial score after forty-five minutes and fifteen seconds of play, Kennedy, the Brooklyn point, on a pass from Fyfe, sent the puck flying into the Manhattan net, evening the count. Thereafter the Brooklynites piled up what looked like a commanding lead, for Fyfe followed with two goals and O'Rourke scored another on a pretty swoop of the rubber from behind the Manhattan net, making the count at the bell 4 to 1 in favor of Brooklyn.

The Manhattan team showed plenty of aggressive power in the second period, but their efforts were unavailing as far as victory was concerned. O'Keefe started the period by scoring another goal for Brooklyn, giving that team a 5 to 1 advantage, but Castleman with two goals and White with one cut down this margin appreciably. The Manhattanites, within striking distance of their rivals, were interrupted in their sturdy offensive tactics by the bell, which found Brooklyn the winner by 5 to 4. The lineup and summary:

Laing	G.	Collins
Kennedy	P.	White
Shirreff	C. P.	Britton
Hall	C.	Castleman
Fyfe	L. W.	Gelatly
O'Rourke	R. W.	Lieut. O'Keefe

Goals.—First period: White alone in 5:15; Kennedy on a pass from Fyfe in 8:10; Fyfe on a pass from O'Rourke in 10:01; Fyfe on a return pass from Hall in 12:14; O'Rourke scoop from behind the net in 17:20. Second period: O'Keefe on a wing shot in 5:05; O'Rourke on a side shot in 9:35; Castleman on a pass from O'Keefe in 10:20; Castleman on a rebound of White's shot in 12:40. Substitutions.—For Brooklyn, F. Farah for Fyfe, Botting for F. Farah. For Manhattan, Von Bernuth for Britton, Britton for Gelatly. Referee—P. J. Stewart, Hockey Club. Goal umpires—Ted Britton and Byrne Farah, Hockey Club. Timer—E. Kelly, Hockey Club. Time of periods—Twenty minutes.

CUTLER FORGES TO FORE.

An improvement in play in the second half of the game gave the Cutler School basket ball quintet a victory over the Berkeley-Irving five in a closely contested game yesterday on the Cutler court, 25 to 24. In the first half the victorious quintet trailed in the score and at the whistle was outpointed two points to one, the tally favoring Berkeley-Irving at 14 to 7. The Cutler aggregation, however, played a far superior game in the second half and managed to earn the honors of the game by one point. Haebler did the best work for the victors, accounting for seventeen points.

The lineup:

Cutler, (25.)	Position.	Berkeley-I., (24.)
Brawner	R. F.	Byrne
Nathan	L. F.	Fish
Haebler	C.	Hoeck
Fox	R. G.	Riley
Lamme	L. G.	McManus

Field goals—Brawner, (3,) Nathan, Haebler, (7,) Byrne, (3,) Fish, (3,) Hoeck, (3,) Riley. Foul goals—Haebler, (3.) Referee—Ed Thorp, De La Salle Institute. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

LAWRENCEVILLE, N. J., Feb. 20.—Lawrenceville lost to Peddie here today, 26 to 25, in the game that decided the New Jersey State scholastic championship. For Peddie the stars were Brower and Wilson. Captain Bowen, Walters, and Weiser played well for Lawrenceville.

WEST POINT FIVE YIELDS TO GARNET

Army Passers Lose to Swarthmore by 35 to 27 After Two Weeks' Absence from Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 20.—After a suspension of all activities during the last fortnight, owing to an epidemic of measles, the Army five got back on the basket ball court this afternoon only to lose to Swarthmore by a score of 35 to 27. It was the second defeat of the season for the soldiers, and Swarthmore deserved to win after its sturdy uphill battle. At half time the cadets had a comfortable lead, 19 to 14.

Then spectacular shooting by Yoder, who developed a deadly accuracy for the basket in the final period, was the soldiers' undoing. Donnelly also contributed several field goals from far down the court. Vidal was best for the Army. The cadets will play Union here on Friday and West Virginia on Saturday.

The lineup:

Army, (35.)	Position.	Swarthmore, (27.)
Hahn	R. F.	Yoder
Gorman	L. F.	Place
Vidal	C.	Stowe
Keyser	R. G.	Larkin
Kreber	L. G.	Donnelly

Substitutions—Carter for Hahn, Shrader for Gorman, Wells for Kreber. Referee—Mr. Koch, Yonkers A. C. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

OVERTON ALREADY ABROAD.

Lieutenant Johnny Overton will not compete in the army-navy mile race at the third set of preparedness games of the Metropolitan Association at the 47th Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, Saturday night. He was invited to meet Willie Gordon, Sid Leslie, and Lieutenant William Anderson in a mile race, and in reply word was received yesterday at A. A. U. headquarters that Overton is now "Somewhere in France." It had been expected, too, that he would be seen competing against Joie Ray in the Meadowbrook games, National Indoor Championships, and the John Wanamaker Commercial Institute games, all of which take place during the month of March.

BOND FINANCING REFLECTED IN BANKS

GREATER IN MOST STATES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The condition of the national banks Dec. 31, the date of the last bank call, showed a reduction in deposits and resources as compared with reports of condition Nov. 20, the date of the preceding call. These figures, however, are subject to the statement that outside of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which were largely affected by the Liberty Bond settlement, there was actually a larger volume of deposits by over $6,000,000 than was ever shown.

"The deposits of the national banks of the United States, at the time of the call of Nov. 20, 1917, had reached the highest figures ever shown—and were at that time $1,564,079,000 more than at the preceding call of Sept. 11, 1917. This increase was to a considerable extent accounted for by deposits received in connection with settlements for the second Liberty Loan, and it was thought that when the deposits which the Government had made with national banks at that time should be withdrawn to meet the Treasury requirements there might be a large reduction in deposits.

"The reports of the national banks, however, just compiled show that on Dec. 31, 1917, the deposits of the national banks throughout the country were even greater than at the time of the November 20, 1917, call, if we should eliminate the reductions in deposits shown by national banks in New York, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania.

"The aggregate of deposits in all national banks on Dec. 31, 1917, was $14,445,689,000. This was $352,647,000 less than the total of all deposits on Nov. 20, 1917; but, as the reduction in national bank deposits for the States of New York, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania amounted to $359,042,000, we find that the deposits of the national banks of the United States on Dec. 31, 1917, exclusive of these three States, exceeded by $6,395,000 the greatest deposits ever previously shown, and the increase in the deposits of all the national banks of the United States Dec. 31, 1917, as compared with Dec. 27, 1916, was $2,178,843,000.

"The resources of the national banks on Dec. 31, 1917, amounted to $18,073,308,000, a reduction as compared with Nov. 20, 1917, of $479,889,000, of which reduction $215,000,000 were in the national banks of New York City, $65,000,000 in the national banks of Boston, $28,000,000 in the country banks of Massachusetts, and $55,000,000 in the country banks of New York State.

"Of the reserve cities and central reserve cities outside of New York and Boston, about half showed increases in national bank resources between Nov. 20 and Dec. 31, 1917. The largest increase was reported by Chicago, of $13,149,000, and the next largest by Baltimore, $11,694,000, followed by Cleveland, which increased $9,348,000. The largest reduction shown in resources exclusive of New York and Boston was reported by Philadelphia, $20,006,000, and the next largest reduction by San Francisco, $14,904,000.

"Among the country banks outside of New York, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania the increases or decreases were not great. The State showing the largest increase in resources of country banks was Iowa with $6,367,000. The State whose country banks showed the largest reduction next to New York, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania, was Illinois, where the reduction was $14,329,000.

"The loans and discounts of all the national banks in the United States on Dec. 31, 1917, were reported at $9,390,836,000, a reduction as compared with Nov. 20, 1917, of $144,091,000, and an increase as compared with Dec. 27, 1916, of $1,050,210,000. The proportion of loans to deposits was Dec. 31, 1917, 65 per cent.; previous year, 68 per cent.

"The amount of United States bonds, including Liberty bonds and certificates of indebtedness, held Dec. 31, 1917, was $1,624,529,000, a decrease as compared with Nov. 20, 1917, of $729,654,000, and an increase as compared with Dec. 27, 1916, of $907,569,000. This latter increase is principally in certificates of indebtedness and Liberty bonds—the total holdings of Liberty bonds of both issues Dec. 31, 1917, being $609,626,000, or a little more than 3 per cent. of the total resources of the national banks.

Drug Inquiries Improve.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that increased inquiries are reported in the trade, but that sales are restricted by the shortage of supplies of crude materials, as well as of the finished products. Price advances occurred in American refined and Japanese camphor. Botanical drugs are higher. Seeds and herbs are unsettled, and prospects of replenishing stocks to meet Spring and Summer requirements are not favorable. Spices used in the manufacture of drugs and chemicals are scarcer than at any other time in sixty years. Among the declines were phenolphthalein and acetphenetidin.

Gray Goods Demand Was Active.

Largely due to the efforts of converters to cover their needs for the coming months, trading was active in the local gray goods market yesterday and prices were moved up again on several constructions. Additional sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were reported at 13½ cents for shipment through the Summer months, while 13⅛ cents was paid for late Spring lots of 64-56s in the same width. Further business on 39-inch 68-72s was done at 15¼ cents, with some houses holding at 15½ for spots and nearbys. For 38½-inch 60-52s and 60-48s, for nearby delivery, 12½ and 12¼ cents were reported paid, respectively. In the coarse goods, July-August business was done at 17 cents on 48-square, four-yard sheetings, with four-yard 56-60s held in some quarters at 17½ cents for similar shipment. Nearby deliveries of that construction were generally held at this figure, but it was said that some Summer goods might still be got out at 17¼ cents. Fifteen cents was asked for 4.70 sheetings, and 12¾ cents for 5.50 goods. Printcloths closed this way:

39-inch, 68-72s	15¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	12½c
39-inch, 56-44s	11¾c	38½-inch, 60-48s	12¼c

Shirting Prices Rise Sharply.

Average advances of 75 to 80 per cent. over prices named a year ago for the Spring, 1918, season were shown by quotations made yesterday by Amory, Browne & Co. of this city on white, printed, and colored-yarn madras shirtings for the Spring season of 1919. The production for the new season will be allotted to regular customers on the basis of 80 per cent. of the quantities used for Spring, 1918, in the case of colored-yarn madrases, and 50 per cent. in the case of printed goods.

Notice Is Asked For.

An effort is being made by the Millinery Chamber of Commerce of the United States to have the express companies post notices, or notify the trade in some way, as to whether or not shipments can be accepted. At present it is necessary for shippers to load up their trucks and send them to the various freight receiving terminals without knowing whether or not the express companies are in a position to accept any further goods. "In many cases milliners are forced to send their shipments to the express companies several times," said Frederick C. Bode, President of the Millinery Chamber of Commerce, "before the goods are finally accepted. This is a wasteful and expensive procedure. If the express companies could make it possible in some way for us to find out before we send our merchandise to them whether or not it will be received, it would be a great benefit all around."

Bright Millinery Wanted.

Contrary to the expectations of many in the millinery trade, there is said to have developed a sudden call for the brighter colors and combinations of colors which some are finding it difficult to meet. Small smart shapes of straw, split straw, and horsehair in light colors, each trimmed with an assortment of field flowers, grapes, and berries in bright but harmonizing shades, are said to be widely sought. Autumn leaves and berries, in shades to match, on small brown shapes of straw, are also well liked. Where large hats are wanted, the wide poke brim with high crown is preferred. Many of these hats are transparent, being made of embroidered horsehair or imitation horsehair. Ostrich feathers, either natural or burnt and glycerined, are used extensively for trimming. In the large hats, as in the small, bright colors predominate.

Spring Trade in Felt Hats.

Though the Spring trade in felt hats for men is always small, due to the shortness of the season, it is said that business this year compares very favorably with past seasons. Modified styles and more or less subdued colors are the most generally sought, and in styles the extremes are rather neglected for the less conspicuous shapes. Manufacturers, however, are more concerned just now with the question of the supply of raw materials for the Fall trade than they are with getting further business for Spring. They have been able to get through this year on their reserve stocks, but what they are going to do next Fall when they no longer have any reserves to draw on is a question to which no one in the trade seems able to give a satisfactory answer.

Are Using Parcel Post Now.

One of the best-posted men in the city on matters pertaining to the women's garment trade said yesterday that, because of the delay in express shipments, manufacturers of these goods are patronizing the parcel post to an unprecedented extent. A full week has been required more than once of late, for instance, he said, for delivery of express shipments from this city to Philadelphia. He also told of cases in which goods wanted for holiday selling, and shipped by express to a retailer in another Pennsylvania city, were not received until weeks after the Christmas season was over. Another thing that has led to increased parcel post shipments, he asserted, was the frequent cutting out by the express companies of the "picking up" trips of the wagons.

Popular Price Show Now Held.

Up to last night more than 600 buyers had registered at the popular price merchandise show that is being held in the Grand Central Palace here this week. Over 700 lines of goods, ranging in price from 5 cents up, are included in the exhibition. They extend all the way from basketry and other novelties made by the blind to artificial flowers, and from hairpins to baling presses. Practically every kind of merchandise sold by the average department store is represented in the offerings. This is the third exhibition of its kind given here and, like the others, it is under the management of Charles D. Bailey.

***

Shipping Delays Cause Expense.

Illustrating the extent of the freight congestion, the representative of a prominent Baltimore jobbing house who was recently in town said that his firm had been forced to take three large warehouses in which to store goods which were ready for shipment but for which space could not be obtained. The express companies, he said, were literally swamped with business and, with the labor scarcity they had found it utterly impossible to handle it all. In addition to this, these companies frequently had to release cars for the Government which they had planned using. It is said that shipments to Southern points are the most delayed.

Says Fewer Returns Are Made.

Apropos of the reported movement among jobbers of women's garments to do away with the practice of selling on open orders, which are objected to on the ground, among other things, that they are prolific sources of returned goods, it was said yesterday that there had been fewer returns of garments in the last several months than for some years, regardless of the way in which they were sold. The trade authority who made this assertion, however, did not attribute the decline in returns to improved ethics on the part of the retailers. In his opinion, it is largely due to the smaller stocks now being carried by many merchants as a result of the difficulty in getting deliveries.

PAY NITRATE DUTY BY DRAFT

The Chilean Government has adopted a plan whereby part of the export duties on nitrate of soda shipped to the United States may be paid in approved ninety-day sight drafts drawn on New York in American dollars. Formerly such duties were paid only in gold or in bills drawn on London. In foreign exchange circles the adoption of the new departure from the former method of meeting customs duties in Chile is expected to bring about the firm establishment of dollar exchange in Chile and to contribute much to the stabilization of exchange rates between the United States and the southern country.

The plan for dollar exchange in Chile was submitted first to the Pan American Financial Conference in Washington in May, 1915, by Leopold Fredrick, a Director of the American Smelting and Refining Company. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Paul M. Warburg, Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, took up the matter with the Chilean Government on their trip to South America two years ago.

Dollar exchange was introduced into Chile three years ago for the financing of business transactions between corporations in that country and the United States. Mr. Fredrick said yesterday that the American Smelting, Braden, and Chile Copper Companies have sold in the southern country about $50,000,000 drafts on New York.

TELEPHONE EARNINGS JUMP

The New York Telephone Company scored a notable increase of gross earnings in 1917 over those of 1916, but increased operating and maintenance costs worked to reduce the year's profit. The total revenue, according to the income account issued yesterday, was $62,961,005, a gain of $5,955,441. Operating expenses of $19,402,079 were about $2,400,000 larger than the year before and upkeep was $1,470,000 higher, with a total of $17,319,344. Taxes also advanced to the extent of $2,000,000, and the net income before paying interest was $20,302,327, a decline of $804,027. Out of the balance of $16,311,400 dividends totaling $10,000,000 were paid. Combining the telephone company's result with the earnings of associated concerns, the aggregate gross revenue was $98,367,818, a gain of $6,547,000. The total net amounted to $21,300,168, a decline of $2,504,338, and the year's surplus of $6,035,447 was $2,688,448 less than in the preceding year.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Feb. 20.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Higher prices on South American wools are quoted as a result of the drive on this much-needed goods. The demand has continued for the last week, with a tendency toward even more activity. Transportation on both land and water is problematical and interferes with the wool market to a certain extent.

"Greater progress has been made towards selling up the available supply of woolen goods. Regulation is more probable today than it has been. The market is more dangerous than at any time since the war started, but the shortage is such that buyers feel absolutely confident as to values, even though regulations may be made.

"The strength in the cotton goods market continues and buyers only are prevented from ordering larger quantities of goods by the unwillingness of sellers to accept greater orders. An acute shortage is shown in the quotations, and the distant months are advancing more rapidly or holding better than the nearby months."

BUSINESS NOTES.

The American Gem and Pearl Company, which for the last eighteen years has been located at 14 Church Street, will, on May 1, take new and larger quarters at 6 West Forty-eighth Street. They will be the first lapidaries to locate in the upper Fifth Avenue business district.

Hillman & Israel, knit goods selling agents, 200 Fifth Avenue, have taken over the Premier Knitting Mills of Brooklyn, makers of high-grade zephyr wool coats for women. Heretofore their products have been confined to the jobbing trade, but in the future they will also be sold to retailers able to buy in case lots. Hillman & Israel are now selling the entire production of seven mills in this way.

These delegates to the Millinery Chamber of Commerce of the United States have been appointed by the Retail Millinery Association of America: Harry S. Bernhard, New York; S. G. Kerngood, Pittsburgh; Charles Mashek, Cleveland; W. E. Skillings, Boston; Le Roy La Vake, Newark; K. FINANCIAL MARKETS List Reactionary and Less Active—Improvement in Steel Trade.

Stocks opened off all around the room yesterday morning, strengthened somewhat, and again gave way before a fresh outburst of selling in the last few minutes of the session. The result was a confusing market, with irregular price changes. For the most part the list yielded some of the gains of preceding sessions, but a few industrials moved against the trend on small transactions, and scored advances running from 3 to 16 points. On the whole the market was weak.

The Russian picture did not change materially overnight, but with the decline yesterday morning traders began to express apprehension over the possibilities of advantages which might accrue to the Germans through the surrender of whatever remained of Russia's military resources. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if investors are taking developments at Petrograd seriously as factors in the market. It is not generally believed that the Teuton armies can get any large quantity of supplies out of Russia in time to relieve their pressing necessities, and so many elements are working against one another among the Russian people that it does not seem probable that the eastern campaign can be considered ended and the soldiers transferred to the western front.

Marked improvement in the steel trade was reported by The Iron Age in its weekly review yesterday. It is expected that by the end of this week plants will again be operating at 80 per cent. of their capacity. Steel men are not a little worried over the approaching decision in the matter of Government prices, soon to come up for reconsideration. It is pointed out that since the inauguration of controlled prices the impression has been allowed to remain that any revision would be downward, and the earnings statements of the last year are expected to be offered as evidence of the need of such a revision. Some departments in the trade assert that new difficulties attendant upon the fuel shortage and labor scarcity had made necessary an increase over the price now being paid.

Call money remains at 6 per cent., although small sums were put out yesterday at 5½ per cent. There is almost no time money being offered, with the result that brokers are financing themselves to a much smaller extent than usual with time funds and are more dependent upon day to day loans.

LONDON TRADING STAGNANT

Short-Term Securities Are the Most Attractive Issue.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Business was almost stagnant on the Stock Exchange today in the absence of stimulating influences. Short-term securities were the most attractive issues in the gilt-edged section, while bank shares and a few industrial and shipping stocks hardened slightly. The tendency in other directions was easy, owing to lack of support.

Money was plentiful and discount rates were steady.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 57 francs 50 centimes for cash; exchange on London, 27 francs 17½ centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 87 francs 75 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money Continues Firm.

The money market continues firm, the ruling rate for call loans being 6 per cent., although some transactions are put through at ¼ or ⅛ below that figure. In case of time loans 6 per cent. is bid, and there are no offerings. The operations of the so-called Money Committee have been successful in preventing call money rates from going above 6 per cent., but beyond that it has not been possible to give any further relief. All the money put out by the committee has been on call and none on time. Stockbrokers who usually carry from 30 to 50 per cent. of their loans in time loans now have only from 15 to 20 per cent. of their indebtedness in time loans, the balance being on call. In the event that present conditions continue the relative proportion of time to call loans will see a still further decline in the former and a corresponding increase in the latter. With the demand of the Government for funds being heavy and the prospects of the flotation of another Liberty Loan, banks are not inclined to make long-term commitments, although they are willing to lend funds which are callable at any moment.

Purchase of Certificates Advised.

Bankers are strongly advising their clients to prepare for the payment of Federal income and excess profits taxes by making investments in United States certificates of indebtedness, bearing interest at 4 per cent., which are acceptable in lieu of cash by internal revenue collectors. One banker called attention yesterday to the fact that corporations and individuals who fail to make provision for the tax payments may find that it will be difficult for them to borrow money from the banks when tax day arrives. The June tax payments will be heavy, and no doubt a great many persons and corporations will seek the assistance of banks, in which event the demands for funds might be greater than the supply, and some borrowers may not be accommodated.

Good Showings and Bad.

It all depends upon the point of view. When you take a railroad like the Lackawanna, which to the general investing public for years has been considered the very epitome of soundness and earning capacity, and discover that its net operating income declined $95,189 in a year, you might consider it bad news—not for some other roads, but even so small a relative loss was not to be expected of the Lackawanna. But in the year 1917, after studying the doleful tales of other railroads and coming to a report showing that the Lackawanna—coal carrier, moreover, par excellence—had only lost $95,189 from its 1916 showing, investors have been saying "Good old Lackawanna! She did herself proud." Even though the Lackawanna had to do a gross business amounting to $5,630,325 more than in 1916 to accomplish so much.

⁂

It was evident in yesterday's stock market that traders were nervous. The Russian news worked to depress quotations in the first hour, but buyers gained sufficient new confidence to help put a number of favorite speculative issues up to a level before noon which was higher than the preceding day's close. The tobacco issues stood forth prominently in the bullish demonstration. The dominant feature of the session, however, was the ease with which quotations slid off toward the close. The rapid selling appeared to show haste on the part of numerous traders to get their profits in hand.

Butte and Superior Earnings.

The changed complexion of the zinc industry, as compared with the last few months of 1916, was displayed yesterday in the quarterly statement of the Butte and Superior Mining Company. The total profit of $564,017 in the quarter ended Dec. 31 was $1,745,050 less than in the corresponding period of the preceding year. The value of the zinc concentrates was $1,351,796, a decline of $1,094,081. This was the largest item of earnings, and was figured on a price of 7.5 cents a pound. The lead concentrates were valued at $204,596, a decline of $191,682. The full year's profit amounted to $2,723,594, equal to $9.38 cents a share, a figure which was less than one-third as large as the net income in 1916.

Smelters' Mexican Properties.

Engineers of the American Smelting and Refining Company yesterday entered Mexico from the Texas side on their way to inspect the property in Chihuahua. The company expects to learn from them how conditions are in respect to labor, and political conditions, with the purpose of reopening the mines if the situation appears favorable for continuous and profitable operation. For some months work has been going on with a small force, but the management desires to have expert opinion on conditions before attempting operations on a substantial scale.

Peace and Ocean Transport.

One "war-time" market that, it has been generally believed, was sure to carry over into peace times, and persist, indeed, for several years after peace, is the market for oceangoing freight space and the ships containing it. Indeed, there has been a general feeling that peace would actually intensify the demand for steamers, and that the famine in cargo space caused by the submarines would be one of the last scars of the war to disappear. But a man who makes his living by his ability to foretell what conditions are going to be in the steamship business, not only months but years ahead, was heard yesterday to predict that, while in the first few months after peace, when armies are being shipped home, steamers will be scarcer than ever, the first effect of the real peace readjustment will be a temporary cessation in ocean commerce and a consequent slump in shipping values. This, however, he thinks will also be temporary, and will be followed by a boom in shipping which may last several years.

Joins Trade Acceptance Council.

The National Association of Manufacturers has accepted membership in the American Trade Acceptance Council, which is composed of representatives of the American Bankers' Association, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the National Association of Credit Men. The movement to bring about a more general use of trade acceptances is making considerable headway.

DIVIDEND SHOWS BIG PROFIT

New York Air Brake Company Put on 20 Per Cent. Basis.

The New York Air Brake Company and the National Enameling and Stamping Company took action on dividends yesterday which were significant of good earnings. The former put the stock on a 20 per cent. annual basis by declaring a quarterly payment of 5 per cent., due March 22, to stockholders of record March 4. Last year the company paid regular dividends of 2½ per cent. and an extra of the same amount each quarter. The combination of the two into a fixed payment of 5 per cent. fulfilled rumors which had been heard in the financial district for several weeks.

The National Enameling mangement increased the quarterly dividend from 1 to 1½ per cent. quarterly, declaring the full 6 per cent. for the current year. The first payment will be made March 20. The year's preferred stock dividend of 7 per cent. was also declared, the first disbursement falling on March 30.

Why Not Switch?

With the Government assuming the burden of railroad financing, the advantages of a number of low-priced bonds become apparent.

Assurance of meeting financial responsibilities gives to many of these issues a degree of stability the previous lack of which is reflected in their low prices and high yield.

A new circular has been issued by our Investment Department which deals with the relative position of ten speculative investment issues on the railroad list. Sent on request.

STEEL TRADE NOW AT 80% OF CAPACITY

Considerable Improvement Is Noted Because of Better Weather Conditions.

HOPE FOR HIGHER PRICES

Industry Trusts Washington Won't Further Destroy Incentives to Maximum Production.

Steel and iron trade reports yesterday indicated considerable improvement during the week, owing to better weather conditions and the clearing up of part of the railroad congestion which had backed shipments up to the mills. Manufacturers are looking ahead toward further betterment as the Spring advances.

"By the end of the week the steel industry bids to be operating at 80 per cent. of capacity," says The Iron Age. "Improvement has not come to mills uniformly, for in Eastern Pennsylvania operations dropped last week to a 10 per cent. basis, and fuel supplies have since been little bettered. Increased activity under the limitations of inadequate motive power are expected to be only gradual. Inroads have been made on the great stocks of finished product which have blocked mill space for some time, and general domestic business now waits on how much mill capacity will exceed Government requirements.

"Echoes of the trying period will be heard for some time. One mill suffered 90 per cent. rejections of full operation on specification ship plates, owing to using a high-sulphur coal. Shipbuilding and other activities on the Pacific Coast are now feeling the effect of the holdup of rail shipments, and urgent requests are made for speeding ship material westward. Delays in getting shell-forging plants equipped and in getting steel to existing plants leave machining shops at the moment without work for full capacity. Some freight is now moving which has been waiting two months, and pig iron deliveries have reached destination after three months in transit.

"As the time draws near for a reconsideration of Government prices the trade keenly hopes that Washington will not strive further to destroy incentives to maximum production. Ever since we entered on the controlled price régime the impression has been allowed to remain that any revision would be downward, and large earning statements for 1917 give color to the idea. Mounting costs, meanwhile, and several weeks' restricted operations will make it hard to meet the capital charges of the first quarter.

"Sizable plate producers claim they must have an advance of one-half to three-quarter cents per pound. Nor is everything peaceful under the present scales. Chain makers have not as yet agreed to name the Government prices to the public.

"Calls on makers for information on plate contracts with the Japanese give rise to hope of an early adjustment looking to the securing by our Government of Japanese ships built and building. The matter means much to plate mills concerned, owing to the high prices which the Japanese were willing to pay, even to the extent of storing the material against embargo release. A late export plate order covers 1,500 tons for China, possibly for use on English-owned shipping.

"At a time when the country is straining for production, it is surprising to learn that the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company has shut down indefinitely a steelmaking mill of 8,000 tons monthly capacity at Wilmington, Del. The trade is left to make its own conjecture for the reason."

Nothing was learned at the local office of the Midvale Company in regard to the closing down of the mill. It was supposed that a lack of supplies had caused the shutdown.

The Iron Trade Review said:

"Open hearth operations in the Pittsburgh and Valley districts have been at 81 per cent. this week, against 84 per cent. last week. Poor gas coal has been a main cause of this reduction. Blast furnace operations show the greatest increase, gaining 11 per cent., to 80 per cent. of capacity. Bessemer plants were 63 per cent. active, compared with 61 per cent. the preceding week. By-product coke plants have been operated at 91 per cent. Freight congestion was the cause of an increase from 162,000 tons to 194,000 tons Feb. 1 in Southern furnace stocks of pig iron. The problem of pig iron supply presses more insistently with each passing week."

PLAN TO DOUBLE CAPITAL.

P. Lorillard Stockholders Asked to Vote on Project on March 12.

Stockholders of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company, a former member of the American Tobacco group, are scheduled to hold a special meeting on March 12 to vote on a proposal to double the authorized capital stock. The shares now outstanding number 151,536, being the full amount of the authorized capital. The Directors expect to declare out of the increase a 20 per cent. stock dividend soon after April 1 in lieu of the extra cash dividend usually declared on that date.

The extra disbursement a year ago amounted to 6 per cent. and two years ago to 5 per cent. Explaining the plan for a stock dividend, Thomas J. Maloney, President, sent a letter to share owners yesterday, saying that while 1917 had been a prosperous year the management deemed it advisable to conserve cash as working capital because of the high cost of leaf tobacco. The extra dividend will absorb one-fifth of the proposed increase in the stock. Mr. Maloney said it was not intended to offer any additional stock for subscription in the near future.

WHEAT.

The very cold weather over the West, where most of the snow covering has been removed by the mild weather, caused a good deal of apprehension lest the new Winter wheat crop should be damaged. So far, however, the crop seems to have Wintered well and The Price Current said that soil conditions and precipitation in the Winter wheat section seemed to be generally favorable almost without exception in the States aside from Kansas and Oklahoma. Advices from Washington said that some opposition had arisen in connection with the proposed advance in the price of wheat.

RYE.

CORN.

The corn market was still inactive as far as contracts were concerned, but the undertone was firm, and at the close of the day February in Chicago was quoted at the maximum price of $1.28, while March was only ⅛c lower. The pronounced strength in oats also exerted a bullish influence on values and it was quite evident that all the markets are being bullishly influenced by the proposed advance in the price of wheat to $2.50 for the next crop. In the local cash market, kiln dried No. 3 yellow was quoted at $1.88½ and No. 3 white at $2.22½, cost and freight, New York; prompt shipment subject to embargoes. Argentine corn, $2.20, free on board cars.

OATS.

Prices in the oats market continued to advance rapidly and early showed gains of over 2 cents a bushel from the previous close. This represented a perpendicular gain of 10¾@11¼c in about a week's time, and prices were at levels never before experienced. A very sharp cash demand, with evidences of a big absorbing demand, seemed to be the basis for the pronounced strength, although it was the consensus of opinion among leading operators that much of the recent advance was due to the proposed change in the minimum price of wheat for next year to $2.50, as it was argued that wheat at this price would make oats worth close to $1 per bushel. The local cash market was strong; natural quoted at $1.04@$1.06, and clipped white at $1.05@$1.07, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

Reports that the Government will shortly place very large orders for hog products had a stimulating influence on the whole provision market and brought about a sharp upturn in values. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 27,000; estimated for Thursday, 40,000. Kansas City received 15,000 and Omaha 10,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

The market for coffee futures was quiet yesterday and fluctuations were irregular, owing partly to evening-up of March contracts in advance of notice day. The business included exchanges from March to May at 28 points and from March to July at 40 points; but there was covering as well as liquidation of the near month and after selling at 7.80c early March rallied to 7.85c, compared with 7.83c at the close on Tuesday. Later months opened 1 to 4 points higher and the general list closed net unchanged to 4 points higher. The local spot market was quiet and unchanged at 8⅝c for Rio 7s and 10½c for Santos 4s.

SUGAR.

There was no change in raw sugar prices and for the first time in weeks no sales were reported by the committee. Prices were quoted at 4.985c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal.

In refined business is still being restricted, although it was said that some of the refiners were making fair deliveries and it was expected that since a considerable amount of raw sugar has been purchased by the committe conditions in refined should soon assume more normal proportions. Some of the refiners are said to be working on Government orders, while others are distributing through a much larger territory. Pices were unchanged at 7.45c for fine granulated.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 11,333 packages, including 500 packages in transit for export. Fresh creamery continues to accumulate, and under increasing pressure to sell prices are again lower and unsettled. Most grades of creamery declined ½c and stock is offering freely at the lower rates. Moderate trading in held creamery chiefly at 47c. Renovated steady. Ladles and packing stock dull. EGGS.—3,713 cases. The needs of the market are still being supplied from hand to mouth. There is practically no reserve stock, and daily requirements are dependent upon daily deliveries. There is a good deal of stock due and overdue, and deliveries continue slow and unsatisfactory. All the stock available up to the close Tuesday was promptly absorbed, and early yesterday the quantity available was hardly sufficient for urgent wants. Prices were fully sustained, and in a few instances some further advance was paid, but most receivers are willing to sell what they have at the quotations given, or even for less, as soon as concessions become necessary to insure a prompt clearance. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 63½c; extra firsts, 62@63c; firsts, 62c; seconds, 61@61½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 65c; ordinary to good, 63@64c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 63@64c; Pacific Coast whites, No. 1, 63c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 62@63c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 64@65c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 62@63c; Long Island duck eggs, 65@66c.

THE COTTON MARKET

After opening at a further advance on Tuesday's big gains, and marking quotations up 30 or 40 points further in a booming morning session, the local cotton market abruptly fell apart in the afternoon, and dropped back almost as fast as it had advanced, closing easy at practically the low level of the day, with prices ranging from 1 point below to 19 points above Tuesday's closing quotations. The new crop months, as has recently been the rule, held relatively strong. March, however, after opening at 30.80c and rocketing up to 31.22c, fell back to 30.75c, a point below Tuesday's close, and May started at 30.48c, rose to 30.87c, and closed at 30.47c.

It was one of the biggest trading days the Exchange has seen in a long time. A single broker at the ringside estimated, before checking up his day's business, that he had handled transactions aggregating 35,000 bales. A remarkable feature, moreover, was the absence of any considerable outside developments affecting the trading, the course of the market being apparently the result primarily of conditions in the trade and the position of the market itself. An exception to this, perhaps, was the late report that the House Committee on Agriculture is about to begin work on a price-fixing bill, but the trade has heard so many contradictory reports on this subject lately that they are all beginning to lose weight.

During the early morning hours the bidding was so eager and the responses so few that it looked as though the entire ring was buying. Most of it, however, it appeared, was due to short covering and buying by room traders, although the trade bought a little cotton in the first hour or so. A number of stop-loss orders on the short side were uncovered, but as soon as prices reached levels sufficient to induce the making of new contracts by Southern firms, the edge was taken off the advance. The room traders hurried to take their profits, and although the trade bought a little more on a scale down, it was not enough to check the resulting fall.

March notices may be issued today, but it is not considered probable, in view of the state of the market, that many will be offered. The Southern spot situation remains unchanged, with quotations yesterday reported unchanged to 37 points higher. Exports reported yesterday totaled 7,791 bales, or 2,633,124 so far this season, against 3,980,262 a year ago.

Although formal action has not yet been taken, it was learned yesterday that consideration was being given to the proposal for a merger of the Central Trust Company and the Union Trust Company. Officials of both institutions are reluctant to discuss the matter at this time, but they do not deny that there was a possibility of an amalgamation.

The Central Trust Company is capitalized at $3,000,000; has a surplus and undivided profits of more than $15,000,000 and deposits of approximately $171,000,000. Its President is James N. Babcock, Dudley Olcott, Jacob H. Schiff, George W. Davison, James N. Jarvie, James N. Wallace, James C. Brady, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and Frederick Strauss.

The Union Trust Company is capitalized at $3,000,000; has a surplus of $5,000,000, and deposits of about $80,000,000. Its President is Edwin G. Merrill, who was formerly a Vice President of the Central Trust Company. The Trustees are: W. Emlen Roosevelt, Augustus W. Kelley, Charles H. Tweed, William Woodward, John V. B. Thayer, Walter P. Bliss, Frederic de P. Foster, James Gore King, Edwin G. Merrill, M. Orme Wilson, V. Everit Macy, William H. Nichols, Jr., Ernest Iselin, Richard Delafield, Francis M. Weld, J. Y. G. Walker, James Brown, Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Johnston de Forest.

The Central Trust maintains a branch at Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue, and the Union Trust has two branches, one at Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street, and the other at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. Both institutions have been long established, enjoy the highest reputation and have an unusually desirable clientele.

PRESSED STEEL CAR EARNS $44,034,844

Gross Sales Up $12,824,178, but Final Balance Declines $620,844 —Labor Conditions Blamed.

The Pressed Steel Car Company, in its report for 1917, issued yesterday, reflected in a decline of profits the effect of insufficient material and labor. While gross sales of $44,043,844 were $12,824,178 greater than in 1916, the final balance of $2,130,806 for dividends was down $620,844. After paying the preferred stock dividend, the surplus for the junior shares was equal to $10 each, compared with $15 the year before. The statement made no reference to reserves for excess profits taxes. The profit and loss surplus at the end of the year was $10,597,377, a gain of $380,808.

F. N. Hoffstot, President, informed the stockholders, in his annual statement, that a matter of grave importance at this time, in his opinion, was the migratory disposition of workmen.

"Labor conditions have been most difficult," he said, "and we can no better illustrate this than by the statement that during the year we employed four men for every job; that is, each employe averaged only three months' service with us. This changing of employment slows down production and tends to make high costs."

In discussing the freight congestion, Mr. Hoffstot said:

"It has been our firm belief that if adequate provision had been made for equipment and terminal facilities in the past to keep pace with the country's increase of tonnage, there would not have been this desperate freight congestion, nor would the cost of labor and materials have advanced so rapidly. For example, the tonnage capacity for steel ingots has increased from 30,000,000 tons in 1912 to 50,000,000 tons in 1917, and, so far as we are able to definitely ascertain, there were less cars available in 1917 than six years ago."

The report said that about 10,000 cars were built by the company and that $30,000,000 of the gross earnings was accounted for by car manufacturing. The balance came from forgings, shell, and general repair work. Wages increased 50 per cent., but at the same time efficiency decreased 50 per cent.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Following a good deal of irregularity in the course of prices during the day, the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange tended to heaviness in the final dealings. The day's price movement was dominated to an important extent by the Russian news. The market at the start generally lost ground, with some of the declines quite decided. A rally, however, ensued, but, later, the market became irregular and nervous in tone. The breadth and activity of the market for odd lots on the floor continued a feature of the dealings.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Washington Heights properties figured prominently in yesterday's real estate market, the business being enlivened by the sale of four apartment houses.

Benjamin Winter of Winter Realty, Inc., purchased for all cash above the mortgages the six-story apartment known as the Falkland, at the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 181st Street, on a plot 125 by 125; also the Falkirk, a similar property, at the northeast corner of Haven Avenue and 180th Street, on a plot 125 by 100, and the two six-story walk-up apartment houses at the southeast corner of Broadway and 184th Street, on a plot 75 by 103. The four properties show an aggregate rent roll of about $80,000, and were held by the seller, the Great Northern Construction Company, at $650,000. Samuel Ginsberg was the broker in the transaction. Morris E. Gossett, as attorney, represented the purchaser.

Mr. Winter controls eleven apartment houses on the upper west side under lease, and the present transaction marks his entry into the real estate field as an owner.

Nestlé's Food Company, now occupying several floors in the Woolworth Building, leased for a long term of years the ten upper floors and also the basement of the twelve-story office building now being completed at 130 to 134 William Street, between John and Fulton Streets, on a plot containing about 38,000 square feet. The aggregate rental will involve about $1,000,000. The Charles F. Noyes Company and Manning & Trunk were the brokers in the transaction.

Edward I. Shire, architect, prepared the plans for the building, which is being erected by the Thompson-Starrett Company. It is owned by a company of which Isidor Kahn is President.

Frederick Brown has resold to W. C. Hanton the five-story twenty-family apartment house at 710 West 179th Street, on a plot 50 by 92.6, between Broadway and Fort Washington Avenue.

In part payment the buyer gave the tract of twenty-three acres, known as the Hanton property, at Northport, L. I. The transaction involved about $100,000, and was negotiated by A. M. Crowe. Mr. Brown acquired the apartment last month from the Benenson Realty Company.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The cyclonic depression of Tuesday evening has moved to Newfoundland and is rapidly passing eastward, while a second depression of little intensity as yet is approaching the California Coast and a strong anticyclone is centred over the Missouri Valley, with pressure slightly above 31 inches and a temperature about 20 degrees below zero.

General rains have fallen in the last twenty-four hours in Atlantic Coast districts and the East Gulf States, and there has been snow along the Great Lakes.

The greatest fall in temperature, 40 to 50 degrees, was experienced in the Upper Ohio Valley and the lower Lake region, but there has been a general fall to the southwestward, extending into Western Texas.

The weather in the Washington forecast district during the next forty hours will be fair and moderately cold and the low temperatures will doubtless continue in Atlantic Coast districts until the end of the week. In the lower Ohio Valley and the upper Lake region the weather will begin to moderate Friday.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND FRIDAY.

3 A. M.	38	52	4 P. M.	42	40
6 A. M.	37	57	6 P. M.	40	35
9 A. M.	38	53	9 P. M.	37	24
12 M.	39	45	11 P. M.	32	17

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 38; for the corresponding date last year it was 36; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 31.

STRICKEN BY FUMES ODORLESS, INVISIBLE

HEALTH BUREAU MYSTIFIED

One hundred and forty-three persons employed in a loft building at 115 West Thirtieth Street have been overcome during the last two days by fumes the nature of which have not been determined. One man was sent to Bellevue Hospital, and the others, after receiving medical treatment at the building, went home. Health Department officials have tried to discover the origin of the fumes without success, and it was hinted last night that Secret Service men would be asked to investigate.

There is a uniform manufacturing concern, the Progressive Uniform Company, doing Government work on the ninth floor of the building, and it is regarded as peculiar that the effect of the fumes was only noticeable on the floors above the ninth.

One company, Friedman & Rosen, manufacturers of waists, was compelled to stop work yesterday because so many of its employes were affected.

The trouble was first noticed on Tuesday, shortly after a consignment of goods was received at the building for the Progressive Uniform Company. In the lot were 200 rolls of khaki and olive drab wool cloth for uniforms. The material came from a sponging concern in Sixth Avenue. An inquiry will be made to discover whether or not the dyes used in the cloth might have caused the trouble.

Two elevator men in the building, who assisted in delivering the goods, became ill and went home. As the afternoon progressed several other persons employed on the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth floors were overcome.

Yesterday morning, when work began, the fumes became so overpowering that the police were summoned. Patrolman John Fleming found a score or more persons ill, but he did not discover the origin of the fumes.

The policeman sent in a call to the New York Hospital and the physician, who responded treated those affected and advised them to go home. Two hours later so many more persons had been overcome that a second call was sent to the hospital, and Dr. Weinthrop, who came, tried to find the origin of the gases. When he was unsuccessful and more men and women were being overcome, the physician called the Board of Health.

The Health Commissioner sent Dr. H. J. Blumensohn, an expert on noxious gases and their effects. Dr. Blumensohn and several detectives from Headquarters made a systematic search over the building. They found that a furrier's esttablishment on the first floor had ammonia pipes leading from the basement, fumes from which had asphyxiated five cats in the basement, but these fumes could not be traced above the first floor.

Floor by floor the officials continued their investigation with no results beyond discovering that effects of the fumes had been noticed just after the consignmentof goods had been received by the uniform company. Late yesterday afternoon the investigation was concentrated upon an effort to learn if the fumes originated on the ninth floor. It was revealed that no one below that floor had been made ill.

A curious thing which the physicians noticed about the fumes was that while they could be detected by a sensation in the throat and the roof of the mouth, yet there was no odor and nothing visible.

FIND SUBSTITUTE FOR OPIUM AS MEDICINE

Johns Hopkins Instructor Tells of Discovery of New Treatment for Asthma and Other Diseases.

The discovery of a new therapeutic agent as a substitute for medicines derived from opium and used in the treatment of asthma, dysentery, intestinal colic, and other diseases was announced yesterday by Dr. David I. Macht, instructor in pharmacology at Johns Hopkins University, at the eighty-ninth meeting of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, held at City College.

Use of opium in the treatment of asthma and other diseases has toxic effects and causes the muscles to contract, thus preventing their normal functioning, but, according to Dr. Macht, the new agent relaxes the muscles, giving to the patient the same beneficial effects as opium derivatives without ill effects.

The new agent is known as benzyle benzolate. Taken internally as benzyle acetate it is less objectionable in taste. It is a common substance, and a coal tar derivative. Dr. Macht said that the new discovery has met with the approval of Dr. Brown, head of the Intestinal Clinic of Johns Hopkins University Hospital.

After making his discovery Dr. Macht said he tested it on animals, then on himself, and, later, on students at the clinic, and the reactions were favorable.

ROOSEVELT TAKES EXERCISE

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who is convalescing from an operation at the Roosevelt Hospital, was so far recovered yesterday that he was able to take longer walks about his room than he did on Tuesday. No bulletins on the Colonel's condition were issued. His physicians said he was making expected progress and no setback was looked for.

None but immediate members of his family were permitted to see the patient yesterday. Among the callers at the hospital were George B. Cortelyou, Admiral Albert Gleaves, Joseph B. Bishop, Albert Schermerhorn, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Oscar S. Straus.

ENRIGHT WANTS 1000 FIRST LINE RESERVES

REGULARS TO TRAIN THEM

Police Commissioner Enright yesterday elaborated upon his plan to have in the reorganized Reserve Police Force a "first line" unit of about 1,000 men between the ages of 19 and 28, who would take all emergency and extra patrol work when only a few men were needed, and who would prepare themselves in this training for places in the regular police. The Commissioner said yesterday that his plan for this unit was that the men should be armed with regulation pistols and clubs, wear the regular police uniform of blue when on active service, and should have all the equipment and powers of a regular patrolman.

Although he proposed the plan in part at the meeting of the commissioned officers of the old Home Defence League at Police Headquarters on Tuesday the Commissioner said nothing about arming 1,000 men chosen from the ranks of the old Home Defence League. It was pointed out that his plan to arm 1,000 young men, practically untrained and undisciplined, might cause some alarm, unless a strict examination of the men was held first, or unless the weapons were to be in the possession of these special policemen only when they were doing actual police work.

It was pointed out also that if there were no strict examination many men dangerous to the public welfare who could not obtain permits to carry weapons in any other way might become members of this emergency service unit and at once have the right to bear weapons.

Commissioner Enright said that unusual precautions would be taken by the Board of Control of the league to prevent unfit persons from obtaining places in this new unit, and that the men were to be picked from the old units of the Home Defense League. He said he thought such a special force of recruits ready for the regular police force would add greatly to the efficiency of the regulars.

He said it was his idea to give the men in the first line reserve unit a training of about three years and then to permit them to take the examinations for places in the regular police if they wished. In that period of training, with occasional special work under the supervision of older men in the regular force, he said, the men would become familiar with the duties of a patrolman. This "school for recruits" would attract men to the force, the Commissioner said, and they would advance rapidly when they did become members, because of their thorough training.

Some of the men who wished to take the police examinations might take additional courses in the regular school at Police Headquarters, the Commissioner said, and in addition to their emergency patrol work with the first line reserve. Trained policemen from the regular force would instruct the reserves, the Commissioner said, so that they would be ready immediately for any service. Commissioner Enright said he expected that the new Board of Control of the reserve force would choose the men at their first meeting.

BOGUS MARQUIS ARRAIGNED.

Edmond Rousselot, alias Marquis di Cassilot, the young Frenchman who posed as the intimate friend and personal representative in this country of King Alfonso of Spain, pleaded not guilty before Judge Edwin S. Thomas, in the Federal District Court yesterday, to several indictments charging him with the forgery of an American warship pass, for impersonating a French official, and for obtaining $500 under false pretenses from W. E. D. Stokes of the Hotel Ansonia. To each count in the indictment Rousselot entered a plea of not guilty, and it now seems probable that he will decide to face a jury.

Assistant United States District Attorney Laurence H. Axman, who is in charge of the case for the Government in the event the case goes to a jury, will present in evidence a certified record of Rousselot's activities prior to his immigration to this country in 1912. This record shows that he served a term in an English jail for the theft of automobile tires, and that he also was arrested and convicted of the larceny of an overcoat. Before he went to England he was in trouble in France. In the records of Scotland Yard Rousselot's number is "A-2472."

Goal of $100,000 Expected to be Pledged Today.

This is the final day of a week's campaign by the Boy Scouts of America to raise $100,000 to extend their activities in this city and to enlist 400 scoutmasters. It was said at the campaign headquarters last night that $25,300 in subscriptions had been received, exclusive of contributions obtained through the Corn Exchange Bank and its branches, and the Life Underwriters' Association of New York. Eleven contributions of $1,000 each have been received, one being sent in yesterday by Charles H. Sanford. It was said that eighty-five applicants had offered their services as scoutmasters.

Boy Scouts to the number of 11,000 today will engage in a house-to-house and office-to-office canvass to get subscriptions and scoutmasters. Contributions may be sent to headquarters at 59 Wall Street, to the Guaranty Trust Company, and to the branches of the Corn Exchange Bank. It was said at the campaign headquarters that the indications were that by tonight the $100,000 would be pledged.
